BY ARTHUR EVANS.

From Indiana came a cry yesterday that if Illinois delays voting on repeal of prohibition until next year it will have a dampening effect on the campaigns in Indiana and other states to elect conventions to ratify the 21st amendment which repeals the 18th.

This development served as a curtain raiser for a concentration by the repealist leaders upon Springfield, as the lawmakers took the trains last night, to get the legislature to pass a bill this week to provide for the election of repeal delegates June 5, at the time of the judicial elections.

Calls Delay Slap at Roosevelt.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly came out with a declaration that neglect of the general assembly to provide for a speedy election on ratification would be a slap at the Roosevelt administration. Meanwhile the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform issued a tabulation of the responses they have received from downstate bench candidates indicating they are preponderantly unopposed to submission of the repeal issue June 5.

Shortly before Col. Ira L. Reeves of the Crusaders left for Springfield a delegation from Indiana besought him to lay down the argument that repeal by other states will suffer if Illinois dawdles further.

"The delegation," said Col. Reeves, pointed out that Indiana is to elect delegates to a ratifying convention June 6. The members said the Indiana campaign would be materially injured if Illinois should lag behind. Illinois has been a leading repealist state. If it should postpone action for a year the effect would be most deleterious in other states.

"If Illinois lags, what could be expected of states like Wyoming and Idaho? The movement to delay at Springfield has all the earmarks of being inspired by the drys."

Plan Action on Bill Today.

The program as it now stands aims at passage by the state senate today of the bill calling for the election of repeal delegates in April, 1934, and sending it through second reading in the house. The aim is to amend it in the house tomorrow to advance the election of delegates to next June 5, and pass the bill in the house Thursday. Thence it would go to joint conference for adoption by the senate of the house amendment.

Last week the senate in voting for a year's delay pulled as an alibi a report that judicial candidates are opposed to a vote on repeal on June 5, on the ground it would bring out a greater vote than usual at a judicial election. The alibi began to wobble yesterday when the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform gave out the results of its canvass of the judicial candidates downstate. Mrs. Leslie Wheeler and Mrs. William H. Mitchel, co-chairmen of the Illinois division, and Mrs. George E. Brennan, head of the political action committee, sent telegrams asking how the candidates stand.

22 to 5 for June 5 Vote.

Up to the time the women left for Springfield twenty-seven replies from candidates for the Circuit court downstate had been received. There are eighty-four Republican and Democratic nominees in the seventeen downstate circuits. The twenty-seven answers so far received were listed by the women as follows:

For submission of repeal June 5.....18
Not opposed to a repeal vote June 5..... 4

Favorable or not averse to June 5.....22

SIX POINT TAX PLAN CARRIES HOPE OF COUNTY

Traylor Warns of Impending Crisis.

Teachers Demand Pay

The demand of Chicago public school teachers for their back pay developed these phases yesterday:

Five thousand teachers, engaged in an all day demonstration in downtown streets, besieged the five large loop banks and in conferences with bank officials made their request that the bankers arrange a federal loan so that school salary arrears might be met.

Later the teachers stormed a tax collection conference of public officials in Mayor Kelly's office at the city hall and were addressed by Gov. Horner, who told them everything possible was being done for them, but was unable to quiet their shouts.

Last night President Taylor of the school board announced that he would confer today with Supt. Bogan on a plan to close the schools within the next two or three weeks, possibly six weeks before the scheduled end of the term. Details on page 8.

Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly yesterday gave leaders of the legislature the program of their respective administrations for the financial salvation of Chicago governments. Their recommendations were accompanied by a warning from Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, who told the legislators:

"Unless people pay their taxes this government is going to break down. The custom of selling a few tax warrants now and then is like the proverb of the frog which took one jump ahead and slipped back two. I know that there are some taxpayers who cannot pay, but I believe that 50 per cent of the $271,000,000 of taxes now unpaid can be paid within sixty days if pressure is put on the delinquents."

Deal with Tax Dodgers.

The keystone of the legislative program is the most drastic series of proposals yet made for dealing with tax dodgers and bringing in delinquent taxes. Mr. Traylor and others warned the legislators that the program must go through if a breakdown of government in Cook county is to be averted.

For the benefit of downstate legislators it was pointed out that the government of Illinois itself is endangered, through the inability of downstate taxpayers to carry any longer the deficits imposed upon them by the failure to collect Cook county taxes.

Assembly Leaders Present.

Speaker Arthur Roe and Minority Leader David E. Shanahan of the house, and Senators Richey V. Graham and Richard J. Barr, majority and minority leaders in the senate, were among those present. Also there was practically the entire Cook county delegation to the legislature.

The meeting was held in Mayor Kelly's office, while a crowd of demonstrating school teachers yelled and booed in the next room. Out of the various statements in the meeting inside there arose a clear understanding of when the various local governments may sell enough tax warrants to give teachers and other public employes the pay arrears due them, now totaling nearly $60,000,000.

The tax warrants will be sold when banks and other investors are satisfied as to their security. The first step to assure that security is to collect the taxes.

Program of Six Measures.

The administration program for tax collection, which, from the comments of the legislators as they left the meeting, should have easy sailing at Springfield, consists of six measures. Some are now pending in the legislature. Others were presented yesterday by Hayden N. Bell, head of the tax department of the state's attorney's office, and approved yesterday. The six are:

1. Authority for the appointment of receivers for delinquent properties, to collect their rents and income to apply on overdue tax bills. The Skarda bill now in the legislature.

The Spanish prisoner who so frequently looks for an American Don Quixote is on the hunt again.

For those who may not remember him, the Spanish prisoner is always in jail for some trivial crime. Also he always has a fortune hidden away. This fortune he will share with the kindly American who is willing to cable, without further delay, a sum sufficient to get him out of his jail. Crime experts estimate that at least 100,000 Spanish prisoners have been bailed out, but that none of the American helpers has ever received the promised award.

Yesterday Dr. William A. Evans, THE TRIBUNE'S health editor, received a letter inviting him to assist a 1933 model prisoner at Calaf, Spain. This one asserted he was held there for bankruptcy, but that he had a suitcase in which two checks for 360,000 American dollars were concealed. If Dr. Evans would send him enough to pay his trial expenses, he added, he would give the doctor $120,000.

Dr. Evans is willing to send the prisoner advice on what to eat and how to exercise, but announced he is not going to send any money. He has heard of other Spanish prisoners.

Bandit Shoots Captor as His Pal Confesses

Angered because a confederate had confessed and implicated him in a murder during a bank holdup, a tough young hoodlum wrested a pistol from a policeman in the detective bureau last night and attempted to shoot his way to freedom.

The first bullet he fired struck Sergt. George Tucker, owner of the pistol, in the right ankle. Before the gunman could fire again Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief of the state's attorney's investigators, overpowered him. As he was led away with his arms tightly pinioned, the youth shouted:

"It's a bum rap. That's what burns me up. I hope I can kill you all."

Arrested With Two Others.

John Scheck, 20 years old, 5040 Wellington avenue, is the gunman. With Carl Grundhofer, 20 years old, 3307 North Keating avenue, and Frank Keglewitz, 24 years old, 2831 Normandy avenue, Scheck was arrested in front of his home yesterday by Sergt. Tucker and Sergt. John Kelly of the bureau.

The trio were taken to showup of prisoners early in the evening. Scheck and Grundhofer were identified by two witnesses as participants in a holdup of the National Bank of Niles Center on April 7. In the robbery the bank cashier, Harry Mueller, was fatally wounded. He died two days later in St. Francis hospital, Evanston.

Confronted by the accusers, Scheck maintained a bold and nonchalant attitude. With Grundhofer it was different. He announced that he wanted to tell the whole truth about the robbery. Capt. Gilbert and Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Moynihan told him they would listen.

Robber Tells His Story.

"Scheck and I have been friends for a long time," said Grundhofer. "We used to be amateur actors, playing in all the neighborhood theaters. And we were pretty good. We could take any part they gave us and do it fine. Then we decided to try a stickup or two. Scheck, Frank Keglewitz, myself, and a fellow named Hodd made up the gang.

"Our first job was out at 3314 Milwaukee avenue, where we stuck up the Realty Management company and got some money and a watchman's pistol. Then we went to the Niles Center bank. Scheck and Hodd went in first. Frank stayed out in the car. I went in last, carrying an automatic shotgun.

"Scheck scooped up the money while Hodd kept the people in the bank quiet. Right after I went in the cashier, Mueller, came in. He had been out buying a cigar; I read that in the papers. Well, I didn't want to shoot him, but he tried to pull my gun away from me and it went off accidentally. That's what killed Mueller, an accident.

"We got $4,800 in that stickup. That is, John Scheck, my old actor friend, got it. But when we divided up the dough at his home he said there was only $3,000. We took $750 apiece and John hid out the other $1,800. That's why I'm squealing."

Scheck and Keglewitz told Grundhofer to his face that he was lying. Capt. Gilbert ordered Sergt. Tucker to take Scheck to a cell. The questioning had been done in the office of Capt. Matthew Zimmer on the fourth floor and Tucker and Scheck had barely passed the door into the corridor when the prisoner made his daring move for freedom and shot Tucker.

Grundhofer asked Capt. Gilbert, as a favor, that he be allowed to go home and tell his story to his mother.

"I want her to know," he said, "that I didn't want to kill the banker."

The favor was promised him.

IDLE PUT ON 'MADE JOBS' STRIKE FOR 5 HR. DAY, 5 DAY WEEK

Madison, Wis., April 24.—[Special.]—About 30 of 90 men who were given work on Dane county idle relief projects near Madison, today began a strike for a five hour day and a five day week. Their argument was that they would not work the full eight hours specified just to obtain county relief funds which are given to other persons who do not work.

At noon about a third of the total group provided with "made work" walked from their assignments and went home. This induced Frank Stewart, chairman of the county board, to threaten refusal of county relief to persons who will not work the number of hours prescribed by the county welfare committee.

"It is my duty to instruct the welfare department of the county to refuse aid to any physically fit person or persons refusing to work at least eight hours per day during the present emergency," Stewart said.

The strike for shorter hours is being conducted by the Unemployed league of Dane county which operates "squad cars," to look after the interests of members. Several of these cars patrolled highways near places where the idle men had been given work, but there were no disturbances.

A few disagreeable circumstances were reported in Stoughton, however, where the idle threatened to take over and operate county trucks to drive strikers home after they had worked five hours.

As a result, truck drivers transported to public works projects only those persons who said they would be willing to work a full eight hours.

FRANCE WANTS U. S. HELP IN HER SECURITY PACT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 24.—[Special.]—Friends of inflation predicted, and foes of inflation admitted, today that the administration's inflation amendment to the farm bill would be passed by the senate either Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

The war of words over the amendment broke loose on the senate floor. But more telling, so far as votes are concerned, were the words that came clicking in over the telegraph wires in response to the request of Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], inflation's arch opponent.

The Pennsylvania senator in a fervent speech last week prayed for a rain of messages from the citizenry, a rain of protest that would inundate the inflationary program. What he got was a storm, but one that will float the amendment and the farm bill along to a speedier passage than ever.

Deluge for Inflation.

"Nine out of ten of the messages were for inflation," explained a prominent Republican senator, whose stand somewhere between the ardent inflationists and the die-hard antis fitted him for the rôle of an unbiased calculator.

On any other issue, at any other time, the words with which Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.] opened the debate would have sent his more conservative colleagues scurrying for cover.

But a grimace of irritation on the face of Senator Reed was the only outward sign of distress as the slim, stubborn, silvery haired sponsor of the amendment began:

"It will be my task to show that if the amendment shall prevail it may transfer from one class to another value to the extent of almost 200 billion dollars. This value will be transferred from those who own the bank deposits and from those who own bonds and fixed investments.

Redistribution of Wealth.

"Two hundred billion dollars of wealth and buying power now rests in the hands of those who own the bank deposits and fixed investments, bonds and mortgages. That two hundred billion dollars these owners did not earn; they did not buy it, but they have it, and because they have it the masses of the people of this republic are on the verge of starvation—17 million on charity, in the bread lines.

"If the amendment carries and the powers are exercised in a reasonable degree, it must transfer that two hundred billion dollars in the hands of persons who now have it, who did not buy it, who did not earn it, who do not deserve it, who must not retain it, back to the other side, the debtor class of the republic."

Reed Voices Protest.

Senator Reed, whom the Democrats have accused of being the mouthpiece of the eastern moneyed interests, fidgeted, finally jumping to his feet.

"Did I understand correctly when I heard the senator say that the purpose of his amendment is to transfer 200 billion dollars of the wealth in America from the creditor to the debtor class?" Senator Reed demanded.

"Unless that is done," replied Senator Thomas, "the debtor class will not have substantial justice done to them."

Then the Oklahoman in his dry, precise voice sent the taunt across the room at the Pennsylvanian, intimate of Mellon, friend of Mills:

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., April 24.—[Special.]—The first disturbing note in the White House negotiations was struck tonight. Former Premier Edouard Herriot of France brought up the subject of repudiation of the war debts owed to the United States, also the question of America signing a consultative pact to help enforce the Kellogg anti-war treaty.

The impression created by the French envoy was that France is not disposed to enter into agreements on monetary stabilization, removal of trade barriers and other economic questions, slated to come before the approaching world economic conference in London, probably in July, without obtaining concessions to demands that the war debts be canceled and French security underwritten by the United States in conjunction with other powers.

Roosevelt Discusses Them.

Although President Roosevelt discussed these matters with M. Herriot it appears that he excluded them from the program of the negotiations which at the close of the conversation was submitted to the American and French experts for technical developments.

The President, as far as could be learned, did not commit himself to any course with regard to war debts and a consultative pact. He continued to insist that the war debts are secondary in importance to monetary and trade stabilization and that the consultative pact, which was indorsed by the Democratic platform, is a matter for discussion at the disarmament conference. Presumably Mr. Roosevelt is in favor of committing the United States to consult with other nations whenever there arises a violation of the Kellogg pact.

Follow MacDonald Talks.

Following the virtual conclusion of the Anglo-American conversations with an exchange of views which President Roosevelt and Prime Minister MacDonald pronounced mutually satisfactory, the Franco-American negotiations were initiated at 9 o'clock tonight in a private meeting between Mr. Roosevelt and M. Herriot.

The President led off by reading to M. Herriot a program in French presenting all the issues which Mr. Roosevelt conceives should be considered by the world economic conference. These questions included currency stabilization, removal of trade barriers and exchange restrictions, remonetization of silver, central bank policies and the raising of commodity price levels as a means of restoring purchasing power.

Neither war debt revision nor the consultative pact and disarmament were mentioned in this formal presentation of the issues. That document was identical with a statement in English with which Mr. Roosevelt opened his conversations with Mr. MacDonald. There followed a discussion between Mr. Roosevelt and M. Herriot into which the latter soon injected the topics which the President had excluded.

Calls Debts World Burden.

M. Herriot took the position that the burden of the war debts constitutes a bar to world economic recovery. He also asserted that France would stand squarely on the Lausanne pact reducing German reparations 90 per cent and the secret gentlemen's agreement that such reduction is contingent upon America's reducing the war debts an equal amount.

In raising the debt question M. Herriot acted upon instructions of the present French ministry which came into power in repudiation of his administration. M. Herriot as premier had urged payment of the 19 million dollars France was due to pay the United States last winter.

M. Herriot pressed the matter notwithstanding the fact that Secretary of State Cordell Hull recently suggested the unwillingness of the administration to discuss war debt reduction with defaulters.

In raising this unwelcome question at the outset the French envoy gave substance to the gossip that France is going to be the stumbling block in the path of the projectors of the world economic conference.

Suspect Secret Compact.

The French are reputed to suspect that the British and Americans have reached a secret understanding which is designed to accentuate the isolation of France contrived by British diplomacy working hand in hand with Germany and Italy.

The French were further embittered by America's desertion of the gold standard, thereby joining Britain and other depreciated currency countries and leaving France the only major power still on the gold basis.

Mr. Roosevelt and M. Herriot talked in private from 9 to 10:15 o'clock. At that time the French and American economic experts were called in. The President turned over to the experts the formal program which he had read to M. Herriot and the latter joined with him in directing the advisers to begin discussions at once to develop the technical aspects of the questions on the agenda.

For the time being, therefore, the French envoy consented to technical discussions from which the war debts are excluded. Such discussion of the war debts as took place was confined to the private talk between Mr. Roosevelt and M. Herriot, for the experts said they did not hear the matter mentioned while they were present.

Leaves Near Midnight.

The American experts left first and it was nearly midnight when M. Herriot and the French experts emerged from the White House. M. Herriot, being interrogated, told of the formal program Mr. Roosevelt had submitted.

"Did you talk about the war debts?" he was asked.

"Yes, we talked about everything," he replied, declining to go into details in response to further questioning.

The French envoy said that "President Roosevelt presented a program of all the issues to come before the economic conference. He presented it in concise form."

"What is your opinion of the President's program?" he was asked.

"You have a very charming President," smiled the Frenchman.

"Are you contented?"

"O, yes, sure. In this country you seem to work very late at night."

Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.], one of the American experts, said that in his opinion it would be found necessary for America, Great Britain, and France to reach an agreement on stabilization of currencies in advance of the economic conference.

Both Talk in French.

The Franco-American conversation was carried on entirely in French. M. Herriot speaks and understands English imperfectly, while Mr. Roosevelt speaks French fluently and they found they got on vastly better in that language.

Tomorrow morning Mr. Roosevelt will meet with Secretary of State Cordell Hull and the American experts and in the afternoon will hold his last business meeting with Mr. MacDonald and the British advisers. There will be a White House formal dinner tomorrow night in honor of M. Herriot and Mr. MacDonald, but this is to be purely a social affair. Members of the house and senate foreign affairs committees have been invited to join the White House party at 10:15 o'clock.

Might Shift World's Gold.

Devaluation of the dollar and the pound sterling in such manner as to redistribute the huge gold stocks of the United States and France was the principal proposal for stabilization of currencies put forward by the Americans in the sessions of American and British economic experts culminating today.

President Rosevelt and Prime Minister MacDonald announced that they had completed a satisfactory survey of the problems of economic recovery confronting the powers.

For Currency Devaluation.

The American monetary stabilization proposal may be summarized as follows:

1. Simultaneous devaluation of currencies.

2. Acceptance of the real value of each currency as a basis from which to start devaluation. Real value means the value which the currency will settle at on international exchanges without any support such as the British equalization fund.

3. Currencies to be devalued in such a way as to promote a redistribution of gold. Gold flows to those countries with relatively low values on their money. Therefore, countries poor in gold, such as Britain and Germany, would devalue their currencies more than countries such as America and France. This device is admittedly designed to siphon gold out of this country in order to stabilize foreign currencies.

Moley Called Scheme's Author.

The authorship of the American stabilization plan was attributed to Prof. Raymond Moley, assistant secretary of state and economic adviser to President Roosevelt. This Dr. Moley denied tonight, declining, however, to throw any light on its authorship or to discuss the plan in any way. It is said to have met with a favorable reception by the British experts.

If such a plan were adopted, the pound sterling might be revalorized at approximately $3.50, instead of $4.86, its value in America money before Great Britain went off the gold standard, while the dollar would be revalorized at about 85 or 90 cents.

It is to enable him to enter into an international agreement of this character that the President is seeking the authority of congress to reduce the gold content of the dollar not more than 50 per cent. Such authorization is one of the provisions of the pending administration inflation bill.

May Remonetize Silver.

The remonetization of silver by international agreement was another subject that occupied a prominent place in the discussions between the American and British economic experts. One proposal was that silver be included by a fixed ratio in the specie backing of currency. In this and many other countries, currency is backed by 40 per cent gold. It was suggested that requirement be changed to $5 per cent gold and five per cent silver.

Revision of the war debts was not listed by the President and Prime Minister MacDonald as among the subjects they have discussed up to date. In fact there is a well founded impression that the British are disposed not to press debt reduction pending stabilization of currencies.

MacDonald, Herriot Meet.

It is understood that the Anglo-American negotiations were rushed to a conclusion in order that they might not overlap unduly the Franco-American discussion.

Mr. MacDonald and M. Herriot came together for the first time at the White House at 6 o'clock tonight. They had a half hour's talk by appointment made earlier in the day.

The French chapter of the conversations opened late in the afternoon when M. Herriot called formally at the White House to pay his respects to the President.

At 5 o'clock Mr. Roosevelt and his daughter, Mrs. Curtis Dall, came out into the north portico of the White House. There they received Prime Minister Bennett of Canada who had come to make his formal call. Mrs. Roosevelt did not appear for this ceremony as in the case of the reception of Prime Minister MacDonald and his daughter, Ishbel, for the reason that Mr. Bennett was not accompanied by a woman.

First Lady and Ishbel Alike Yet Different in Hundred Ways

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 24.—[Special.]—Eleanor Roosevelt and Ishbel MacDonald are different in a hundred different ways.

They are also alike. And not simply because they both wear blue.

The wife of America's President and the daughter of England's premier have long walked similar paths to an interest in people and politics; to a concern for public education and social welfare.

But today in a very literal sense they were both so much alike that their paths crossed for but an hour—at the newspaper women's conference in the upper sitting room at the White House. For the rest of the crowded day Mrs. Roosevelt was so busy being the hospitable hostess and Miss MacDonald so busy being the gracious guest that neither woman saw the other.

Early this morning Mrs. Roosevelt went out for her customary before-breakfast horseback ride. Miss MacDonald, who's been on a horse about half a dozen times and who still remembers the stiffness that lingered after a ride at Rapidan four years ago, remained in her blue bedroom and wrote letters. When Mrs. Roosevelt returned to breakfast with her husband Miss MacDonald had gone off with her father to have breakfast with Senator and Mrs. Borah.

Meet at Press Conference.

While the MacDonalds were calling on Senator and Mrs. David Reed, Mrs. Roosevelt was keeping appointments at the White House. At 11:30 the hostess and guest met at the press conference.

Ishbel, on the sofa next her hostess, explained:

"Mrs. Roosevelt didn't butt in at my conference with you Saturday. I don't intend to butt in on hers today."

Then Miss MacDonald went off to luncheon at the Canadian legation and Mrs. Roosevelt entertained her mother-in-law's sewing class at luncheon. In the afternoon the Scotch girl went to tea with former Secretary of State Stimson and Mrs. Stimson and the President's wife held a series of teas at the White House.

At 4 Mrs. Roosevelt received the sea captains who have come here on the famous fishing and racing schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud, to present their plea for a tariff on fish. She showed them through the house and gave them lemonade [yes, lemonade] and cakes. They gave her a silver fish knife and fork for the President, an etching "The Return At Night," for herself.

Wins the Sea Captains.

"We didn't vote for 'em; but we would now, after seeing her."

At half past four she received a French friend here with the Herriot party and at five she served tea to a group of visiting women who had brought their children along. When she had put in the "lemon and one sugar, please" in their cups, she excused herself long enough to pay her respects to former Premier Herriot of France. Buck upstairs to give the ladies a second cup of tea; then downstairs to see that all arrangements had been made for the proper receiving of Prime Minister Bennett of Canada.

In the evening Ishbel put on a party gown and went to dine, formally, at the British embassy. Mrs. Roosevelt put on a dinner dress and went downstairs to dine, informally, in the family dining room.

BRITISH PLEASED WITH RESULTS OF WASHINGTON TRIP

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 24.—[Special.]—The British, to use their own phrase, have their tails up tonight. The conversations between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister MacDonald, and between their experts, have gone so unexpectedly well that they were able to announce tonight that the President and the prime minister had reviewed the substance of their discussions with deep satisfaction.

Nothing in the shape of decisions has been reached. It is obvious that no two nations can decide what is to be done by a conference of fifty or sixty nations. To try to do so would be to wreck the meeting in advance. What has been achieved has been the largest measure of agreement on the lines on which the conference should work to accomplish its end.

Price and Bank Policies.

The subjects which have been thus reviewed and discussed are the raising of world prices, central bank policies, monetary standards, exchange restrictions, and the improvement of the price of silver. Up to tonight international debts had not been mentioned in any of the official discussions.

Some arrangement about the June payment may be made before MacDonald leaves for home on Wednesday, but it is just as likely that will be left to Sir Ronald Lindsay to arrange. If America insists Britain will pay with reservations, but hopes, of course, for a postponement.

For Stabilized Exchange.

One of the chief planks in the long range policy which the experts have agreed, and which the President and prime minister both approve, is the stabilization of exchange ratios, but that cannot be done immediately. Obviously, the pound-dollar exchange cannot be fixed until it is known whether the President will get and exercise his powers to devalue the dollar's gold content and to what extent he will do that.

The one thing the experts want to avoid is the establishment of an arbitrary ratio which will break down again, or which will require constant government support to maintain it. Their plan is to let the market decide and then take steps to protect the ratio against bear attacks or other artificial economic or political dangers.

The franc also must be considered, and all the other major currencies as well.

Makes Trade Treaties.

The third leg of the triangle is the stabilization of world markets and prices. Britain already has done some work along that line by the series of commercial treaties with eighteen countries. None of these treaties is such as to exclude from their benefits the United States, or any other country that wishes to trade under similar conditions.

The prime minister had an informal talk with M. Herriot at the White House this afternoon, but the President was not present. It is not in the plan that any triangular conversations shall take place and there will be no three cornered meetings of experts.

Both American and British statesmen have their hearts set on the earliest possible meeting of the world economic conference and are still striving for July 15 as the date of meeting.

HERRIOT IS AWARDED MEDAL FOR HEROIC WORK AT LANDSLIDE

Prince Axel of Denmark also received a medal for saving a life in Sweden.

Two apartment houses were demolished in Lyons on May 10, 1932, and two score people were buried in the wreckage, many of whom died. Herriot, the mayor of Lyons, escaped death in another slide only by leaping to safety. He directed rescue operations.

France Insists U. S., Britain Fix Their Currencies First

PARIS, April 24.—(AP)—Although France agrees in principle with the American position that currencies should be stabilized "at their real value," financial quarters close to the government said today the cabinet is opposed to devalorizing the franc until the United States and Great Britain have moved for stabilization.

It must be made obvious, according to these informed commentators, that the franc is out of tune with other currencies, and that cannot be done until other nations have fixed the gold ratio.

Cabinet Meets Today.

The government, it was asserted, holds that the entire gold question can be settled at Washington if President Roosevelt and Prime Minister MacDonald will determine the ratio of the dollar to the pound, allowing France to decide later whether readjustment of the franc is necessary.

The French attitude toward stabilization is expected to be further clarified at tomorrow's cabinet meeting, to attend which three important ministers, whose departments are directly concerned, are returning to Paris. They are Finance Minister Georges Bonnet, Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour and Budget Minister Lucien Lamoreux.

Government experts were represented as feeling that a world disaster would result from a battle between the American dollar and the British pound. They recognize also, it was said, that it would be impossible for France to avoid becoming involved in such a conflict.

Recall Inflation of 1928.

Informed spokesmen said that the government's firm stand on the present gold standard was in response to public opinion, as the nation recalls that the franc was devalorized four-fifths in 1928 and will not stand for further devalorization unless events establish its necessity.

Belgium, Holland and Switzerland, as well as France itself, are staging their fight here in Paris to stay on gold. Seven airplanes arrived Sunday from Amsterdam, each carrying more than a ton and a half of gold, aggregating $12,000,000. Smaller shipments have been brought in for several days by train from Belgium and Switzerland.

France now has $1,000,000,000 francs worth of gold, which is about $3,250,000,000, or 29 per cent of the world's supply. The United States has about $4,250,000,000, or 38 per cent.

Schacht to Sail May 1.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 24.—For four hours the politico-economic department of the cabinet today discussed the advisability of rushing Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, to the United States to confer with President Roosevelt on fixing the value of the German mark in relation with the dollar and the pound sterling. It was decided that Schacht should postpone the trip until May 1, since even if he sails on the fastest liner he cannot reach Washington in time to confer with Roosevelt, Prime Minister Mac Donald, and former Premier Herriot.

Dr. Schacht will help Hans Luther, German ambassador in Washington, in preparing for the world economic conference. It is expected that a politician will accompany Schacht, but the cabinet has not yet agreed on a choice.

BRITISH AGAIN OPEN ISSUE OF REPUDIATED SOUTHERN U. S. BONDS

LONDON, April 24.—(AP)—The old Anglo-American sore of the repudiated debts of the southern American states was reopened today in the 59th annual report of the British Corporation of Foreign Bondholders, in which the name of President Roosevelt was mentioned.

The report said holders of repudiated American bonds "may well recall the words recently used by President Roosevelt in another connection: 'These debts were actually loans made under the distinct understanding and with the intention that they would be repaid.'"

The report also said:

"The council is informed that two politicians of the debt repudiating state of Mississippi, Senator Pat Harrison and Representative Collier, are conspicuous as uncompromising opponents of any remission of contractual foreign governmental indebtedness. Attention has been drawn repeatedly to the inconsistency of the principles which they enunciate with the practice of their state in continuing to repudiate their own bonds."

HELD FOR ROBBERY.

Adonis Macklin, Charles Zimmerman, Willie Windham, Anton Salton and Agnew Willis, the latter two Negroes, were held to the grand jury yesterday by Municipal Judge John F. Haas on charges of robbing several small stores.

Pleads Need of Operation as His Motive for Robbery

George Thompson, 22 years old, of Benton Harbor, Mich., was arraigned yesterday before Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court on eight charges of robbery. "I needed money to have a sinus operation performed," he told the judge. "I tried to get into the county hospital, but it was too crowded." He was held to the grand jury in bonds of $30,000.

MOVE TO BAN WAR FEATURES FROM CIVIL AIRPLANES

U. S. Joins Three Powers in New Scheme.

GENEVA, Switzerland, April 24.—(AP)—Concrete measures to prevent misuse of civil airplanes for military purposes have been presented by the United States, Canada, Argentina and Japan to the disarmament conference, which will resume tomorrow.

Many European delegates are showing a tendency to await the outcome of President Roosevelt's conversations in Washington before reaching any big decisions.

The United States, Canada, Argentina and Japan say they are unable to accept internationalization of civil aviation or international control over it. But if Europe wants such a scheme for Europe, they are willing to apply to themselves certain measures of control in the hope of allaying misgivings in Europe that civil aviation elsewhere might be dangerous.

What Four Powers Offer.

These measures are:

1. Prohibition of the incorporation of military feaures in any civil aircraft registered or constructed in any of the four nations.

2. Full publicity for all characteristics of their civil commercial aircraft.

3. A system of licenses for the export of all military and civil airplanes, with destination designated.

4. Regular reports to the disarmament commission.

The initial credit for this move to calm European fears belongs to Dr. Walter A. Riddell, Canadian delegate.

U. S. to Push Parley.

The British draft disarmament treaty, on which the discussion is to begin, allocates 500 military airplanes each to Britain, France, Italy, Japan, the United States and Russia, and none to Germany, which is forbidden to possess military airplanes by the treaty of Versailles.

Norman H. Davis, the American delegate, will exert efforts to put vigor into the conference. He and his American colleagues are convinced that agreements to reduce armaments will increase the chances for success of the world economic conference.

FIREMAN HURT; SIX RESCUED AS BUILDINGS BURN

Fireman Ralph Edmund, 54 years old, of Engine Company 108, was overcome by smoke last night while fighting a fire in Max Rodnick's Dry Goods store at 4803 Milwaukee avenue. He was revived and taken to his home at 6632 Hyacinth street. The fire caused $3,000 damage.

Earlier in the day five women and a man were carried down ladders from a burning three story apartment building at 801-03 Belmont avenue. Those rescued were Mrs. Josephine Ross, Miss Mildred Edwards, Miss Eldo Johnson, Mrs. Ida Johnson, Mrs. Maude Brown, and Ernest Johnson. No one was hurt.

The fire destroyed the rear porches of the building and spread to the front. Several of the women threatened to jump, but were dissuaded by Capt. John Lee of Engine Company 55 and Lieut. Michael Garrity of Truck Company 44, who, with their men, hoisted the ladders and carried them down to safety. About $4,500 damage was done to the building.

Hold Roadhouse Owner, Bartender as Robbers

Pierce Keegan, 40 years old, owner of "The Spotlight," a roadhouse at River and Higgins roads, south of Des Plaines, and Cliff Ryan, 26, his bartender, were held yesterday by Morton Grove county highway police as alleged robbers. They were identified by R. B. Stephenson, 2935 Sheffield avenue, as the gunmen who robbed him of $17 early yesterday morning in Morton Grove. Keegan and Ryan will be arraigned in Morton Grove court on Thursday.

TODAY IS BUDGET DAY IN BRITAIN; NO TAX RELIEF

High Levy on Incomes to Be Continued.

BY EUGENE SPECK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 24.—Tomorrow afternoon the British taxpayer will know what hope for relief the next fiscal year holds for his tattered pocketbook.

Parliament will reassemble then after its Easter vacation and the first order of business is the budget. Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, is reported to have agreed on the primary principles of the budget before Prime Minister MacDonald left for the United States. But, in accordance with the usual practice, the cabinet assembled in Downing street today to approve the final draft.

Tax reduction on any big scale appears a scant possibility tonight. Financial circles expect Chamberlain to reduce the tax on beer by two cents a pint, but all hope for a lower income tax has dwindled away. The usual welter of predictions have appeared, but there is also the usual official secrecy. Reliable opinion, however, hints that any subtraction off the 25 per cent income tax rate is out of the question.

May Raise Allowances.

What might be done is to relent on allowances for wives, children and other dependents, and a slight increase in the personal allowance might be permitted. This would serve to whittle down the assessments against smaller incomes, while allowing the treasury to benefit by virtually the same scale in the higher brackets.

A few new avenues of taxation are open which would provide sufficient revenue to enable Chamberlain to grant this relief. The financial district expects a duty on oil produced by foreign refineries and probably a tax on cider, which is swiftly replacing beer in many parts of the country. A heavy impost on trucks in accordance with a plan to equalize road and rail competition is also anticipated.

Ignore U. S. War Debt.

Many economists are urging the chancellor to suspend sinking fund payments for debt reduction in these extraordinary times. Linked with this is the budgetary provision for the war debt to the United States. The United States treasury probably will not be considered, however, especially in view of the possibility that the Washington conversations will lead to some adjustment of currencies.

The British are still plumping for war debt reduction, which they regard as having the same importance as a universal return to the gold standard, and the question of payment is likely to be left open in the budget.

Still on High

A half grown kitten, a stray, climbed Sunday into a tall tree in front of the home of J. V. Wasen, 5226 Kimbark avenue. Apparently it was unable to go into reverse and descend. So it spent Sunday night squalling in the topmost branches.

Yesterday Mr. Wasen asked the Hyde Park police to get the kitten down. Sergts. William Tapscott and Louis Olson, now known as the cat detail, went out to solve the problem. They were unable to do so, however, as the higher they climbed the higher the kitten climbed, and the little twigs wouldn't bear police weights.

Next the fire department was appealed to. The answer was that the department had given up cat rescues because a fireman broke his leg several years ago trying to get one out of a tree. It was then suggested that the animal be shot, but some well informed person suggested that the Illinois Humane society would object.

Early this morning the kitten was still high in the tree.

Estelle Taylor Awarded $20,000 in Auto Damage Suit

Hollywood, Cal., April 24.—[Special.]—Damages of $20,000 were awarded Estelle Taylor by a jury tonight after a week's trial of her suit for $150,000 against Frank Joyce, theatrical agent, and his chauffeur Neel L. Scott. The actress, who is Jack Dempsey's ex-wife, claimed the damages for injuries suffered in an auto accident when she was riding with Joyce on Christmas eve, 1931. The verdict was against the defendants jointly.

SABATH ENJOYS LUXURIOUS OFFICE IN MARBLE HALL

Britten, Reid, De Priest Also Get New Quarters.

Washington, D. C., April 24.—(AP)—When the folks from home see Representative Adolph J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.], in his office suite in the new house office building, they'll marvel at its luxuriousness.

Also occupying suites in the newly opened seven story marble palace will be Representatives Oscar De Priest, Edward A. Kelly, Leonard W. Schuetz, and Fred A. Britten, all of Chicago; Frank R. Reid, Aurora; J. Earl Major, Hillsboro; William W. Arnold, Robinson; Claude V. Parsons, Golconda, and Kent E. Miller, Ava.

Seniority Gives Him Edge.

Their offices are less magnificent than that of Sabath; but only because there was but one such finished. The Chicago representative was able to select the cream of the lot because he has more seniority than any of his colleagues entering the building.

Sabath's office staff moved his papers and books this week. His old place was a mere cubby hole behind the elevators on the second floor of the old building.

His new office has gold brocaded curtains, chandeliers of bronze and crystal and floors of inlaid oak.

Private Clothes Closet.

Off this is Sabath's private office. In addition to a pale blue divan, the chairs, a heavy oaken desk, a built-in safe, and built-in bookcases, is a private clothes closet.

Leading off this is an excellently equipped filing room, and down a little hall is a complete lavatory. Farther on is another large room which can be used as a bedroom, or a consultation hall. There is even a back door out of which Sabath can slip when the press of constituents becomes too great.

The suites of other Illinois representatives are only slightly less elaborate. They, too, have the large room for secretaries, the private offices, the lavatories, the filing rooms, although they lack the extra "living" room.

The whole building, which occupies a block, cost $7,400,000. The only thing unfinished is the radio system intended to bring debate on the floor of the house to each of the 251 congressional suites.

Use White Georgia Marble.

The building, of white Georgia marble on a pink granite base, is fireproof, but contains a fire alarm system so elaborate that electricians are still wondering if it will work.

The police signal system is even more complicated. Every policeman carries a small telephone in his pocket. This he can plug in anywhere along the hall and talk to his chief downstairs. The chief can look at a callboard just to see if the officer is talking from where he claims he is.

There are lobbies in the building which outclass that of a Grand hotel. In the committee rooms are fireplaces, magnificent views of the Potomac river, and candelabra on which the American eagle is etched in bronze.

The elevators are veritable jewel boxes of gold and shining walnut. In the court is a grassy patio with a gold fish pond, beautiful evergreens, and an excellent lawn.

As one Illinois congressman—a newcomer doomed to remain in the old office building—remarked:

"There's a campaign issue in every suite. Please announce to my constituents that I'm not going to be in the palace."

MAY LIQUIDATE ILLINOIS LIFE IF CONTRACT FAILS

Objections Block Plan for Reinsurance.

Strenuous opposition to the reinsurance contract offered policyholders of the Illinois Life Insurance company by James S. Kemper company, insurance engineers, developed yesterday at a hearing on the contract before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Besieged with objections from three sides, Judge Wilkerson finally indicated that, unless the Kemper proposal went through, he would be compelled to order a liquidation of Illinois Life for the benefit of creditors, leaving the policyholders to divide the comparatively little cash that might be realized at a forced sale.

Receiver O.K.'s Contract.

The Kemper contract, which has the indorsement of the court's receiver, Gen. Abel Davis, calls for $500,000 of new capital and a $750,000 surplus to be paid in. The opposition is making much of the fact that the Kemper plan calls for a loan of $3,000,000 of $4,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, with present Illinois Life assets to be pledged as collateral.

In response to a question by the court, Attorney Donald Defress of the Kemper company's counsel, admitted that no definite assurance of the loan could be obtained from the R. F. C. until the contract had been validated by the court. The Stevens family, former operators of Illinois Life, had sought a similar loan, which the R. F. C. refused.

Attorney David D. Stansbury, advocate of a reorganization plan on a mutual basis, wherein the company would offer straight insurance without policy loans or cash surrender values, told the court he had been trying to subpoena Mr. Kemper to the witness stand for three days, and asked that he be summoned.

Kemper to Appear Monday.

The judge declared that Mr. Kemper need not testify unless he desired. Attorney Defress announced, however, that Mr. Kemper would be in court and available for questioning if called when the hearing resumes next Monday.

Attorney James W. Milne, representing a group of Illinois Life agents and policyholders, attacked the Kemper plan as designed to yield the sponsors an unjust profit, saying: "The plan provides no check whatever on operating expenses. The sky is the limit. It is a calculated attempt to make tremendous profits at expense of the policyholders."

Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general, and Herbert J. Friedman, urged other mutualization plans on the court.

PRINCESS GRANTED DIVORCE, AND WEDS AMERICAN SAME DAY

Fayetteville, Ark., April 24.—(AP)—Princess Ami Rosso di Cerami, an American girl who married an Italian prince, today obtained a divorce and a few hours later gave up her title to become the bride of Henry Burnham Rudd of New York.

The bride is the former Ami Clapp, daughter of the late Edwin J. Clapp, educator and financier. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Rudd of Kansas City. He is a university of Illinois alumnus.

The princess came here three months ago to establish residence under this state's ninety day divorce law. She alleged in her petition for a divorce from Prince Domenico Rossi di Cerami that the prince was "inordinately interested in racing automobiles . . . and persisted in endangering his life driving them." That he would not learn English and demanded that she learn Italian and, though she tried, "communication and understanding between them was difficult."

Summertime came to Chicago yesterday. With winds blowing from the southwest, temperatures climbed and reached a maximum of 71 at 3 p. m. The day was the second warmest of the spring, 73 having been reached on April 10. The record high for the date was established at 87 in 1915. Forecaster C. A. Donnel expressed the opinion that today would be fair and cooler. A shift in the wind last night drove the mercury from 65 degrees at 9 o'clock into the low forties at midnight.

MILLER'S PAUPER PLEA ABANDONED; PAYS $2,000 FINE

"Diploma Mill" Operator Escapes Jail.

W. H. H. Miller, former director of the state department of registration and education, who pleaded that he was a pauper and unable to pay a $2,000 fine after he had finished serving a seven month jail term for operating a medical and dental diploma mill, yesterday paid the fine to George Seif, clerk of the Criminal court.

Supreme Court Denies Plea.

Payment of the fine or a return to jail to work it out was ordered recently when the state Supreme court denied Miller's petition for a pauper's writ.

Miller was sentenced in 1929 after a sensational trial in which it was proved that Miller was the head of a ring which sold fake dentists' and physicians' diplomas for cash. As head of the department of education and registration, Miller was in a position to honor the diplomas for licenses.

Transfers Property to Wife.

Since completing his jail term last August Miller has made a strenuous effort to avoid paying the $2,000 fine. On one occasion, before Chief Justice Prystalski of the Criminal court, Miller pleaded tearfully that if he was not given a pauper's writ he would have to "die in jail." It was brought out at this hearing that Miller had transferred all his property to his wife.

CUBAN MILITARY COURT SENTENCES EDITOR TO PRISON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, April 24.—Alfredo T. Quilez, editor of the Cuban graphic weekly, Carteles, was sentenced by a military court today to 15 days in prison and a $50 fine.

Quilez published a facsimile of a diploma given Carteles by the Audit Bureau of Circulations—which uses the initials A. B. C. These initials in Cuba stand for the most violent terrorist organization opposed to President Gerardo Machado.

Quilez was unable to convince the military censors that his diploma had only to do with circulation. He is held incommunicado in Principe fortress.

TAX BOARD TOLD MIDLAND BLDG. IS OVERBONDED

Contractors' Plea Fails to Cut Assessment.

Joseph J. Duffy, construction contractor appearing as a witness for the Midland Club Building corporation at 168 West Adams street, yesterday told the board of tax appeals that the $4,250,000 bond issues on the structure were 340 per cent more than the building was worth in 1931. The building's true value, he said, was $1,236,000.

Duffy said the bond issues had been floated so that the builders would make a profit on the transaction. He said: "It was just another case of floating securities. It was done for many other properties. Why the trimming of the building, which is described as marble in the bond prospectus, really is only limestone and the woodwork is all gumwood—the cheapest kind of wood."

Object to Tax Valuation.

These revaluations were made during the hearing of a complaint filed by the building corporation against the assessed valuation of the property in the 1931 quadrennial tax books. The assessed valuation is only 37 per cent of the full fair cash value of a property and in this case the assessed valuation amounted to $672,902.

Duffy told Fred W. Brummel and George F. Nixon, the appeals board members, that he had charge of the construction of the club building, which also houses ten stories of offices.

The assessed valuation of the property, he said, was based on a price of 56 cents for every cubic foot of space contained in the building. This price was 20 cents too high, he said, asserting that the proper assessed valuation should be $456,950. Duffy added that as a comparison with the high cubic foot price of the club building the appeals board members should consider the Marshall Field building, just completed at Adams and La Salle streets. This property was constructed at a price of 42 cents a cubic foot.

Insured for $2,000,000.

Here Mr. Brummel interrupted saying: "But I recall that the Midland club building had two mortgage issues. The first was for $3,250,000 and the second for $1,000,000. The records furnished us by Assessor Jacobs show that the fire insurance on the building for 1931 amounted to $2,000,000."

"O," exclaimed Duffy, "those mortgages were just put on the building so the securities could be sold. The builders wanted to make a profit. The same thing was done on lots of other buildings."

Brummel said he believed the assessor's valuations for 1931 were sound and denied the complaint.

Five Million More Asked for California Quake Aid

Washington, D. C., April 24.—(AP)—Representative Burke [Dem., Cal.], today introduced a bill to increase from $5,000,000 to $12,000,000 the amount the Reconstruction corporation may loan for rehabilitating the California earthquake area. "Inasmuch as the damage to schools in Long Beach alone amounted to approximately $8,000,000," he said, "I am attempting to raise the amount for public buildings and schools to $12,000,000, and extending the time of repayment from ten to twenty years."

'SWEET ADELINE' FIGHT SET FOR WASHINGTON JURY TRIAL MAY 17

Washington, D. C., April 24.—[Special.] — Representative Francis H. Shoemaker, late of Leavenworth penitentiary and now of Capitol hill, will stand trial in police court May 17 for clouting a "Sweet Adeline' 'singing neighbor in the eye.

The Minnesotan waived his congressional immunity in court this morning. He demanded a jury trial on the assault charge brought against him by Theodore Cohen, his next door neighbor in the Chastleton hotel.

Outside of court, a moment earlier, he had invoked his congressional privilege with a vengeance, however, when he parked his car in a prohibited zone right in front of police court itself. A policeman started to protest the infringement of the parking regulations, but Mr. Shoemaker calmly tapped a little green sign reading "congressional" on his windshield and proceeded into the courthouse.

Representative Shoemaker asked Judge Ralph Given to postpone his trial until the present session of congress had adjourned.

"I think," said Judge Given, "that I will set this case for May 17 and let the congressman arrange his business so he can get here at that time."

FEDERAL JUDGE RELEASES NEGRO VIRGINIA SOUGHT

Says State Has No Colored Jurors.

Boston, Mass., April 24.—(AP)—George Crawford, 34, Negro, wanted in Virginia for murder, was freed today on a writ of habeas corpus by Federal Judge James A. Lowell. He said the Supreme court would nullify a conviction of the defendant in Virginia, because Negroes did not serve on juries there.

Carrying out the thought of his prediction, Judge Lowell said, "if eventually, why not now?"

Case to Be Appealed.

Pending action on an appeal to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals by the state of Massachusetts, Crawford later was held in $25,000 bail at the Charles street jail.

The decision of Judge Lowell immediately brought a response from Virginia. The attorney general there said Negroes were not excluded from jury service.

Judge Lowell is a cousin of President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard university and a member of the family whose name was given to the city of Lowell. He is the third Lowell to sit in Federal court here.

Held as Woman Slayer.

Crawford was charged with slaying Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley, wealthy sportswoman, and her maid, Mrs. Nina Buckner, in a lodge on the Ilsley estate in Middleburg, Va., in 1932. Crawford was arrested here for breaking and entering. He later was identified as a fugitive from Virginia. Gov. Joseph B. Ely ordered his extradition.

After quoting the 50 year old case of William Neal, Negro, in Delaware, as the basis for his decision, Judge Lowell said:

"Why send this Negro back to Virginia when I know and every one knows the Supreme court will say the trial is illegal? The only ones that would get anything out of it would be the lawyers. The whole thing is absolutely wrong."

VASKOS PERSUADED TO PERMIT SURGEONS TO OPERATE ON BABY

White Plains, N. Y., April 24.—[Special.]—After a conference of several hours with Judge George W. Smyth of the Westchester Children's court, the parents of Helen Vasko, 2 years old, whose life, physicians say, is endangered by a malignant tumor in the left eye, tonight consented to have the child submit to an operation. The parents surrendered the child to the court.

Preparations were being made at Grasslands hospital at Eastview to perform the operation there within twenty-four hours. Meanwhile, the child is receiving temporary care at St. John's hospital in Yonkers.

Parental consent to the operation ended a two months' controversy during which the mother and father had refused to heed the advice of physicians and friends. Fearful that death might result, persons interested in the child called her case to the attention of the Westchester Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

KIEL STUDENTS ASK OUSTER OF 28 EDUCATORS

Threaten to Riot if Request Is Refused.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 24.—Students at Kiel university today requested the rector to compel 28 professors to resign. The undergraduates threaten to riot if the request is refused. The professors under student fire include the famous Bernhard Harms, director of the Institute for World Economics and Navigation; Rudolf Hoeber, whose studies of physiology have been translated into ten languages, and Melitta Gerhard, woman professor of Germanic sciences. The students are demanding the ouster of Jews, liberals, or alleged Marxists from the ranks of educators.

While this campaign against German Jewry continues, Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Nazi minister of propaganda, speaking at Cologne today, said:

"We consider the Jews our enemies, but hitherto have exercised a clemency which the Jews do not deserve. If they believe that this clemency is weakness we will quickly teach them differently.

Economic System Faces Shakeup.

"When on May 1 Chancellor Hitler announces the program for the first year of his four year program the world will realize that this is not only a national but a socialist revolution. The economic system will be reformed from the bottom to the top. Liberalist individualism will be smashed. Communal ideas will give a totally new aspect to our economic system. To do the constructive work we are planning, we need and we want peace."

Dr. Goebbels proclaimed May 1 as the "festal day of national labor."

Max Kassel, a Jewish milk dealer, was riddled with bullets at Wiesbaden last night by a gang of unidentified men who broke into his home. When the police arrived in response to cries for help, the milk dealer was found dead. His assailants escaped. Almost at the same time Solomon Rosenstrauch was visited by two men who threatened him with a revolver. He died of heart failure. His tormenters escaped.

Meanwhile Zionist leaders estimate that 100,000 German Jews have lost their means of livelihood since Hitler's Nazis launched their campaign to eliminate Jews from the industrial, professional, and cultural life of the nation.

Fifteen thousand physicians and 15,000 lawyers have been ousted from their posts or disbarred. The rest are artists, writers, and store and office workers.

40,000 Jewish Refugees.

About 40,000 Jews have fled Germany. Many of them were foreigners, including 18,000 Polish Jews alone. German Jews still are struggling to leave the country, but are finding this a difficult task because of emigration restrictions.

Convinced that the Jews are still holding more influential posts than their number justifies, authorities are restricting their activities in all walks of life. The government has decreed that they may hold 1 per cent of the vocations "since they represent 1 per cent of the population."

Jewish leaders as well as political observers are disputing the government's statement that the Jewish population is only 600,000.

These 600,000 persons have clung to their Jewish religion, they state. It is generally admitted that this figure does not include thousands of persons of Jewish faith who married gentiles and abandoned their religion.

Raises Jews in Number.

Under the new laws, the number of persons characterized as Jews will be infinitely higher. This is largely the result of the government's order that persons who had either a Jewish grandfather or Jewish grandmother shall be classed as Jews. Few means of earning a living are open to them, particularly the intellectuals.

What a drastic effect this will have on life in Germany is indicated by comparing Jewish activity today with that of the days of the kaiser.

Under the monarchy, Jews were not permitted to serve in the crack army regiments or hold high government posts. The fields of trade, science, and professions were open to them and they invaded these channels.

But today the disbarred Jewish lawyer or the ousted Jewish physician practically faces starvation. No job is open to him, since Jewish firms have been ordered to dismiss Jewish employés. He may be willing to work at anything, but it is doubtful whether he will find a job anywhere.

Tradesmen Are Frantic.

The middle class tradesmen associations are besieging the government to forbid the opening of new shops and new business enterprises in order to further eliminate Jewish stores. They also want a law prohibiting Jewish firms from employing ousted Jewish doctors and lawyers as clerks.

"This," they complain, "would give the Jewish firms intellectual and well trained help. Such employés would make Jewish firms even greater competitors than before."

Jewish leaders, who are watching their businesses and professions gradually wither away, admit that Jewish nepotism played too big a role, particularly in hospitals and theaters. Now the pendulum is swinging back. Men and women who secured jobs because they were brothers, nephews, or cousins of Jews or even more distantly related now are being discharged.

The tragedy of it all is that many a deserving worker is getting the boot together with the not-too-deserving products of nepotism.

Dispatches from Munich said that a plot to take Hitler's life was believed thwarted today by the arrest of a Hindu communist and his chauffeur at the border station of Himsting.

Ask World to Protect Jews.

ROME, April 24.—(AP)—An agreement among all civilized peoples to protect Jews suffering from oppression was suggested in a resolution adopted today by the Italian Hebrew union. Another resolution virtually asks Premier Mussolini to intervene with Chancellor Hitler of Germany to mitigate the Nazi anti-Jewish movement. Mussolini was quoted by Stefani, the Italian news agency, as expressing the hope that the situation would return to normal.

GERMAN POLICE SEIZE OFFICES OF SOVIET OIL FIRM; NAB 20 REDS

BERLIN, April 24.—(AP)—Police took charge of the National headquarters of the German-Russian Petroleum company today, searched the offices, and arrested as communists 20 German employés of the firm.

Capt. Hermann Goering, Nazi minister without portfolio and premier of Prussia, placed a commissioner in the office whose task will be "to cleanse the administration and employés of communist elements." Police in a statement said the search clearly proved the "the company under the pretext of economic interests carried on far-reaching subversive and communist activities."

A previous raid on the offices drew a sharp protest to the German embassy from Maxim Litvinoff, the soviet commissar for foreign affairs. The soviet embassy lodged a strong protest with the German foreign office immediately after today's raid.

Rumanian Fascists Call 10 Day Boycott of Jews

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 24.—(AP)—A district convention of Fascist iron guard at Radautz today decided on a ten-day boycott of Jewish shops throughout the province of Bukovina beginning April 27. At the same time a committee was organized to foster direct trade contracts with German firms in order to eliminate Jewish middlemen.

136 Rescued as Ship Goes Aground Near Pacific Isle

TOKIO, April 24.—(AP)—A wireless message received today at the Yokosuka naval base said that the passengers and crew of the Japanese steamer Shizuoka Maru, totaling 136 persons, were removed safely when the vessel grounded yesterday one mile northeast of the island of Yap. The cargo also was landed. It was feared that the steamer was a total loss.

AUTO PLUNGES OFF M'HENRY BRIDGE; 4 HURT

Two girls and two men were injured yesterday when their automobile ran off the Mill Pond bridge in McHenry, landed upside down in the Fox river, 25 feet below, and burst into flames. The river is less than three feet deep at this point.

The men, Donald D. Fitzgerald, 25 years old, of Libertyville, and Robert Knox, 23, of McHenry, freed themselves and dragged their companions to safety. The latter were Miss Ann Lyons, 23, and Miss Gertrude Carpenter, 25, both of Crystal Lake. Miss Lyons suffered a serious injury to her back and was taken to St. Therese's hospital, Libertyville. Knox's right ankle was broken.

Fitzgerald, who was driving, said he lost control when something happened to the steering mechanism.

George Sullivan, 40 years old, of Elmwood Park, and Bruno Banis, 25 years old, 4030 Brighton place, Chicago, were killed yesterday when the truck they were driving from Chicago to Freeport plunged off the Grant highway near Marengo and crashed against a tree. It was believed that Sullivan, who was driving, fell asleep at the wheel.

One death in Cook county yesterday raised the 1933 motor toll to 266. The victim:

Unidentified Negro, 35 years old. Found last night at 136th and Halsted streets, Riverdale. It is believed he was struck by an automobile.

[Copyright, 1933: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, April 24.—Plans for an automobile tunnel under Mont Blanc, the highest peak in Europe, are taking definite shape. A detailed scheme for thus connecting the highway network of France with the Italian automobile roads has been submitted to the French and Italian governments and it is understood that both have approved of it in principle.

The tunnel would run from Chamonix to Courmayeur. Although the task sounds formidable, it would be easier than most of the big jobs already done in the Alps. It would be only eight miles long—the shortest of Alpine tunnels. Geological studies have proved favorable and financial ones show that the tunnel would pay for itself with a reasonable toll.

The tunnel would shorten considerably the Paris-Rome highway.

FAMOUS INDIAN EVANGELIST HELD DEAD BY COURTS

[Copyright, 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 24.—Sadhu Sundar Singh, famous Indian Christian mystic and evangelist, has been officially presumed to be dead by the courts. He left on a preaching tour of Tibet in 1929. Despite extensive official and private searches, he has not been located since.

Sandhu Sundar Singh embraced Christianity at the age of 16. Previously he had been skeptical of the existence of God, but one morning, he said, a vision of Christ appeared to him in a radiant cloud in his room. His family became angered and disowned him.

Sundar Singh embarked on a career of evangelism, tramping over India and conducting campaigns in China and Japan. He visited England in 1920 as the first Christian missionary from India. He traveled without money or baggage and sought no money.

FILL VACANCIES ON REPUBLICAN JUDICIAL TICKET

Woman Lawyer to Be Given Nomination.

The Republican county committee at the Bismarck hotel last night filled the vacancies on their Circuit court ticket occasioned by the withdrawal of five Republican judges who elected to run on the Democratic fusion ticket and of John Sbarbaro, who is not a candidate. The new nominees are:

Thomas Marshall, former assistant state's attorney.

Harry C. Kinne, Wilmette, sponsored by William Busse and the country towns.

For sixth place the lawyers on the committee are to pick a woman lawyer. In case they are unable to agree on a woman Daniel S. Wentworth, who lost by two votes, may be named Archie I. Bernstein, backed by Ald Oscar Nelson, city chairman, lost by two votes.

Eaton for Probate Post.

The action last night fills out the Republican ticket and gives it a full list of candidates for the 20 places on the Circuit bench.

For nomination for Gov. Henry Horner's old place in the Probate court the committee decided to recommend Charles Scribner Eaton to the county convention which meets this afternoon. He is a former Hyde Park alderman. Charles E. Peace definitely declined the nomination last night.

The Democrats at their convention today plan to nominate Municipal Judge John F. O'Connell for Probate judge.

Judge Mary Bartelme, who is not a candidate for reëlection, addressing the Woman's Republican Club of Illinois at the Hamilton club last night said she wished to make her position clear on coalition.

"The purpose of such movements," she said, "is in the direction of preventing partisanship in the framing of judicial tickets. It would be unfortunate if any one party should, by a partisan campaign, succeed in electing all the judges, the desirable thing being that the best nominees of both parties should be elected regardless of political affiliations.

For Most Capable Judges.

"For several weeks prior to the nominating conventions of both parties, coalition as a necessary method to assure the retention in office of capable, efficient and experienced judges, regardless of their party affiliations, was advocated. The action of some of my Republican associates among the sitting judges in electing to accept a place in the Democratic column was arrived at only after they had been advised to do so by leaders of their organizations."

AMBASSADOR DANIELS OFFERS U. S. AMITY TO HEAD OF MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, April 24.—(AP)—Josephus Daniels became the new United States ambassador to Mexico late today when he presented his credentials to President Abelardo Rodriguez in the ambassadorial hall of the national palace. Both Mr. Daniels and the president stressed friendship and cooperation between Mexico and the United States in their speeches.

"President Roosevelt charged me to bear to your excellency and to your countrymen the assurance that the people of the United States entertain the most kindly sentiment of neighborliness founded on common interest and common destiny," the ambassador said. "It is my intention to promote the strongest ties of understanding and amity."

President Rodriguez assured Mr. Daniels there exists in Mexico "the same friendly and neighborly sentiment based on common destiny which you assure me prevails in your country."

Two hundred persons were present at the presentation, including cabinet officials, the presidential staff, and the American embassy staff. Cavalry troops preceded and followed the ambassador's automobile to and from the palace.

COAST GUARD TO BUILD RADIO STATION HERE

A high power radio broadcasting station is to be constructed at the Wilmette station of the United States coast guard, it was announced yesterday by Commander T. S. Klinger, officer in charge of the Chicago district. The equipment is now en route here and construction is to start within ten days, Commander Klinger said.

The station will be the second major unit in the radio communication system being developed on the Great Lakes. The coast guard has a similar unit at Cleveland and a smaller unit at Sault Ste. Marie.

"The broadcasting station," Commander Klinger said, "will be of value in speeding up rescue work."

FACTIONS FIGHT IN UNION OFFICE; 1 KILLED, 16 HURT

Revenge for Bombing Is Blamed.

New York, April 24.—[Special.]—A pitched battle between rival factions of the fur working trade, staged in the rooms of a left wing union in West Twenty-eighth street, threw the area into confusion for three hours today and resulted in the death of one man and the injury of sixteen others.

After a day of investigation, police held eight men on charges of homicide and assault, and continued an inquiry into the cause of the fight, which was connected by spokesmen for the union with the murder of Morris Langer, union manager, at Chatham, N. J., a month ago.

Killed by Bomb.

Langer, described at the time as a communist leader, was fatally injured by the explosion of a bomb that had been placed under the hood of his automobile.

Hostilities began when a gang of men, armed with gas pipe bludgeons, invaded the headquarters of the Needle Trades Workers Industrial union, of which Ben Gold is the secretary.

They fell upon the men in the hall, beating them with gas pipe bludgeons. Men here and there among the attacked union members leaped to their feet, and began to fight the strong arm squad.

Police Halt Battle.

A patrolman on strike duty ran into the hall. He came upon Samuel Green, who was disarmed and arrested.

Police charged into the building, subdued the few men who were still fighting, and detained all witnesses found.

The dead man, found in one of the union offices with a foot long piece of gas pipe wrapped in newspaper lying under his body, was not identified.

N. Y. POULTRY 'CZAR' CALLED RACKETEER; VIOLENCE CHARGED

New York, April 24.—[Special.]—Joseph Weiner, business agent of an Orthodox Jewish poultry handlers' union, was named today by District Attorney Samuel J. Foley of the Bronx as the poultry racketeer who rules the industry in this city by violence and terrorism.

In making public the name, the district attorney promised to drive all racketeers out of the Bronx, regardless of any "politics" that might be involved.

Mr. Foley, declaring war on Weiner and his henchmen, has obtained a warrant for his arrest on a charge of conspiracy to coerce.

The warrant for the arrest of Weiner [not related to Samuel Weiner, one of the material witnesses for the state] was issued following filing of information by the grand jury in special sessions last week, a move not disclosed until today.

The "czar" was questioned in the district attorney's office and at that time his attorney said he would be available at any time. The warrant was issued when he did not appear upon request.

Police Find an Old Offender in Stolen Car

William Bolton, 30 years old, 729 Englewood avenue, who has previously been in custody on burglary and larceny charges, was arrested yesterday by the Englewood police while driving an automobile which had been stolen a half hour before from H. A. Van Buskirk, 3339 West 62d street. Police recognized Bolton and questioned him about the automobile. As he was being taken to the station the report of the stolen car was received by the police.

Persian Business Men Ask Shah to Break with Russia

TEHERAN, Persia, April 24.—(AP)—Leading merchants and chamber of commerce heads, who were given an audience by the Shah here today, appealed to him to cancel Persia's trade treaty with soviet Russia.

ENVOY WELLES PROMISES CUBA A SQUARE DEAL

Issues Statement Prior to His Confirmation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 24.—[Special.]—Just before the senate today confirmed his appointment as ambassador to Cuba, Sumner Welles issued an announcement that his aim will be to promote the economic welfare of the island, and to bring about renewed trade between it and the United States.

There was nothing in the statement concerning possibilities of the United States intervening, under its treaty rights, to restore peace in the political fracas now under way in Cuba. But it was indicated at the state department that this country has no intention of sending military forces to halt the bombings, assassinations, and other disorders in Cuba, seeking, rather, to bring order through accomplishing economic improvements.

"No Intermeddling."

The state department has interpreted the treaty's intervention clause to imply "not intermeddling and interfering in the domestic politics of Cuba." It has been broadly stated in dispatches from Cuba that Mr. Welles will seek diplomatically to bring about the retirement of President Machado and, although this was denied today, it is believed the Roosevelt administration believes Machado must go in the interests of harmony.

FORBID HOSTILE PARADE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA Cuba, April 24. — Col. Federico Rasco, military governor of Havana, today notified police and military authorities to make all efforts to prevent a government oppositionist demonstration which is being planned to coincide with the arrival of the new United States Ambassador Sumner Welles, who is expected by plane from Washington the latter part of this week.

U. S. RAILROAD TIES BURNED BY MOB IN ALASKA

SEWARD, Alaska, April 24.—(AP)—In protest against the importation of railroad ties from Seattle, a "committee of 20" burned some of the ties last night and sent the following communication to E. F. Jessen, editor of the Seward Gateway:

"Hard working men hewing ties along the railway have been made to join the ranks of the starving because officials of the road wish to give a fat contract to a big sawmill in the state of Washington. It seems impossible to get the ear of Washington, D. C., for a bit of the promised 'new deal.' Instead we get a raw deal."

OPEN LAKE BOAT SERVICE TODAY TO OCEAN PORTS

Ship to Sail for Montreal; Sugar Cargo Arrives.

The steamer Willowbay will sail from Chicago at noon today to inaugurate regular lake service connecting this city with Montreal and world ocean ports.

Yesterday Chicago received its first water borne cargo from the seaboard this spring with the arrival of the motorship I. L. I. 103. Observers view these two shipping movements as additional evidence that Chicago is beginning to assume its position as a world water port.

Carrying forty carloads of lard, canned meats and litharge, the Willowbay will sail from the North pier at the mouth of the river. The lard shipment is the largest of its kind ever sent out of Chicago by boat. The inaugural trip of the Willowbay marks the beginning of package freight on the lakes in which shippers may consign any amount without the necessity, as heretofore, of making up 1,600 ton cargoes. The sailing also will institute weekly service between Chicago and Montreal by the Tree Line Navigation company.

Brings Cargo of Sugar.

The I. L. I. 103, a Diesel powered freighter belonging to the Seaboard-Great Lakes corporation, brought a cargo of Hawaiian sugar. The sugar was raised in the islands, refined in San Francisco, carried by boat through the Panama canal to New York, and there transhipped to Chicago. The trip from New York to Chicago required nine days, which is considered good time.

Meanwhile waterway supporters, encouraged by the movements of the I. L. I. 103 and the Willowbay, are planning to ask for the issuance of a commemorative postage stamp celebrating the opening of the Lakes to the Gulf waterway. Attorney Harold R. Langer of Ottawa is a principal spokesman for the stamp plan.

Backed by Two Officials.

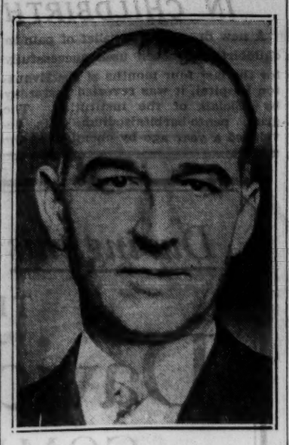
Mr. Langer said that the Mississippi Valley association favored the stamp plan. The support of Lieut. Col. Daniel I. Sultan, United States engineer, and of L. D. Cornish, superintendent of the Illinois waterway, was also enlisted. Both gave hearty approval.

The post office department has been approached on the stamp subject, but list of commemorative stamps has also is reported to have held that a heavy ready been planned for 1933. Nevertheless, Mr. Langer and other proponents intend pushing the matter.

Indiana Building at Fair Slightly Damaged by Fire

The roof of the Indiana building, one of the group in the hall of states at A Century of Progress exposition, was slightly damaged by fire yesterday afternoon. The flames were extinguished by the exposition fire department and the loss, it was said, would not exceed $50. The Indiana building is on Northerly island, opposite 15th street. The origin of the fire was not determined.

FOUND IN CHINA



C. C. JULIAN.

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 24.—(AP)—Herbert K. Hyde, United States district attorney, has been advised that C. C. Julian, fugitive oil promoter, has been found in Shanghai, China. The information came from George A. Sellett, United States district attorney in the American colony in Shanghai. Hyde immediately cabled information to Sellett upon which authorities in Shanghai will prepare a fugitive warrant for Julian's return to the United States to face trial in June on charges of a $3,500,000 mail fraud conspiracy. The charges grew out of the collapse of Julian's oil promotion ventures.

DRAFT MEASURES FOR STREET CAR LINES TO FAIR

The preparation of ordinances providing for street car transportation to the World's Fair grounds by way of Cermak and Roosevelt roads was ordered yesterday by the city council committee on local transportation. If the measures are drafted before the council meeting tomorrow, Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman, plans to ask for their adoption at that time.

The Roosevelt road ordinance will provide, according to the instructions given to Corporation Counsel Sexton, for a crossing at grade level at Michigan avenue, thence by viaduct over the Illinois Central tracks. The car tracks will run 400 feet south of Roosevelt road west of the park inner drive and then loop back. The city is to pay the cost of the viaduct, estimated at $100,000, out of the traction fund.

In the Cermak road ordinance the aldermen have linked the relocation of the street car tracks in the center of the street with the extension into the park. Officials of the Century of Progress District Business Men's association requested the relocation and the aldermen ordered it included despite objections of surface lines representatives. The track relocation is to be ordered from State street to Indiana avenue.

He was taken to the county hospital. The father, Stanley Buchan, owns a grocery store at the Peoria street address.

FAIR BOILS DOWN NATURAL SCIENCE TO 2 HOUR SHOW

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Man's discovery and control of elemental forces will be shown to visitors of A Century of Progress exposition in a series of ninety exhibits, forming a broad highway of learning in the show windows of the hall of science. Many of these exhibits are already in operation, and their study will be equivalent to a series of lectures on fundamental physical phenomena. Here is a university course free to the world, opening new areas of consciousness, explaining something of the complex environment of modern life. Two hours is the minimum of time for this course.

What man has done with these discoveries and inventions may be observed in another series of exhibits in the social science hall across the bridge from the main temple. All civilizations, beginning with that of 50,000 years ago in the caves of France, will be revealed here at a glance. And what we are writing today may in its turn be uncovered some day by archeologists who fly here from Mars. What is at once apparent is that this is only a stopping place, a moment of contemplation. Those who take advantage of this phase of the exposition will be given a review and a perspective, prepared by eminent scientists and authorities in all fields, such as has never been offered before.

Exhibits Arranged in Sequence.

The ninety exhibits in the main hall are arranged in sequence. The first group deals with molecular physics, the expansion of gases and vapors, refrigeration, surface tension, and crystal structure. The second group explains the nature of sound. The third shows magnetic effects, the relation between electricity and magnetism, and leads to the dynamo, the transformer, and the motor.

The fourth group shows the valve tube and its use in radio, the fifth demonstrates the nature and property of light, and the last group gives various types of rays, such as catnode, X-rays, radium and cosmic rays. Each will be placed on tables five feet high so that all may see and each is placarded so that the story can be read ten feet away.

Looking at each group more closely, we find that the molecular group suggests answers to many questions. They demonstrate the pressures exerted by compressed air and steam, and include a working model with steel balls showing how the pressure is due to bombardment of the walls by molecules which have the speed of rifle bullets.

Century of Electrical Advance.

The exhibits in the sound section shows how sound waves travel, when resonance occurs, what determines the pitch of the sound, how speech sounds differ, and how talking films reproduce sounds. The development of electrical power during the last century will be demonstrated in a series of exhibits which explain the principles of the dynamo, transformer, and motor. Scientists cannot explain why electric currents behave as they do, but they show how such great use has been made of the principles under which it operates.

The valve tube will explain the mysteries of radio, within the limits of human comprehension. The action of the filament, grid, and plate will be shown, how sounds are amplified and the continuous oscillations necessary for broadcasting are produced by these tubes.

Light is studied through the bending of its rays as shown by the lens. Light from an arc and from neon tubes is analyzed into its component spectrum colors. The electric eye, the photocell, which has made television possible and promises to be the greatest handmaiden of the future, is shown in another exhibit.

Properties of Rays Shown.

Other exhibits show luminous effects due to cathode and canal rays in vacuum tubes, tracks of single alpha rays from radium, and the properties of X-rays which are produced when cathode rays strike a target. A "hodoscope" will show the paths of individual cosmic rays by means of flashing neon lamps.

The many industrial applications of these basic phenomena will be observed in other parts of the exposition, such as in the electric exhibits of the General Electric company, Westinghouse and others, the communication exhibits of the Bell laboratories and the Radio Corporation of America, and in the transportation exhibits.

Social consequences of it all, how profoundly these discoveries have changed the life of mankind, may be seen in the social science hall. And if one follows this through to the hall of religions it may be seen that even here the effects of man's new outlook and control may be traced. The frontier of a new country comes into view.

Later the men will be sent to stations throughout the world where they will be prepared to give information about the World's Fair.

REVEAL DRINKING PARTY PRECEDING MODEL'S DEATH

Testimony yesterday afternoon at the inquest into the death of Mrs. Edna Payne Lewis, 33 year old artist's model, proved to investigators that Mrs. Lewis and three companions had indulged in a long term drinking party Sunday, but failed to disclose the exact cause of death.

Mrs. Lewis, a divorcée who formerly resided at Decatur, Ill., died Sunday evening in her flat at 3015 Broadway. Present as her drinking companions were Miss Edith Baumgartner, 30 years old; John Scheidness, 30 years old, 2146 Dayton street, and Gale Pendleton, 28 years old, 60 Maple street.

The three testified that they had drunk freely both of gin and beer during the afternoon and evening. All were hazy about the occurrences of the day, but Miss Baumgartner said that Mrs. Lewis fell to the floor while carrying a tray of drinks. Presumably death was caused by this fall.

TAKE MRS. JUDD FROM PRISON TO INSANE ASYLUM

Phoenix, Ariz., April 24.—(AP)—Winnie Ruth Judd came back today to Phoenix, where she killed her two friends, Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson, Oct. 16, 1931, and sent their bodies in trunks to Los Angeles.

Mrs. Judd saw few things to remind her of that tragedy, however, before the portals of the Arizona state hospital for insane swallowed her. A lunacy jury, by its verdict Saturday night, substituted the asylum for the gallows.

The hospital will be Mrs. Judd's prison for the rest of her life unless she is found to be sane again, in which case she still could be hanged.

She was brought here from the state prison at Florence where this morning she gave vent to one of her characteristic outburts, railing at her mother and threatening again to kill herself.

PUT FATE OF COOK CO. GOVERNMENT UP TO ASSEMBLY

Told It Must Pass Six Point Program.

drafted by Attorney General Kerner, would make the county treasurer receiver. Mr. Bell presented a similar measure yesterday under which the county board would initiate the receivership proceedings.

2. The requirement that a taxpayer must pay 75 per cent of his bill before he can file any objection to payment of the remainder.

3. Designation of the county treasurer as the officer to receive all funds to be held in escrow for tax payments.

4. Amendment of the law governing the forfeiture and sale of tax delinquent properties, to permit the county treasurer to advertise and sell such properties at any time, replacing the present provision for a single tax sale each year.

5. Revision of the statute governing tax deeds, restricting the grounds on which such deeds may be set aside, in order to encourage revival of the practice of buying delinquent tax titles.

6. Prohibition of incitement of tax strikes, or the solicitation by lawyers, or others, of employment as representative of taxpayers in any attack upon assessments, under penalty of fine sof from $100 to $1,000.

One other recommendation of a positive nature was made. This was that instead of each local government issuing its own tax warrants, the warrants be consolidated and sold by the county treasurer. Such warrants would be applicable by the purchaser in payment of that portion of his tax bill which would go to all of the governments participating in the issue.

Sexton to Present Bills.

Corporation Counsel Sexton left for Springfield last night to present to the legislature today when it reconvenes, the bill providing for unified tax warrants, and another requiring taxpayers to pay 75 per cent of their bills before protesting the remainder.

Defeat of two measures considered inimical to tax collections was recommended to the legislators. One is the Keehn-Huebsch bill, fostered by the same interests which led in inciting tax strike litigation during the last three years. It would give all delinquent taxpayers for 1928, 1929, and 1930 what amounts to a reassessment of their property by the board of tax appeals.

"We're taking a negative attitude on that bill," said Mr. Sexton, who acted as spokesman for the administration leaders at yesterday's conference. "We understood that Fred W. Sargent (chairman of the committee on public expenditures) was for it, but he told us that his support was based upon a misinterpretation of the purpose of the bill."

Kelly Rebukes Keehn.

Roy D. Keehn, one of the sponsors of the bill, drew a retort, which was in the nature of a rebuke, from Mayor Kelly when he urged that the legislature send a commission to Chicago "to hear the people who have to pay taxes, as well as bankers and politicians."

"We can't wait around for anything like that," said Mayor Kelly. "The time has come when we're up against the gun. This is no time to settle future tax problems. We need emergency measures."

Another measure which Mr. Sexton urged the legislature to defeat is the bill for complete recodification of the revenue section of the statutes. This recodification is the result of two years' work by the state legislative reference bureau. It is not designed to change the substance of any of the present revenue laws, but merely to restate them and eliminate inconsistencies.

Flood of New Litigation.

Mr. Sexton pointed out, however, that while the measure would be a desirable one in normal times, a change in the wording of the present statutes, all of which have been passed on by the Supreme court, would open the way for a flood of new tax litigation by lawyers seeking to take advantage of technicalities.

Mr. Traylor pointed out another menace to the sale of tax warrants for teachers' and other pay rolls. This is the order of the board of tax appeals for a 15 per cent cut in assessments on homes and small flat buildings.

The subject came up first at an earlier conference of Mayor Kelly, Gov. Horner, and city and county officials at which the legislative program was approved before presentation to the legislators. There Charles G. Dawes, president of the City National Bank and Trust company, said he thought the banks should agree to buy warrants from Cook county governments and borrow on them from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Requires Banks' Notes.

"If the R. F. C. would accept those warrants on their own value we would be glad to do that," said Mr. Traylor. "But so far the R. F. C. has insisted that the banks put in their own notes with the warrants, and none of the banks in this town is willing to do that so long as the board of appeals can cut the security of the warrants by 15 per cent or 50 per cent after the loan is made."

He amplified his statement in the larger meeting, when Representative Roland Libonati asked him why the banks refused to put through R. F. C. loans on the warrants.

"I have grave doubt that the warrants would be paid," replied Mr. Traylor. "We would have to sign a note and pay the R. F. C. in case they were not taken up.

"I don't think payment of 1932 taxes will be up to 50 per cent unless the bills presented here are passed. We have no assessment rolls yet for 1932. The 15 per cent order of the board of appeals, if it stands, means that the board might some day cut another 15 or 20 per cent off the tax roll. You might wake up some morning and find that you had only 30 per cent of your roll left, and had sold 50 per cent of warrants."

The Supreme court has been asked, in a petition for mandamus filed by Attorney Lester L. Falk, which will probably be heard in June, to declare the appeals board order illegal.

Lighten Future Burdens.

While Mr. Traylor advocated the stern measures proposed to force payment of taxes already levied, he also spoke in favor of measures to lighten future tax burdens on real estate.

I cannot see a financial program for this state in the next five years," he said, "unless you have a legal sales and income taxes. I agree that real estate cannot continue to carry the entire burden. This municipality, financially, is drowning. The boat to save it is a revenue amendment of the constitution and the sales and income taxes."

The proposal to appoint receivers for collection of delinquent taxes from income bearing properties provoked the most discussion at the meeting with the legislators. Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee of the council, suggested that if taxes were made a lien upon the income of properties, it might not be necessary to provide for receivers to enforce the lien.

Opposes Changes in Bill.

"It will be dangerous to change the provisions of the Skarda bill," warned Assistant Attorney General James G. Skinner, who helped draft it. "If that is done, you may run into serious difficulties."

There followed a discussion of legislative proposals to limit tax rates. Mr. Sexton pointed out that the Dailey commission recommended such a measure to the last general assembly, which failed to pass it. When Ald. Clark suggested that the legislature delay action on pending measures which would postpone the penalty dates on tax collections, Mayor Kelly said:

"If we extend the penalty date we will be unable to get money to pay teachers and other employés. Some property owners are always looking for excuses to dodge paying their taxes. However, this administration is going after every tax dodger."

CHICAGO STUDENTS IN WASHINGTON TO URGE TEACHERS' PAY

Washington, April 24.—(AP)—Four Chicago students came to Washington today bent on accomplishing what their teachers could not.

Carrying with them a "freshly composed" statement which contained such words as "catastrophe" and "ruin." The representative of the student committee on education said they intended to carry through a program of three points.

Their first demand was that President Roosevelt include the George, or some similar measure, which would permit federal loans to needy school boards, in his legislative program.

The second was that Secretary Woodin of the treasury and Jesse Jones of the Reconstruction corporation issue a statement to Chicago bankers that the Reconstruction corporation would loan up to 70 per cent on school board tax warrants.

The third was that "public officials exert their influence to cause Chicago bankers to utilize the credit facilities available to them under the Reconstruction corporation act."

The four youths, Jack Light, Crane college; Joseph Faulkner, Lake View High school; Robert Watt, Austin High school, and Edward Schlick, Lindblom High school, said they intended to see Senators Lewis of Illinois and Lafollette of Wisconsin, Secretaries Woodin, Ickes and Perkins, Jesse Jones, and President Roosevelt.

Chicago Schools May Be Closed May 12; 5,000 Teachers Besiege Five Loop Banks

Orville J. Taylor, president of the board of education, announced last night that steps would be taken to close the Chicago public schools within the next two or three weeks. His announcement came after 5,000 teachers, taking advantage of their spring vacation, had held an all day "pay" demonstration in the loop during which they laid siege to the five large loop banks and stormed a tax conference of public officials in Mayor Kelly's office at the city hall.

Mr. Taylor in his statement said he would confer today with Supt. William J. Bogan about the school closing plan. The school system is scheduled to shut down for the summer vacation on June 23. Mr. Taylor indicated that under the new plan the closing date might be May 12, which would be six weeks before the scheduled end of the term.

"Schools Must Close"—Taylor.

"The situation has reached such a point that the schools must close," said Mr. Taylor. "Mr. Bogan and I will decide on how much the school term can be speeded up. It may mean a change in our curriculums. We must protect as much as is humanly possible the rights of the children and above all the credits of thousands of boys and girls graduating from our high schools who are planning on going to college next fall."

The teachers visited the city hall tax conference in the afternoon after they had spent the morning at the banks. In the mayor's office on the fifth floor were gathered state, county, and city officials planning legislation to enforce the collection of taxes so that public employés may be paid their arrears in salary. More than $30,000,000 is now owed to teachers and other school employés.

Horner Speaks to Teachers.

Gov. Horner left the conference for a few minutes and spoke to the throng of teachers in the corridors. He was frequently interrupted by questions.

"I know your problem," he said, "and the public officials are doing everything in their power to aid you. At this moment we are attempting to devise means to collect taxes, which is the key to the whole situation. If I had the money I would pay you out of my own pocket."

The teachers remained outside the mayor's office, singing songs and chanting "We want cash!" for the duration of the conference.

Meet in Council Chambers.

Then part of the teachers marched down to the city council chambers on the second floor and held another meeting. Some of them favored closing the schools themselves. Action of this kind has been voted down by various teacher organizations in the past in the belef that teachers' tenure and pension rights might be invalidated.

"Well, we can all be sick," one teacher proposed, "and no one can prove that we are not sick. We could go to school one day and all stay in bed the next."

Before they left the teachers decided to meet again tomorrow for a similar demonstration.

Act on R. F. C. Suggestion.

The march on the banks in the morning, according to John Fewkes, generalissimo of the teaching forces, was decided upon because Jesse Jones, director of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, had advised a teacher delegation in Washington last week to make an effort for a federal loan through the Chicago banks. Under this plan tax anticipation warrants would be used as collateral for the loan.

At the beginning of the demonstration the teachers massed at Congress street and Michigan avenue. Then dividing into five lines, of about 1,000 each, they started through the loop, tying up traffic at the intersections as they marched. Each of the five processions headed for one of the five large loop banks.

Nearly 500 teachers gained entrance to the City National Bank and Trust company before the doors were closed. After an hour's wait, Gen. Charles G. Dawes, chairman of the board of the bank, appeared at the top of a flight of steps leading to the main floor.

Gen. Dawes told the teachers that their pay rolls might be met through combining the city's and school board's anticipation of taxes into one warrant.

Heckled as He Speaks.

He was heckled frequently as he spoke.

"How long will that take before we get cash?" shouted some one.

"I hope in about two or three weeks," replied Gen. Dawes.

At one point in answer to the jeering Gen. Dawes shouted: "To hell with the trouble makers!"

At the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company a second delegation was met by Frank King, controller, and R. G. Daniels, cashier.

"We have invested in 15 million dollars' worth of warrants already," Mr. King answered.

"Yes, but how many are board of education warrants?" asked Raymer.

"I don't know the exact amount," said King, "but we took a large block of warrants to give the teachers $1,700,000 in pay ten days ago."

Confer with Harris Official.

The doors of the Harris Trust and Savings bank had been closed to all but those who carried bank books by the time the teachers arrived. A committee of teachers, headed by Roland Kehoe, was allowed to enter and confer with Frank McNair, vice president.

"We will continue to buy local tax anticipation warrants, as we always have," said Mr. McNair, "in such amounts as any bank may properly invest in these securities—when our attorneys say they are legally issued and tax collections give promise of their repayment."

A fourth division of the teachers visited the Northern Trust company and a committee from the fifth division was granted an interview with Melvin Traylor, president of the First National bank.

The result of this conference was explained by Walter L. Fisher, leader of the delegation, when the teachers reunited for a massmeeting at Congress street and Michigan avenue at noon.

Tells of Traylor Conference.

"Mr. Traylor described how the city has been going more in debt every year and how the taxes have not been collected," said Fisher. "The banks have taken all the warrants they can. I think Mr. Traylor was telling the truth."

This statement brought forth a chorus of boos and cries of: "Do you work for the banks? Is Mr. Traylor your boss?"

Then Kehoe brought news of the tax conference at the mayor's office and the teachers started for the city hall.

At the annual meeting of the Lake Shore division of the Illinois State Teachers' association in the Evanston Township High school yesterday delegates adopted a resolution to ask the Reconstruction Finance corporation to aid in financing their back pay rolls. The schools in the division are in arrears on pay for varying periods.

EMPLOYES OF COUNTY WILL GET A MONTH'S BACK PAY THIS WEEK

County employés will be given a month's pay, covering the last half of last September and the first half of October, tomorrow or Thursday.

In making the announcement of the payday, County Treasurer McDonough said that some delay has been occasioned due to delays in collection of tax warrant subscriptions gathered by the Dewey committee. That committee turned $570,000 in subscriptions over to the county government, of which $370,000 have been paid in. The other subscribers are expected to make their payments within a few days, Mr. McDonough said.

City employés started receiving half-monthly paychecks yesterday, their second payday out of warrant funds realized through Dewey committee sales. The payday is for the last half of November. The tax warrant sales are expected to be sufficient to pay city employés up to the first of the year.

Those desiring to take the examination, Mr. Simpson said, should communicate at once with Dwight J. Anderson at the congressman's office, 1791 Howard street, Chicago, or telephone Briargate 4441. All applicants must reside in the 10th congressional district.

HOSPITAL HERE USES NEW DRUG IN CHILDBIRTH

A new drug for the relief of pain in childbirth has been used successfully for the last four months at the Evanston hospital, it was revealed yesterday by officials of the institution. The drug, pento-barbitalsodium, was developed a year ago by chemists at the Harvard university medical school.

The drug is administered in the form of a capsule at the first sign of labor pains. In many cases, physicians at the hospital said, it is unnecessary to administer any other anaesthetic.

Although the compound has been used extensively in an experimental way by many institutions in the last year, the Evanston hospital is the first local institution to adopt it for general use in obstetrical cases. The compound is a derivative of barbituric acid.

ILLINOIS' DELAY ON REPEAL DRAWS INDIANA PROTEST

Hampers Ratification in Other States.

The report of the women's organization said:

Circuit.	Circuit.
4. L.K.Vandever[R]	5. C.VanMeter[D]
5. C.Platt[D]	14. C.S.Walker[D]

Five Oppose June 5 Vote.

"The following candidates feel that the people should be given an opportunity to vote on the question, but not on June 5:

Circuit.	Circuit.
4. *F.R.Dove[D]	7. V.Hemphill[D]
4. *T.M.Jett[D]	15. *H.L.Heer[R]
4. *W.B.Wright[D]"

One of the first replies came from Claude N. Saum, Democrat of Watseka: "I believe it is in accordance with the leadership of President Roosevelt and the platform of the Democratic party that the people of Illinois should be given the first opportunity available, with least expense, to vote on repeal of the 18th amendment. I am therefor in favor of submitting the question at the next judicial election to be held June 5."

Judges Frederick W. De Saim of Kankakee, and Frederick A. Hill of Joliet, Republicans, in the same circuit as Mr. Saum, the 12th, wired: "If legislature sees fit to make date for repeal election on June 5 we have no objection."

For Earliest Possible Vote.

From the 3d circuit where all three Democratic nominees favor a vote June 5, Dick H. Mudge of Edwardsville, a Democratic nominee wired: "I have always urged earliest possible repeal of 18th amendment and emphatically favor immediate action and election on June 5 of delegates to the convention."

In the 6th Supreme court district, Justice Oscar E. Heard of Freeport, a Republican, wired:

"I have not opposed the election of delegates on June 5. It would be highly unethical for me either to oppose or advocate the passage of any bill by the legislature the validity of which might come before our court for decision."

Elwyn R. Shaw, Democratic nominee in the 6th, sent a message to the women:

"I am now and consistently have been in favor of June 5 referendum mentioned in your telegram."

Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of Marengo, a former speaker of the house, sent answer from the 17th circuit: "Am absolutely in favor of election June 5 of delegates."

Besides the women realist leaders and Col. Reeves, the groups leaving for Springfield included Seymour Wheeler of the Crusaders, and W. W. Bayley of the Association Opposed to the 18th Amendment.

Council to Ask June 5 Vote.

Mayor Kelly uttered his call for the carrying out of political platforms by both parties during the meeting of the council license committee. The committee went on record favoring the election of delegates June 5, and ordered a resolution drafted for action at the council meeting Wednesday, urging the legislature to countenance no unnecessary delay in putting ratification to a vote of the people. The mayor's views will be embraced in the memorial to be sent to the general assembly by the aldermen.

Denies Brewers Fight Repeal.

G. H. Kiefer, vice president of the United States Brewing company, yesterday challenged recent assertions of Col. Reeves that brewers are exerting pressure to retard the early repeal of the 18th amendment.

"The repeal of the 18th amendment, dove-tailed in with proper regulations, is going to be of further material aid to the brewing industry," Mr. Kiefer declared. "Our disappointment is that Illinois was not the first state to ratify the repeal amendment."

BEER FOR MICHIGAN MAY BE DELAYED BY REFERENDUM LAW

Lansing, Mich., April 24.—[Special.]—With a bill to legalize 3.2 beer in Michigan not yet passed, a new menace to such legislation loomed today in the threat of organized drys to force a referendum on any measure eventually passed.

According to reports emanating from well informed sources, the Rev. R. N. Holsaple, superintendent of the Michigan Anti-Saloon league, has been working quietly toward circulation of petitions to tie up beer legislation until the next general election, in November, 1934, despite the fact that the state's voters at the last two elections have expressed themselves by overwhelming majorities as in favor of liberalizing the liquor laws.

Under the state constitution a referendum may be forced on any legislative act by petition of 5 per cent of the total number of electors voting for governor at the last previous general election. This provision makes possible a referendum on the beer bill, if and when enacted, on petition of 80,913 voters.

PLAN TO FORCE JUNE 5 REPEAL BILL ON SENATE

House Leaders to Renew Battle Today.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 24.—[Special.]—Instead of waiting for the senate to act, the house of representatives may take its own bill to create a repeal convention by the election of delegates at the June 5 judicial election and attempt to pass it, hoping thereby to place the responsibility for a postponement, if there is one, squarely on the shoulders of the members of the upper chamber.

Representatives of anti-prohibition organizations arrived here late this evening prepared to renew tomorrow their fight against delay of the delegate election until next April as provided in a senate amendment to its own bill last week. Although the June 5 date received only 22 votes at that time, and requires 34 for passage as an emergency measure, the anti-repealist forces intend to direct their first efforts toward swinging twelve more senators into line for the early election.

Hold Night Conference.

But early arriving members of the lower house, before which an identical June 5 bill is pending, were in informal conference tonight on the question whether they should not take the Schnackenberg-Sinnett bill, make some necessary amendments as to filing dates, and try to pass it at once. Action must be had this week, they pointed out, and the house bill can travel more rapidly than the Ward bill in the senate.

The Ward bill on the June 5 basis was shown defeated on an unannounced roll call in the senate by 22 to 7 and then filing election date was changed to April 8, 1934, by a vote of 28 to 11, a number of previously silent senators coming out of hiding to vote on the second roll call. Then it was left on second reading.

The Schnackenberg-Sinentt bill in the house also is on second reading, where it was left on April 4. Action was postponed on that day when the question was raised whether it could be passed in time for the filing of petitions within the time required by its provisions. Now it is proposed to shorten the period between filing time and the election so that passage of the bill would permit the election on June 5.

Talk of Fewer Signatures.

One suggestion heard tonight was that a substantial change be made in the number of signatures required for the petitions of candidates for delegates. The bill in its present form requires 25,090 signatures and it is contended it would be extremely difficult for some candidates to obtain that total in the shortened time in prospect.

This proposal has not met the approval of either Democratic or Republican leaders, who say that reducing the number of signatures would result in filings by hundreds and hundreds of candidates.

At least informal caucuses of both parties are expected in both houses tomorrow morning before they settle down to the week's business.

Administration leaders tonight were confident that the five votes required in addition to the 29 of last week to pass the beer bill will be on hand Wednesday when it is to be called up again.

FLORIDA 3.2 BEER APPROVAL, TAX ARE PASSED BY SENATORS

Tallahassee, Fla., April 24.—(AP)—The state senate today passed four bills legalizing and taxing 3.2 per cent beer and sent them to the house. There quick approval was predicted by proponents.

If the house approves—it already has passed two similar measures by 72 to 20 votes—beer would become legal on the signature of the governor. He has recommended such legislation.

Meanwhile, the house passed, 86 to 8, a proposal to amend the state constitution to permit local option control of intoxicating liquors. That house resolution must be acted upon by the senate and then submitted to the voters in the 1934 general elections. If passed, it would take effect only upon ratification of repeal of the 18th amendment to the federal constitution.

Brewer Licenses in Ohio Exceed Million Dollar Mark

Columbus, O., April 24.—Receipts from the sale of Ohio licenses for brewers, distributors and retailers of beer exceeded the million dollar mark today, the maximum estimated by sponsors of the law. The actual total of collections reported was $1,010,000.

INDIANA REVENUE FROM BEER SALE $675,000 IN WEEK

Indianapolis, Ind., April 24.—[Special.]—Revenues totaling $675,000 were collected by the state in beer license and tax fees the first week the beverage was legal in Indiana, it was reported tonight by Paul Fry, state excise director. Nearly $20,000 was paid to the state by importers on 395,231 gallons of beer consumed April 7 to 15. The bulk of collections was in license fees paid by brewers, importers wholesalers and retailers.

Two hundred ninety three thousand and one hundred fifty gallons of beer were shipped into the state the first eight days, importers paying taxes totaling $14,657.52. The remainder of the gallonage tax $5,104.03 was paid by Indiana brewers.

FIND U. S. MAIL TRUCKS RIDING OVER THE LAWS

Red Lights Don't Stop Them, Survey Shows.

BY HAL FOUST.

Uncle Sam's mail trucks, exempt from gasoline excises, registration fees, and city wheel taxes, apparently are also claiming exemption from traffic regulations. A cursory survey yesterday morning indicated that the drivers, or at least a few of them, consider themselves, as government employés, enjoying special privileges.

At 9 a. m. at Howard street and Sheridan road, a mail truck was parked by a fire plug, blocking a pedestrian crossing. This is a common practice of the government's vehicles engaged in collecting from corner mail boxes. It saves the drivers from making the two steps that would be necessary if the trucks were parked off the pedestrian crossing.

Truck Passes Red Light.

At 9:18 a. m. a mail truck swung south against a red light from Jarvis avenue into Ashland avenue. The number on the rear of the truck was 19468.

At 9:47 a. m. a mail truck was parked double in Belden avenue near Lincoln Park West, although there was a vacant space at the curb that could have been entered without backing.

A large number of the government's 730 mail trucks operating in Chicago are equipped with hard tires. At the mail loading platforms of the Union station there were nine federal trucks with uncushioned wheels out of the thirteen parked there.

On Jan. 1 an amendment to the Illinois motor vehicle code became effective prohibiting the use of hard tires on trucks driven faster than ten miles an hour. To drive less than ten miles an hour blocks traffic. Mail trucks, some with hard tires, were arriving at and departing from the Union station at speeds of 15 to 20 miles an hour.

Law Is Not Enforced.

This tire law, however, is not being enforced by the Chicago police against private operators so the violations by the federal vehicles are not conspicuous. The law was enacted on testimony from engineers that uncushioned wheels were destroying pavements.

At State and Polk streets a red haired traffic policeman said mail trucks from the Dearborn street station frequently tried to run past his whistle signals but that he didn't let them "get by with it."

"When they find a new cop on a corner," said the policeman, "the mail truck drivers will run all over him. They think because they work for the government that they're entitled to special privileges."

Buenos Aires Begins Work on a Two Mile Subway

BUENOS AIRES, April 24.—(AP)—Construction of a two mile subway linking the city's principal railway terminals was formally inaugurated in the presence of President Justo today. The project will cost $10,000,000. The subway will penetrate the business district and is expected to relieve trolley and bus traffic between the Retiro and Constitucion stations. After its completion, the city will erect a new boulevard over it.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, April 25 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Myrl S. The kidnapers' ransom demand had been reduced from about $100,000 to a third of that amount in addition to certain military supplies, the notes said.

AUTO LICENSE DRIVE STARTS; 5,986 CAUGHT

Police Ordered to Take In Every Delinquent.

The police yesterday began in earnest the first general drive against motorists who have failed thus far to purchase either city vehicle stickers or state license plates for 1933. At midnight last night a survey of the forty-one police districts in the city showed that 5,986 automobile drivers had been served with summonses to appear in court today.

Police Commissioner Allman, who ordered the drive, expressed himself as satisfied with the results, and instructed all division commanders to continue the campaign without letup today and every day until every automobile used on the city streets bears the license emblems.

Four Months of Grace.

"Under the law the stickers and license plates should have been bought by Jan. 1," said Commissioner Allman. "That's four months ago, and there appears to be little excuse for further delinquency in view of the long period of grace that has been extended on account of economic conditions."

Only a small percentage of the motorists caught yesterday for license delinquencies were taken into custody, these because they could not satisfactorily identify themselves. They were released on $10 bail each.

The arrests in the various sections of the city were as follows: Loop [traffic division and Central station], 1,171; north side, 957; northwest side, 623; west side, 1,115; south side, 340; far south and southwest section, 1,265. Policemen of the motorcycle section served 515 summonses in various parts of the city.

Court Rules Announced.

Chief Justice John Sonsteby of the Municipal court said last night that motorists appearing in court with evidence that they have applied for licenses would be discharged without penalty. Those who pleaded inability to buy licenses immediately will be allowed two weeks' more time.

OUST BEER GANGS, CUMMINGS DECLARES AS FEDERAL POLICY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 24.—[Special.]—Renewed pledges to keep racketeers out of the beer business and to cut down the cost of federal law enforcement were given tonight by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings in an address delivered here.

Bootlegging interests are endeavoring to "muscle in" on the legitimate business already, the attorney general said, and the checking of such activity will remain a "substantial problem."

Prohibition enforcement will go forward until the 18th amendment is taken off the statute books, the attorney general affirmed, but the federal government will leave minor offenders to local authorities.

Speaking of racketeering in the beer industry, Cummings said:

"No matter how honest the beer industry itself may be, there remains the danger that it will be prayed upon by outside influences. Those who are endeavoring honestly to live within the law will find a friend in the department of justice; others will proceed at their peril."

KERNER RULES ON BEER SALES NEAR N. W. UNIVERSITY

A letter from Attorney General Otto Kerner was read to the Evanston city council late last night advising them that the Northwestern university charter, which prohibits alcoholic drinks within a four mile radius of the university campus, is still in legal effect.

At present Evanston is wet, merchants and others dispensing the new 3.2 per cent beer without any great restriction. The Kerner opinion is believed by some of the aldermen to provide a basis on which Evanston might, independent of the Northwestern charter, add a strict prohibition of its own.

The council judiciary committee agreed that while the Northwestern university chart bans liquor in Evanston, Evanston cannot enforce the ban. That task, the committee held, would be the state's attorney's and would require almost insurmountable obstacles to accomplish. It was suggested informally by the committee that the Kerner opinion leaves Evanston free, if it desires, to pass a dry ordinance under the cities and villages act. Such an act could be enforced, it was claimed.

MAYOR SUGGESTS BREWERS STATE BEER STRENGTH

Wants a Law Preventing Sale of Green "Brew."

Mayor Kelly recommended to the city council committee on licenses yesterday an amendment to the malt beverage license law which would compel breweries to print the exact alcoholic content of the beer on every bottle label and the date on which it was bottled. The committee concurred in the recommendation and requested Corporation Counsel Sexton to draft the amendment before the committee's next meeting, tomorow morning.

Guard Against "Green" Beer.

The purpose of the amendment is to guard against the sale of immature beer, and to give to purchasers information pertaining to the alcoholic strength. The amendment also would provide that the name of the manufacturer must be blown in beer bottles and burnt onto kegs and barrels.

At a hearing yesterday the license committee, which is headed by Ald. Terence F. Moran [16th], toyed with the idea of bringing back the old saloon by taxing all other beer venders out of business. Several aldermen expressed their approval of license fees high enough to keep grocery stores, drug stores and confectioneries out of the beer business and to confine the trade to taverns, cafés, saloons or whatever else the beer dispensaries are to be styled.

$150 License Fee.

As it stands at present, the malt beverage license, costing $150 for the period ending July 1, applies only to places where beer is consumed on the premises. As a result hundreds of druggists, confectioners, chain stores and other grocers are selling beer without paying a city license fee. Ald. John Toman [23d] suggested an amendment to the license ordinance striking out the phrase "consumption on the premises," so that it will apply to all beer sellers.

The committee instructed the corporation counsel's office to prepare such an amendment and another one, which, it was stated, would set a license fee high enough to keep all but saloons out of the beer business.

STANDLEY WILL SUCCEED PRATT AS NAVAL CHIEF

Washington, D. C., April 24.—(AP)—Secretary Swanson tonight announced the selection of Vice Admiral William H. Standley, now commander of cruisers of the scouting force, as the new chief of naval operations to succeed Admiral William V. Pratt, but the latter will retain his post pending development of present international conversations.

At the navy department it was stated that President Roosevelt himself desired Admiral Pratt to remain in his present command, and Secretary Swanson said today he would be retained until the outcome of the present Geneva arms conference and other international negotiations are clear. Pratt reached retirement age on March 1.

In the meanwhile, Admiral Standley will be assigned as commander of the battle force.

INFLATION WILL PASS SENATE IN NEXT FEW DAYS

Opposition to It Admits Defeat.

of a régime that is now history, but the outstanding spokesman of that régime. He is the leader here today, the full general, in behalf of that army vanquished last November and disbanded on the fourth of March."

Reviews Shrinkage of Wealth.

Continuing, Senator Thomas asserted that in the last three years 60 billions of money in the banks had shrunk to 30 billions today.

"That is not money enough with which to transact the business of the greatest nation on earth," he declared.

In addition, he said, the wages of the workers have declined 10 billions; national income as a whole has come down from 90 billion to 30-odd billion.

He pointed to the fall of commodity prices and the commensurate rise of the dollar since 1926.

"The farmer everywhere in America today," he declared, "must sell $2.44½ worth of his labor, his time, his sweat, his products, to get a dollar. Even if we transferred 200 billions from the class holding fixed investments to the debtor class, even if we cut the value of the dollar in half, the farmer would have to produce $1.22¼ of value to get a dollar.

Commodity Prices to Rise.

"While the purpose of the amendment is to raise commodity prices, let me state what will happen. It is possible that nothing will happen, but I have every confidence that something will. The dollar will be cheapened, its buying power will be reduced; to that extent commodity prices will rise. Wheat, corn, cotton, every commodity of the field, farm, ranch, the mines, and the lumber yard will share in the general prosperity."

Not trying very hard to keep the sarcasm out of his voice, Senator Reed supposed that when prices of cotton went booming up farmers would cease producing a surplus.

Says Surplus Will Be Used.

"I deny that there would be any surplus if they outfitted the 17 million citizens now living on charity," retorted Senator Thomas.

He produced and held up a half gallon fruit jar three quarters full of shelled corn, and a jar full of oats. The grain in each, he said, would bring half a cent on the farm. He held up a jar containing two pounds of wheat.

"The farmer must plant it, cut it, thresh it, sack it, haul it to the elevator—and there he gets 1 cent for it," Senator Thomas said.

Senator William E. Borah [radical, Idaho.], ardently for inflation, questioned the amendment's provision, as now written, giving the President power to devalue the gold dollar. Congress had the right to prescribe a formula and designate an agent to administer it, but had no right to delegate to another its constitutional authority over the nation's money, he said.

Constitutionality Looked Up.

Senator Thomas believed the provision constitutional, but explained that the attorney general's opinion had been asked; if further limitation were required it would be placed in the bill.

"You might just as well seek to delegate to the President the power to declare war," sniffed Senator Reed, then went on: "And if the senator regards an increase of prices in debased money as evidence of prosperity then he ought to regard it as evidence of great prosperity that in 1924 a million million marks would buy one orange."

"The man who says America will go to the extent Germany did should be confined in a padded cell at St. Elizabeth's hospital," replied Senator Thomas.

Reserves Padded Cell.

"Well, speaker of the house Rainey not long ago remarked how difficult it was to stop, once you began issuing fiat money, so I recommend him for Cell No. 1—and I'll take cell No. 2," said Senator Reed. "I am as anxious to relieve the distress of the country as the senator is, but that is no reason why we should adopt a scheme which has been proved by the universal experience of mankind to cause more distress than it relieves. I do not want to take poison because the nation is ill and the senator is offering financial poison to the people of America."

Bank resources of the country multiplied by the 244½ cents which he said the farmer had to pay for the dollar amounted to 139 billion dollars, Senator Thomas declared; government securities, multiplied in the same fashion, amounted to 51 billions.

"And do these misguided bondholders believe they are going to collect 51 billions of sweat and toil from the farmers of America to pay for obligations amounting to 21 billions?" he demanded.

Still multiplying, he estimated the indebtedness of states, cities, and other political subdivisions at 122 billions, or a total of 312 billions which the farmer would have to pay in order to retire 128 billions face value of debt.

That, he explained, was the 200 billions which the inflation amendment would transfer from creditor to debtor.

Tydings Opposes Plan.

Rising to oppose the amendment, Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.] launched into an impassioned speech in which he declared that for the United States to devalue its dollar would only start foreign nations in a race to drive their currencies to lower levels.

By its tariff policies the Maryland senator said, America had driven all nations into retaliation and isolation. Inflation, he declared, would set this nation apart from all the rest of the world. He blamed the United States, as the world's creditor country, for having forced foreign countries to garner in all the gold they could, and for having driven Great Britain off the gold standard.

"We are stewing in the mess of our own greed and blaming it on every one else," he declared. "Well, I'm damned if I'm going to do it. I'm going to take my share of responsibility. The time has passed to wave the flag of the foolish, selfish, ostrich-like nationalism."

Vandenberg Joins Debate.

Just before the day's adjournment, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] took the floor to shoot questions at Senator Thomas. Would the allotment plan-leasing plan part of the farm bill evolved by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Assistant Secretary Tugwell, and Economic Adviser Mordecai Ezekiel be necessary if the inflation amendment were passed, he inquired.

"If the inflation amendment goes through then the remainder of the bill will be a waste of paper and printing," said Senator Thomas.

"Ah, then the Thomas amendment will at least protect America from the Wallace-Tugwell-Ezekiel formula," remarked Senator Vanderberg and headed for his seat with the made-to-order smile of one who has at last found something for which to be thankful.

SEIZE STILL ON FARM.

Kewanee, Ill., April 24.—(AP)—A 250 gallon still was found by federal agents in a week-end raid on the farm of Jack Peterson, near New Bedford, and Joe Shirmer, Erie, Ill., and Clem Mackey, of East Moline, were arrested.

Money Plan Simple, Indeed, as Explained by Professor

BY PROF. WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Renowned economist, world traveler, phrenologist, and native lover.]

Washington, D. C., April 24.—[Special.]—Although much has been written and said in regard to the inflationary deflation program whereby it is intended to fund the mounting toll of foreign and domestic fiduciary debentures, thereby depressing the buying power of the dollar to the old 5-5-3 ratio, as of August, 1913, it seems to me that most authorities have confused the most important point, thereby contributing to, rather than abating, the popular misconception of this simple process.

One of the obvious necessities of the present fiscal involvements is a sound currency backed by a strong demand for international credits readily negotiable at a rate consistent with the prevailing exchange and certainly at no marked departure from the traditional gold standard of 1932.

In a nutshell, therefore, I should compare the realities of this situation to a game of golf, which process should reduce the complex technical issues and terms of international finance to a ground familiar to the lay intelligence.

Stands at First Tee.

For this purpose I should picture Uncle Sam standing on the first tee. He there adresses the ball with his favorite driver and hits it a firm, clean stroke 250 yards down the fairway.

There you have the situation in a nutshell.

The demand money market is represented by the rough on the left and the ditch and lagoon on the right may be regarded as the London rate on bills of lading to the River Platte. There is a trap to the right of the green which I will label the silver issue and the caddie may be pictured as old man depression.

At the present moment, however, we are forced to admit to ourselves that the firm tone in which the liquidation of the treasury reserve coupons has been negotiated on the Paris bourse tends to weaken the technical position of the stabilization wing and encourage the greenback group in congress. The effect of this on the funding plan will be too plain to require any explanation and the influence which is certain to be exerted upon the pourparlers [French word] of the conferees [French word, also] has begun to be manifest already in the stringency in domestic industrial obligations.

Seen as Simple Operation.

So the situation now confronting the economic world will be seen as a simple operation of the gold reserve influence upon the attempt to diffuse the reaction in a cautious and controlled stimulation.

But, in reality, it is not quite so simple as that, for we must not discount the inevitable tendency to punish the dollar by a series of somewhat sporadic but nevertheless insistent refunding activities having their origin in the fundamental parity as between gold and silver. After all, gold is not a precious metal of itself and the interest problem therefore is not to be lightly disregarded unless we agree to concede coördinate importance to the series of warrants originally intended merely for deposit against the silver problem.

It is at this point that I have to declare my fundamental disagreement with Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale, whose attitude, as far as I am able to judge it from his somewhat involved pronouncements, seems to me to hinge upon the false ground of economic fluency with gold as a fluctuating security.

Nothing Personal in This.

I have a certain respect for Prof. Fisher and wish to make it quite clear that there is nothing personal in my departure from his dogmatic position with regard to the farm credit situation, involving, as it clearly does, a maintenance of the fiduciary consistency of the trade norm.

This was the guiding theory behind the rehabilitation of the silver balance in the funding negotiations of 1923 and the fallacy of the intermonetary idea, as opposed to a policy of equalized bimetalism has since then become notorious as an example of dangerous economic liquidation.

There you have the situation in a nutshell.

ROBINSON SAYS INFLATION WILL BE CONTROLLED

New York, April 24.—(AP)—A promise that the Roosevelt administration's program of inflation will be followed "prudently," and that the United States will not "enter into a competition with other governments in the depreciation of currencies," was given today by Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the sensate. He spoke before the annual luncheon of the Associated Press.

"We must not enter into a race to cheapen money or to depreciate currencies," Senator Robinson declared. "Nevertheless, it may be helpful for the executive to attempt to secure international treaties or agreements designed to end the race to depreciate currencies, for until this is done and currencies are stabilized, our producers and our merchants will be handicapped and suffer loss through the diminution of exports and the increase of imports on the part of the United States.

"It is to implement the President for these negotiations that the legislation under discussion is sought.

"Congress cannot carry on the necessary negotiations. It will strengthen the President if he is given the authority, even though it must be used prudently and only as a last recourse to save our people from prolonged depression and complete disaster."

Steer Ship of State.

"It became necessary to experiment; to steer the ship of state on a new course, even though the course might not be fully charted," he said. "Already economies are in sight which will reduce the annual budget by nearly a billion dollars. This means that in a comparatively short time such reforms in the nation's fiscal affairs will be effected as will assure the reëstablishment of proper relations between the government's receipts and expenses, epitomized in the expression 'a balanced budget.'"

The first step in the proposed inflation program, he continued, was the expansion of three billions of credit through open market operations of the federal reserve system, "safeguarded by the authority of the reserve board, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, to require the reserve banks to take action necessary to prevent undue credit expansion."

Limit Broadcasting of News.

At the business session a resolution which would stop the use of Associated Press News by radio broadcasting chains was adopted. The resolution bars the giving out for broadcasting of news, regardless of its source, by any Associated Press member.

It also forbids broadcasting of news other than brief bulletins by member papers operating their own radio stations, and it instructs the board of directors to take whatever steps may be necessary to "prevent the pilfering of Associated Press news" by radio news commentators.

Two new directors were elected and three whose terms expired were reelected. The new directors are George B. Longan of the Kansas City [Mo.] Star and L. K. Nicholson of the New Orleans [La.] Times-Picayune. The directors reëlected are Col. Robert R. McCormick of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, W. H. Cowles of the Spokane [Wash.] Spokesman-Review, and E. Lansing Ray of the St. Louis [Mo.] Globe-Democrat.

FRANCE FROWNS ON JAPAN IN NEW ROW WITH RUSSIA

Rapprochement Between Paris and Moscow Seen.

PARIS, April 24.—(AP)—Modification of the French far eastern policy was indicated by the anxiety expressed today in official quarters over Russo-Japanese tension resulting from the Chinese eastern railway dispute. France views any weakening of Russia with disfavor, it was said in governmental circles.

The French have been more or less friendly with Japan throughout the Manchurian controversy, but the foreign office now is watching developments closely.

The long dispute over the Chinese eastern railway, jointly operated by the Manchukuo government and soviet Russia, has lately approached a crisis with charges and counter charges, among them that Russia has withdrawn rolling stock across the border and has failed to return it and that Japan is fomenting a plot to seize the important railway.

See Franco-Russian Deal.

Meanwhile, there are indications that a Franco-Russian rapprochement, of which former Premier Herriot is a partisan, is developing, with military information to be exchanged by France and Russia as the next step in the program.

This is part of a conciliation movement with the soviets which the French have been encouraging since nationalism began to show strength in Germany, and central Europe reacted unfavorably to German demands for revision of the Versailles treaty. A military alliance, however, is not envisaged, the foreign office has announced.

Two French army officers, Col. Edmond Mendras, an instructor in the artillery school, and Maj. A. Simon, will go to Moscow as military attachés and two Russians will be attached to the soviet embassy in Paris. This will be the first time since France recognized soviet Russia in 1924 that French army men are officially received in Moscow.

Japs Kill 3,000 Chinese.

TOKIO, April 24.—(AP)—Japanese reports today said nearly 3,000 Chinese were slain in a week-end of bitter fighting which has swung the Japanese war machine to a point five miles southwest of Shangsuntze and fifty miles northeast of Peiping.

Rengo [Japanese] news agency dispatches said Japanese losses totaled 21 killed and 43 wounded.

Shangsuntze was captured yesterday by the Japanese after heavy infantry and air attacks. Troops under Maj. Gen. Tadashi Kawahara, captor of Jehol City, also were reported to have driven the Chinese from the strategic stronghold of Nantienmen.

Chinese Open Counter Attack.

TIENTSIN, China, April 24.—(AP)—The Chinese launched a counter offensive on the upper Lwan river today, ostensibly to prevent the occupation of Peiping and Tientsin by the Japanese.

Apparently well established Chinese reports said this move was the answer to a Japanese proposal that Manchukuoan troops be permitted peacefully to occupy the two cities. The Japanese and Manchukuoans were said to have given the Chinese one week to accept this proposal.

Despite a Japanese war office announcement today that the Japanese and Manchukuoans have been ordered to halt their advance, foreign observers believe they will enter Tientsin and Peiping if Chinese resistance continues.

Claim Recapture of Towns.

The towns of Chienan and Lulung were said to have been recaptured from the Japanese as heavy fighting continued south of Kupiekow, the Great Wall pass northeast of Peiping. The Chinese military command said 200 Japanese were killed in that area since Friday and admitted their own losses were heavy. Japanese reinforcements were reported thrown into the engagement last night.

Japanese and Chinese separatists were said to be seeking to influence the Nanking government to withdraw its army from the area south of Kupeikow.

Dancer Opens Door to Strangers; Loses Heirloom

Two men knocked last night on the apartment door of Miss Staseli Beana, 27 years old, 5568½ Ridge avenue, a dancer. When she opened the door they drew guns and entered. They took $28 from her and, searching the room, picked up an onyx brooch which Miss Beana told police was 500 years old and worth $1,500.

U. S. TO STUDY THE RECORD OF RECEIVER QUIZ

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green telephoned from Washington yesterday requesting his first assistant, William J. Froelich, to obtain a transcript of the testimony which has been given before the legislative committee investigating foreclosures and receiverships. A study of the transcript may reveal a basis for a more intensive investigation by federal authorities, Mr. Froelich said. Since the legislative investigation began Assistant District Attorney Warren Canaday has been assigned to attend the hearings as an unofficial observer. Mr. Canaday is considered an expert in the prosecution of mail fraud cases.

They were arrested after a holdup of the Royal Blue store, 5600 North Crawford avenue, in which they took $41. MUSCLE SHOALS BILL IS DELAYED BY SPRING FEVER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 24.—[Special.]—Passage of the administration Muscle Shoals bill was delayed in the house today by an epidemic of spring fever that turned six-sevenths of the membership from consideration of power and fertilizer to contemplation of hits, runs and errors, mashies, niblicks and putters.

The bill had been scheduled to come to a vote shortly after 4 o'clock. Long before that time it became apparent to house leaders that the excellence of the weather and the circumstance of a big league ball game made a quorum virtually impossible. So the vote was postponed until tomorrow.

Today was turned into an oratorical field day for the sixty odd members who remained on the floor. But so numerous were the absentees that Representative John J. McSwain [Dem., Tenn.], perhaps for the first time in history, was hard put to find some one to talk.

'TOY REVOLVER' BANDIT TRAPPED BY POLICE RADIO

Carrying two toy revolvers John Gunning, 41 years old, 1707 Clybourn avenue, entered Jacob Rettinger's saloon at 723 North avenue last night. In a few moments he walked out with $10.50.

Rettinger notified the police and a description of the bandit was broadcast over the police radio. Policemen Samuel Spinell and Bernard Engelter picked up the report just as they saw a man entering Hans Keller's saloon at 1617 Clybourn avenue and followed the man. It was Gunning. They caught him as he was leveling two revolvers at Keller. Gunning told the police he was desperate because his four children were starving and that he had resorted to banditry.

2 ROBBERS WHO CHASED VICTIM HELD FOR TRIAL

Two youths, arrested after they attempted to hold up James E. Cox, 3352 North Central avenue, near Barrington late Sunday afternoon, were held to the Lake county grand jury yesterday by Justice of the Peace Harry Hammond of Barrington. They are Ray Parker, 23 years old, 3331 Maypole avenue, and Sylvester DeGuinta, 21, of Barrington.

Only by good fortune did Cox escape a beating by the pair. He said they tried to halt him three miles north of Barrington on route 22. He refused to halt his automobile, however, and the men then pursued him. Cox, accompanied by his wife and their small daughter, drove south to Kelsey road, a mile north of Barrington, and shortly afterward into a driveway, where he called for help.

The occupant of the house in front of which he halted was Deputy Sheriff Julian Claude of Lake county. Claude went out armed and forced the surrender of DeGuinta and Parker. A pistol and a sawed-off shotgun were found in the car. Parker tried to escape from the Barrington jail Sunday night, but was captured as he was leaving.

WHEW! WHAT A NARROW ESCAPE! AND THE TIRE WAS ALMOST BRAND-NEW!
EVERY YEAR THOUSANDS ARE KILLED OR INJURED WHEN BLOW-OUTS THROW CARS OUT OF CONTROL

Now...you'll be 3 times safer from blow-outs

See how this new way of making tires prevents blow-outs by overcoming the CAUSE of blow-outs before they start

When the speedometer reads 40, 50, and 60 . . . mile after mile . . . the heat inside the tire carcass becomes terrific. Rubber and fabric begin to separate. A blister starts . . . inside the tire where you can't see it . . . And GROWS. Like an insidious tumor it gets bigger and bigger . . . Until BANG! A blow-out! The rim hits the road . . . And a terrible drag sets in . . . Like some unseen monster pulling your car off the highway!

Don't, don't—in the name of anything that's sane and safe—let this happen to you or your family! Thousands were killed or badly injured last year by just this thing.

How new invention prevents blow-outs

To protect you from blow-outs, every new Goodrich Silvertown Tire has the amazing Life-Saver Golden Ply. This new invention resists heat . . . prevents separation of rubber and fabric. Thus, blisters don't form. Blow-outs are prevented before they even start.

At gruelling speeds on the world's fastest track, the new Goodrich Silvertown, with the Life-Saver Golden Ply, lasted 3 times as long as first quality tires without this feature. These Silvertowns never blew. They were run till the tread was gone—but the Life-Saver Golden Ply refused to give!

Safest tread ever built to prevent skidding

But that isn't all! Scientific tests with leading makes of tires prove that the Goodrich Safety Silvertown has the most skid-resisting tread. Even on wet, slippery pavements, its squeegee drying action gives your car extra road-grip, and reduces danger of skidding to a minimum.

You would pay many dollars to have your life insured. You need not pay one extra cent to have your life protected. Simply equip your car with Goodrich Safety Silvertowns—they cost not a penny more than other standard tires.

Don't delay. That blister . . . that blow-out in the making . . . may be in your tires RIGHT NOW! Put Silvertowns on your car and have real protection between you and the road.

FREE! This handsome Safety League emblem with red crystal reflector to protect you if your tail light goes out. No obligation—nothing to buy. Just join the Silvertown Safety League at your nearest Goodrich dealer. Traffic Officials endorse Safety League membership.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE CITIZEN DISCOVERS HIMSELF.

The citizens of Deerfield township have reverted to first principles and have reasserted themselves in ancient rights in a fashion which may be encouraging to other people who have been inclined to doubt whether the old stamina of citizenship any longer could be looked for. Deerfield township contains Highland Park and Highwood. A township is the old citadel of primitive liberties, guarded by ancient rights and prerogatives, in the exercise of which the citizen is truly his own king. The town meeting is the final authority of the township, although in the development of American political complexities the township has seemed to become merely vestigial.

In Deerfield township, as in others, the official duties had long been trivial, the perquisites and responsibilities of office small, and the interest of the citizens in what was done correspondingly indifferent. A sum, probably not more than $10,000, would cover the entire public expenditures, and the offices were sought and filled by the obscure politicians who expected about as little as was expected of them.

Peculiar times have brought peculiar developments. When the citizens of Deerfield woke up to what was going on they discovered that the various emergency relief enterprises and the various diversions of funds to meet them had put a spending power of almost $150,000 a year in the hands of small officials who had been supposed to be dealing in nickels and dimes. When these facts cropped out the now interested citizens reasserted their primitive instrument of government, the town meeting. They filled a large assembly hall, elected a moderator, and he appointed committees. Some very able accountants and attorneys went to work on the problems discovered and in their investigations uncovered a series of official acts which were not only amazing but which might even be amusing in their incredibility if the effects had not been so injurious and preposterous. The accountants discovered a manipulation of Highwood voters through an inexcusable use of relief funds which would make Tammany return to the kindergarten for instructions in the elements of spoils politics.

The township, instead of being one of the archaic trivialities in government, had become a notorious although unobserved prodigal. It had yet to lay its hands upon the sales tax receipts which would be allotted to it for relief purposes, but it was rolling out its barrels to catch a perfect rain of public funds, and the manner in which these funds were being bucketed out appeared unbelievable to the citizens who made the discoveries.

The responsible officials and the private dealers who had been working with them had shown a natural delight in their new found opportunities, but even the officials were bewildered by what had happened to them and by what they were doing. They were still obscurities and were not driving around in expensive cars, but they had made a complete mess of the whole business and are now facing responsibility for it.

In the meantime the aroused citizens have control through their town meeting, and within the ancient rights of this small but powerful, old and fundamental, unit of American government which they have revived, to accomplish their purposes and assert their authority. In days when abuses take refuge in centralized authority and the citizen seems to be a powerless midget a rediscovery that the individual is the ruler of his government is about as encouraging an example to other distracted communities as anything that has recently come to view. The other communities should wake up and rediscover the various instrumentalities of government which are intended to make free people rulers in their own domain.

CUBA IN TURMOIL.

If the United States were not in what may be called at least a preoccupied state of mind, Cuba would be likely to receive more attention than it is receiving. President Roosevelt found a moment to discuss the island's disturbed affairs with its ambassador in Washington, but other things exhaust the time and attention.

Americans cannot be said to be unfamiliar with homicidal crimes, with bombing and machine gunning, but they are familiar with these not in political action but in the political by-products of racketeering and hoodlumism. A foreign observer might not clearly perceive the distinction between direct political violence and such indirect political consequences, but we do. When there are government gangs and anti-government gangs murdering each other, Americans observe a situation which horrifies them because they are then convinced that the afflicted country is going to smash. When a gang of hoodlums raids a business or industry, notoriously with some political support, Americans are indignant, but they think the situation is one which eventually can be cleared up. They are, there, entirely too indulgent and the steps their authorities take are usually ineffective.

Cuba presents a spectacle of terrorism directed against a government and employed by it in defense. These political murders are abhorrent to this country, which is supposed to maintain a parental attitude or at least a guardian's attitude toward its ward. In times of less domestic disturbance at home the United States would certainly be more strongly impelled to step in and stop what passes for government in Cuba. Experience has proved to the country that when an intervention has been based upon such humanitarian arguments it is not long until many of the sentimentalists are complaining because security in the country in question is based upon the presence of a marine detachment.

If Cuba does not find political arrangements which can be kept out of the morgue the United States will be back to preserve order, and that is a process to be avoided, if possible. The hand of the United States will be forced by continued manslaughter and such an event is not to be contemplated without regret and some dismay.

DEFIANT DRYS AT SPRINGFIELD.

The Illinois legislature has failed to authorize a constitutional convention to act on the repeal of the prohibition amendment. Both as party men and as individuals the majority in both houses is pledged to give the people of Illinois the opportunity to vote on the amendment at the earliest opportunity. The action of the state senate a few days ago, if persisted in, will postpone the election of delegates by almost a year.

There is no good reason why the matter cannot be presented to the voters at the judicial election on June 5. They know their minds, even if the members of the legislature are still in doubt about the virtues of the eighteenth amendment. Illinois, as has been shown in repeated referenda and in repeated elections, is wet. This state has been in the forefront of the fight against the prohibition folly.

Illinois' ratification of the twenty-first amendment will help undermine the strength of the dry fanatics in the doubtful states. That is no doubt the explanation of the dishonest and dishonorable tactics employed by the newly converted wets in the legislature. They aren't really in sympathy with the cause to which they solemnly pledged themselves in the campaign. They are still in fear of the Anti-Saloon league, still wedded to bigotry and determined to support the régime of murderous enforcement.

Every legislature has its quota of chicken hearts and numskulls, but this legislature has the distinction of being dominated by these elements. It has allowed itself to be hogtied by a bloc united in the glorious determination to violate pledges given to the voters. Its conduct to date has earned the contempt of the citizens. Illinois has learned to expect vagaries at Springfield, but it was hardly prepared for such an exhibition of incompetence, dishonesty, and treachery.

A VICTORY FOR THE TAXPAYERS.

The proposal to purchase the Beverly lake farm as a Cook county forest preserve has been abandoned. President Whealan of the forest preserve district says he will veto the appropriation if the board votes it, and a majority of the board members have announced their opposition as well. This is as it should be. With the local governments in their present financial condition there can be no justification for incurring avoidable expenditures, and to argue that the property was to be paid for in bonds rather than cash added nothing to the attractiveness of the arrangement. An increase in the outstanding indebtedness of the district, whatever form the debt might take, could not fail to weaken an already weakened credit standing. While the financial objections to the plan were sufficient to condemn it, there was the additional objection that the proposed site is too close to the county line to serve the needs of those who would have to pay for it. How the project ever could have been advanced at this time is a question that might profitably be studied.

MOTOR LICENSES.

The Illinois indifference to prompt collection of the vehicle license fee is in marked contrast to the strict rules enforced in other states. In some states a citizen who has not procured his license plates the first of the year must keep his car in the garage because he will be arrested if he appears on the streets with it. Illinois grants an indulgence which marks it as distinctly careless and which gets its citizens into trouble when they assume that neighboring states are as indifferent in the matter as their own.

It has been officially recognized here that these are hard times and the collectors and police assert a humanitarian reason for going easy with the car owner who waits three or four months before he renews his plates. There are frequently spring elections which cause officialdom to curry favors from negligent citizens. It is probably unnecessary for the state to clamp down an inflexible January first rule, although that is justified by other states. However, a rule of reason which allows some car owners privileges which more conscientious citizens do not seek cannot be stretched with any justice to the extent it is here.

Editorial of the Day

CALLING A BLUFF.

[Aurora Beacon-News.]

Everybody rejoiced in Gov. Horner's calling of the bluff of a cement company, which closed its plant and told the men thrown out of work it was the fault of the state of Illinois, which was not going to buy any Illinois cement. The governor promptly took steps to call the bluff. He had his director of public work telegraph the company and others which on three occasions had submitted identical bids, offers to lease their plants so that no one would lose his job. The bids of the various companies were far higher than the price of last year. The governor rejected all of them, charging collusion. Few there are who do not believe him right.

The present situation is similar to one that marked the Small administration. Companies at that time submitted identical bids which the governor said were excessive. He made plans for the opening of a state cement plant but prices were lowered and the state never embarked on manufacture.

Prices dropped steadily from year to year until in 1932, when they reached an all time low of 94 cents a barrel delivered. This year's bids were $1.62. Not high for olden days but 72½ per cent above last year. Prices have made no such gain in other lines, nor pay.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

STATISTICS PROVE there are 7 per cent fewer autos on the road today than a year ago. Even so, we have not yet missed the road hog who gets out in the very center of things and then tools peacefully along like an ice wagon on the Fourth of July. No matter how much the number of automobiles declines the road hog stays in line.

WITH DEEP REGRET we noticed Sunday that the family that tumbled out of the car at the side of the road and grubbed up all the pretty flowers in sight was not included among those who have had to give up their autos this year. And the college cutup who passes you like a comet and then settles down into a slow mule trot in front of you and prevents every effort you make to pass him—he's still in the game.

AND THE MAN who hasn't any brakes on his car and rams into you when you stop for a red light, oh, bless your heart, that 7 per cent reduction in the number of autos this year didn't include him. He banged into us just a few days ago and smashed the tail light all into smithereens just as he used to do.

AND THE LADY DRIVER who keeps one arm swinging out of the car so that you have no idea whether she is going to turn right, left, come straight back or's just punctuating her conversation with appropriate gestures—ah, the reduced number of motor cars didn't include her cunning little auto.

AND THE SPEED DEMON who imagines he is racing against time on the sand beach down in Florida—oh, that boy is still with us and so is the ugly faced man who threatens to knock your block off if you pay heed to a state stop sign and block his way for a couple of seconds or so. He's with us again.

SEVEN PER CENT fewer drivers on the road! Yes, but as always, the big fish get away.

SONNET.

I looked out from the big horn of the moon,
And saw the spectacle of earth below.
And over earth a quiet lay, and noon
And evening melted in an amber glow.
The orchards of the earth bear quietly
The ache of burdened boughs; and still, still sleep
The little ponds of earth, and earth's great sea:
Maybe they are the tears the giants weep
To see the little hills of earth, so old
With night and dawn, and dawn and night again;
To see the brown burrs huddled from the cold
Beneath the oak; to see the patient pain

CAMPASPE.

"JAPANESE YEN ADVANCES Against Dollar in Tokio."—Headline. Well, we know what happens to the Chinese when the Japs advance against 'em—good-by dollar! take keer of yourself.

CONGRATULATIONS are being sent to Edwin Markham on his eighty-first birthday. He wrote "The Man with the Hoe" a very long time ago. Today people will wonder why such a fuss was made over that poem; what is a hoe? Perhaps it would be better to bring the title up to date so that the present generation will understand it. We hope in the future the celebrated poem will be called "The Man with the Farm Gadget."

"U. S. OUTSPOKENLY and Boldly Steps Off Gold Standard."—Headline. Now that's a question. Did we, or did we just sort of walk out on the gold standard when the lights were down?

WHAT, AND must the great commonwealth of Illinois wait at the behest of the legislature before getting the long yearned for thrill of giving the 18th amendment a kick in the pants? No, a thousand times no! The Democrats are in control in Springfield. Let us hunt around and get copies of the Democratic platform adopted at the Chicago convention and send 'em to those boys in the legislature. Gosh, they'll be surprised. It must be they've never heard it.

OH, THE POOR DAHLIAS! Science has been monkeying with them and has discovered that artificial light makes them bloom earlier and oftener. We don't know yet what week this is, but after reading that we hope it's "Kindness to Dahlias Week."

CODICIL TO A WILL.

BRAN AND CONSTIPATION.

Of all the long list of bad habits the most prevalent is constipation. There are many reasons for this, and they will not be discussed, but one of the most important is the habitual taking of laxatives and purgatives. There are several things that are to be done by way of changing the constipation habit to a healthy one. Of these, one of the most widely used and one of the best is eating wheat bran.

A certain number, but a comparatively small one, of those with constipation are made worse by bran eating. This group is composed of those with spastic colitis, irritable colon, and of most of those with mucous colitis. A few mucous colitis cases improve on a diet rich in bran, but they are the exception.

The good effects of bran eating are due in part to the minerals and vitamins it contains and to ferments present there. A large part is the result of the presence of fiber derived from the outer part of the wheat berry.

There are physicians who regard wheat bran fiber as too irritating, as doing harm and, even when harmless, as ineffective. They say if fiber is to be given as a food ingredient, give vegetables and fruits. These foods combine fiber with laxative vegetable and fruit sugars, acids, and ferments.

Drs. G. R. Cowgill and A. J. Sullivan put the question to very carefully controlled tests, both clinical and laboratory. The conclusion they arrived at was that bran was one of the very best of all food laxatives. It was both efficient and harmless in all except the cases of spastic colitis, irritable colon, and mucous colitis.

But enough must be eaten. The minimum limit they set was 9 parts of fiber by weight for each ten thousand parts body weight. This means parts of fiber and, since only a portion of the bran is fiber, it calls for considerable bran. They found that ordinary commercial wheat bran was good enough, but the processed brans were more palatable and slightly better in other ways. A diet rich in vegetables and fruits has merit, but not even this diet equaled the bran diet. When vegetables and fruits are eaten for the purpose of overcoming constipation they must be eaten unstintingly. Cooked vegetables have more laxative action if they are prepared with fat meat or butter. In spite of the method of preparation of the vegetables and fruits, or even in spite of the quantity taken, bran was the better agent provided only the quantity eaten was large.

For cases of constipation due to irritable colon these physicians found agar to be excellent provided it was used in about one-half the quantities used of bran fiber, not with bran but in its place.

BAD BREATH.

Rosie writes: What are the causes of bad breath? What can I do to get rid of it? If I gargle that lasts only a few hours. I want to do something that will rid me of this completely for at least a day, for I am a teacher.

REPLY.

Some cases are due to ozena, some to cheesy matter in the tonsils, some to neglected teeth and tongue. The overshadowing cause is chemical changes in the digestive tract.

To effect a cure find the cause in a given case and have it corrected if possible. In most instances this calls for marked changes in diet, in eating habits, and in bowel habits.

HAVE AN EXAMINATION.

Mrs. H. N. M. writes: Several months ago I contracted influenza. One night during a fit of coughing my throat filled up with blood. I have recovered from this attack, including the cough, but since I have steadily lost weight and have not regained my lost appetite. I also find my throat filled with a clear mucus. I sometimes wonder if this is draining from my head. Could it be drainage from a sinus? I have no nasal discharge or headache.

REPLY.

It could come from any of the sources you mention. Since you coughed blood once and now have no appetite and are losing weight, be examined for tuberculosis.

CO-SIGNERS.

Chicago, April 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am one of the co-signers for a party who secured a loan of $135 from a loan company. The loan company claims I must pay the loan and interest as the borrower is not working. He owns property and I found he put more buildings on it and is in business for himself. The loan company claims they could sue him but that they do not want to. When they gave him the money they did so on my signature and did not investigate him. 1. Does the law allow that? 2. Can they make me pay the whole amount if they can't locate the other co-signer? 3. Can't they be made to sue on his property? C. F. D.

1. Yes. What did you think was the purpose of your signing?
2. Yes. After so paying, you will be in a position to force contribution against the other parties.

40 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 25, 1893.

CHICAGO.—At the meeting of the council last evening Mayor Harrison read the following resolution, which he presented to the council: "Whereas, the President, by authority of congress, has invited the living descendants of Christopher Columbus to attend the opening ceremonies of the World's Columbian Exposition as the guests of the government and the people of the United States and in acceptance of that invitation they are expected to reach the city of Chicago April 29, therefore, be it resolved by the common council of the city of Chicago, that it welcomes those distinguished guests with profound pleasure not only as the descendants of their illustrious ancestor but because in their own lives and achievements they have given evidence of an exalted patriotism, liberal ideas, and noble character; and that it requests the mayor of the city and a committee of this council to formally present to Don Cristoval Colon de la Cerda, the duke of Veragua, Don Fernando Colon de la Cerda, marquis of Barboles, and Don Cristoval Colon Aguilera, and their families on arrival the freedom of this city, which has been selected by the congress of the United States as the most appropriate place in this country in which to hold the World's Columbian Exposition in commemoration of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus."

Twenty-two Irish girls who are to take part in the Irish industrial village, which was originated and carried through by Lady Aberdeen, arrived in Chicago. They wore tam o' shanter caps set jauntily on coquettish heads and plain bonnets that hid the hair of the wearers.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 25, 1917.

FORTRESS MONROE, VA.—France's war commissioners to the United States reached Hampton Roads and last night they were bound up Chesapeake bay for Washington on board the presidential yacht Mayflower. The mission, of which Rene Viviani, vice premier and minister of justice, is the official head, and Marshal Joffre is a member, brings no written instructions from the French government, the ministry having decided to give its members unlimited powers to negotiate with the United States on all subjects, military, naval, and financial. It is prepared to discuss the sending of an American expeditionary force to France.

LONDON.—An exodus of civilians from Petrograd is described in a dispatch to the Express from the Russian capital. One permit office was besieged on April 24 by 800 persons. The correspondent says the anxiety to leave the city is generally attributable to the fear of a German advance on the capital. In order to secure a seat on a train for Moscow it is now necessary to book some days ahead.

PETROGRAD.—The American embassy was threatened with an attack by a mob of radical Socialists incited by Nikolai Lenin, an exile, who recently returned from Switzerland through Germany. A crowd which gathered on the Nevsky prospekt late the night of April 22 started for the embassy, but militiamen dispersed them after they had hurled missiles at the soldiers. Lenin, who came from Switzerland by means of a safe conduct issued at Berlin, harangued the crowd, branding America an enemy of socialism for having hanged a Socialist named Mooney at San Francisco.

WAR SUMMARY.—London reports continued advances of British troops in the Arras sector as well as to the north of St. Quentin. All German counter attacks were repelled. Paris reports artillery actions all along the French front. Infantry forces made a few sorties and brought back prisoners. Berlin reports heavy fighting in the Arras region continues, and claims the repulse of the British in the fighting waged on April 23, but London says the report is published for home consumption. The British royal flying corps sent forty German planes crashing to the ground in a day of thrills on the western front.

FROM A FIREMAN.

Chicago, April 17.—The Chicago fire department cost the taxpayers $8,246,040 in the year 1931. In 1932 the department's appropriation was $6,255,355 and the firemen's wages were reduced over 21 per cent. The rigid economy effected by the department heads effected a salvage of $302,370. Thus the fire department was operated in 1932 at a saving to the taxpayers of $2,293,054. In the last two years the annual fire losses of the city have been reduced from $12,000,000 to $8,000,000. This with the man power reduced by 154.

In common with other city employés the firemen's pay is now six months in arrears. Because of our large families this has, of course, been a real hardship. However, the merchants of this city have given us merchandise in exchange for our pay vouchers [as they have to other public employés] and we have been able to exist and avoid actual hunger.

The firemen have refrained from harassing public officials and civic leaders for the following reasons:

We realize that no one person or group is responsible for the misfortunes of the last three years. We know that our employers, the citizens of Chicago, have suffered equally with us. We are an integral part of the city and the lives and properties of over three and one-half million fellow citizens are in our keeping. Carping criticism of much bedeviled officials will not help our city. It would only encourage that element of our population which is bent on mischief to the social and economic order.

We appreciate the great efforts being made by civic minded groups and individuals in behalf of the city and its servants. Particularly do we thank Messrs. Sargent, Graham, Dewey, and Welsh for their untiring work for Chicago's salvation.

We have the utmost confidence in the courage and ability of our new mayor.

This is our confession of faith. We believe in Chicago, its leaders, its citizens and its great destiny. We continue to serve. A CITY FIREMAN.

AFTER READING THE PERKINS BILL.

Winnetka, Ill., April 19.—The present administration in Washington seems to feel [not without some justification, to be sure] that the individual American is without power to carry on; and that his only salvation lies in a centralized, all-pervasive and dictatorial control of his goings and comings.

The administration seems to have almost unlimited confidence in its ability to provide for life's necessities.

Maybe so! Maybe the battle to earn food and shelter is over for the individual. It goes without saying that if proposed administration measures are to be accepted, the opportunity to make more than a bare livelihood has only historical interest in this country.

It is proposed to move soviet Russia to America under another name.

We can only hope that the "secretaries" and "directors" do a better job for us than has so far been done for our Russian "comrades" by the "commissars." N. S. HINMAN.

THE MINIMUM WAGE.

Chicago, April 20.—I wish to make a comment on an editorial published in THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE, April 18.

The editorial, "On the Tail of the Mirage," appears to convey the idea that the objective of the proposed minimum wage legislation must be to give to every worker in the United States in his pay envelope the full sum of his needs and desires. As one who has participated in a recent conference in Washington, I may say that I know of no one who has any such idea in mind. The revived interest in minimum wage legislation is due chiefly to the intolerably low wages being paid by some employers, who are regarded by their competitors as unfair. The fact is that there are rates of pay in effect which will not cover the minimum of subsistence of the worker. Indeed, there are rates of pay in effect such that, with full working time, the workers must and do receive a subsidy out of private or public relief funds, unless they happen to have independent sources of income.

Such instances are found in some of the unorganized needle trades. I know personally of a fairly competent seamstress who works for 25 cents per day in a clothing factory in one of Ohio's larger cities and walks three miles to and from her work because she cannot afford a 10 cent carfare. The balance of the cost of her sordid living is met out of the city's relief funds. Here in Chicago a chain store organization has for months been paying women clerks $5 per week. Such wages are accepted only because most persons want work so badly that they will accept almost any wage offered rather than depend upon charity. I am sure that most of us who are now interested in minimum wage legislation are primarily concerned over sweated wages. The legal minimum wage must be viewed in the light of the situation and the use to be made of it. General denunciation or criticism of what might possibly be done through it by radical application is not sufficient.

THE CONTRACT FOR MOUNT CHICAGO.

Libertyville, Ill., April 20.—In order to expedite matters we move that Paul Bunyan and his blue ox be awarded the contract to build Mount Chicago, mentioned by Mr. Harding. Mr. Bunyan has an incomparable record as a mountain builder. The last job he was on was the Rocky mountains, and surely no one will say that as mountains they are not a huge success. This job to start in not less than five minutes after awarding the contract and be finished for A Century of Progress; also that Paul be limited to thirty hours per week. Further, we want it distinctly understood that the Baron Munchausen be made chief inspector. E. G. P.

SPANISH VOTERS BACK REPUBLIC; REJECT REGIME

Opposition to Demand Premier's Resignation.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, April 24.—The Spanish republic as now constituted still has a long hard row to hoe in Spain's political backwoods. This is made evident by practically complete returns tonight from yesterday's municipal elections.

The voting was watched eagerly because it gave women, who constitute a majority in Spanish elections, the first chance to go to the polls and part of the nation its first chance in almost two years to pass judgment on the republic. The results showed a respectable republican victory. Even though the elections were held in the small towns, where the revolutionary fever of two years ago failed to shake off the feudal yoke, two-thirds of the councilmen thus far returned belong to the multiple republican breed.

Few Reds and Monarchists Win.

Only a handful of communists, 26 in the whole country, and a few avowed monarchists were elected. But the remaining third are to all intents and purposes proponents of the old régime which two years of the republic have failed to dislodge.

Furthermore, about half of the republicans returned belong to the opposition that is panting to break Premier Manuel Azana's republican Socialist coalition with its advanced left wing tendencies. Among them many were actuated by distrust of the Socialists. Many more were those whose ideals are hardly distinguishable from those of the monarchists and whose not always avowed aim is to hamper religious and agrarian reforms.

It was a republican victory, but not an Azana victory. His coalition drew hardly one-third of the posts—the number of votes cast is not available. The ministerial parties obtained 5,048 councilmen of their stamp. The republican opposition got 4,206. The right wing of clerical, conservative and so-called agrarian groups, who are openly hostile to the régime, secured 4,954 seats. Innumerable small groups got the rest.

Will Ask Premier to Quit.

Although less than 1,000,000 Spaniards voted, the opposition, both republican and anti-republican, claims a plebiscite value in the result, as was done in the elections that turned out King Alfonso in 1931. So, tomorrow the opposition leaders in parliament will demand the resignation of Azana and the exile of the Socialists from power.

The conservative press is shouting victory. Whether this will defer or speed plans for a combined civil and military rising against the present government scheduled first for April 6, then April 13 and again for last night remains to be seen. Certain it is that the Azana coalition shows no intention of capitulating.

Azana said he is pleased at the results. He interpreted the count as meaning that the republic had made gains where it never was strong before. Its real strength always has been in the larger towns which did not vote yesterday.

Opposition Full of Glee.

The opposition points gleefully to the setbacks of the Socialists in a number of their strongholds. Nevertheless, they got a little less than half the councilmen returned by the government parties, and pride themselves on their new strength in regions where they were unknown a year ago.

Although nobody has shown interest in discovering how many women voted, the women did it with enthusiasm. In the town of Orgaz in Toledo, where 10 per cent of the male electors went to the polls, practically all the women voted. At Oyarzun, in the Basque country, an old lady of 101 went to the polls, but voted the traditionalist ticket, which was equivalent to voting for "bonnie Prince Charlie" in a Chicago mayoralty election.

Santiago Casares Quiroga, minister of interior, was able to claim tonight without contradiction that the elections were the cleanest in Spanish history. Only nine persons were killed in disturbances, but there were a great many who suffered serious wounds, and the death toll may reach 20.

Tell it to Sweeney!
{..uncharted customer}

"H'MM," h'mmed Mr. Apfel anxiously. "Steel is down to sixteen percent capacity. Business must be terrible!" Mr. Apfel, who makes ice cream cones sold in small confectionery stores, decided to go slow. (Odd prices on almost everything have given the Sweeney children more pennies than they have ever had!)

"Car loadings off three weeks running," remarked J. Turges Pivington. "We better hold up those orders and see what happens." (But women customers of the Pivington store have been driven frantic the last two years by apologetic salespeople who want to "order it for you.")

"Commodities suffer slight decline," said the financial page, and P. X. Pelt, manufacturer of handbags, decided to call off his seasonal trip (A lot of women have discovered that they can make the old purse do until they see something they like.)

Humorous? Not at all! Merely typical instances of business thinking these past two years!

THE heathen in his blindness bows down to wood and stone. The savage in the bush is tripped up by a thousand taboos. The Navajo might not plant corn unless the omens were propitious. Ancient Egypt steered its affairs by far off stars. Imperial Rome sought counsel in the mumblings of oracles suffering from indigestion. And in this enlightened age we find business men, auto-intoxicated with excess information, turned into readers of charts and seers of statistics, serfs of "conditions"—eye-weary watchers for doves bearing olive branches on an economic Ararat. The great heart of American business made the massed misfortunes of the world the measure of its own expectancy, circumscribed its own quota by the quantity of assorted grief on hand. . . . And the universal policy has been one of waiting, waiting for better times, for better business to come.

We forget that the so-called "economic laws" under which we have been cowering are rarely absolute, often not laws at all; usually trends, tendencies and accumulations. Like most of the physical laws they can be changed, voided or circumvented: by accident, such as invention and discovery; by massed opinion, such as sentiment, prejudice, boycott, hysteria; by initiative and enterprise. Men still sail boats against the wind, fly planes against gravity, keep dry in rain and warm in winter. . . . Individually we may not be able to find exemption against prevailing conditions, or a sesame to better business. But waiting is at best a wasteful remedy!

Meanwhile . . . one hundred and twenty-two million people go on living and wanting and buying. Ten million housewives are in the market today for anything new for tonight's dinner. Ten million women still look in mirrors every morning, customers for something to keep or recall that schoolgirl complexion. Ten million young men still take a lively interest in the cut of their collars, the quality of their cigarettes, the appearance of automobiles, or anything that will affect their immediate present or indeterminate future. Ten million children today ask their parents for something—from a stick of gum to a trip to Europe. The needs and wants of these millions are open doors for good salesmanship—because the buying power of this country is far in excess of its buying these past two years!

With so much taken for granted, there is always room for exceptions. The stout hearted seller who ventures forth in the rain of depression will not only fare better now than his brethren, but be well up in the parade when prosperity sticks its long-awaited, shining face around the many-angled corner.

IF you are tired of waiting and intent on selling, we suggest Telling It to Sweeney—the uncommonly fortunate common people in the New York market. The Sweeneys are the people with incomes from six thousand dollars down, the middle class and the medium incomed. There are twelve million of them in New York City and its suburbs. Independent of any one industry, free of the problems of the farmer, blessed with open banks and bulging savings banks, experiencing less unemployment than most parts of the country, better paid and better off and better buying—the Sweeneys are easily the best market in the world today, and the only open market in New York. If you have nothing to sell to them, you are not going to be in business for some time to come. If you have and fail to sell it, you are not making the most of your most opulent opportunity. And if you are not advertising to the Sweeneys, you are missing today's only active market.

Tell It to Sweeney—in New York, in The News! This one newspaper alone and by itself reaches two-thirds of New York City families, two-fifths of suburban families. It reaches most of the Sweeneys (and more Stuyvesants than any other newspaper)! It reaches them more effectively, because advertising on its small pages is more seen and more read, has more chance to do more work. It costs so little that the cost of doing without it is high. And it has no substitute in this market at this time. Cf., New York retail linage figures for proof.

Tell It to Sweeney—and better your business in the country's best market! May we tell you more?

CONVEY TITLE IN 1400 LAKE SHORE TO BOND OWNERS

Step in Reorganization Program.

BY AL CHASE.

Another step in the reorganization of the twenty-one story cooperative 1400 Lake Shore Drive building, formerly known as the Touraine hotel, was taken yesterday when the Schiller-Lake Shore Building corporation conveyed title by quitclaim deed to Arthur E. Jensen, nominee of the bondholders' protective committee. William T. Hooper is secretary of the corporation, and Anton Wille is president.

According to Charles E. McGuire, secretary of the bondholders' committee, title will be conveyed later to a new corporation to be formed. He states that over 95 per cent of the bondholders are in favor of the reorganization plan and more than 90 per cent of the stockholders favor it. Revenue stamps indicate $3,000 paid for the equity, subject to a $3,800,000 incumbrance, special assessments, taxes, etc.

The 1400 Lake Shore drive property was bid in at master's sale for $760,000 by four members of the bondholders' protective committee last Friday, as announced in THE TRIBUNE. These four will be on the board of directors of the corporation to be formed.

Eitel Trustee Reports Cash.

The Bondholders' Protective committee for the Eitel buildings, office, hotel, and theater, at La Salle and Randolph, reports $66,907 cash on hand Feb. 28, 1933, held by the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, as trustee of the bond issue. A statement of cash receipts and disbursements for fourteen months ending Feb. 28, 1933, shows gross receipts of $703,829; disbursements for operating expenses, $283,564; disbursements for other expenses, $380,740. Cash on hand at the beginning of the fourteen months period was $21,383.

It is stated that of the disbursements for other expenses, $241,102 was paid out on taxes and penalties on taxes and $16,000 was used to purchase tax anticipation warrants, which are still on hand in this account. Occupancy for February is reported to have been 63 per cent for the office building and 44.26 per cent for the hotel section. This was a $7,750,000 6 per cent Greenebaum Sons Investment company bond issue, since reduced to $7,250,000. Eric L. Anderson is secretary of the bondholders' committee.

Sheridan-Brompton Flats.

The Chicago Title and Trust company, receiver for the thirteen story Sheridan-Brompton apartments, at the southwest corner of Sheridan road and Brompton avenue, reported on Jan. 1, 1932, cash on hand as $99,647. Seven months later, it reported $67,320 cash on hand, July 31, 1932. Yesterday the receiver's staement showed $20,582 on hand March 31, 1933.

For the fifteen months ending March 31, 1933, a statement of cash receipts and disbursements shows gross receipts of $213,856; disbursements for operating expenses $111,778, and other disbursements, $181,143. This was a $2,250,000 Greenebaum Sons Investment company bond issue, at 6½ per cent, since paid down to $2,064,500. Occupancy of the 160 suites is reported as 65.62 per cent; 105 being now rented. The one store is occupied.

PILOTS, BUILDERS BACK NEW DEAL IN AIR RACING

Flyers Risk Sport Permits in Chicago Event.

BY HUGH SEXTON.

Leading pilots and members of the aviation industry are supporting the American Air Races, to be staged on Chicago airport on July 1, 2, 3, and 4, under the auspices of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, it was announced yesterday by Capt. M. M. Corpening, president of the Chicago Air Race corporation, which is producing the spectacle.

"Our new deal in air racing for the aviation industry and the public has been accepted with enthusiasm by all of the outstanding racing pilots and performers we have approached," he said. "They are behind us wholeheartedly in our attempt to clean up air racing and place it on a self-supporting basis, through our refusal to pay excessive fees to professional promoters and the National Aeronautic association.

Advisory Staff of Experts.

"In order to work this new deal out to the best advantage of the aviation industry, we have established an advisory staff of technical experts who are serving in that capacity because of their desire to place the sport of air racing on a new high level of sportsmanship.

"The advisory staff includes three representatives of aircraft motor manufacturers: L. A. Majneri, chief engineer, the Warner Aircraft corporation; Arthur Nutt, vice president of engineering, Wright Aeronautical corporation, and T. E. Tillinghast, assistant to the president, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft company.

"Fuel companies are represented by Maj. E. E. Aldrin, president of the Stanavo specification board; O. M. Bounds, manager of aviation sales, Continental Oil company, and William Parker, manager of the aviation division, Phillips Petroleum corporation.

Representatives of Builders.

Aircraft builders are represented by Ben O. Howard, Kansas City, Mo.; E. M. Laird, Chicago; Clyde V. Cessna, Wichita, Kas.; Z. D. Granville, Springfield, Mass., and Roy T. Liggett, Omaha, Neb.

"Racing pilots are represented by John Livingston of Aurora, Ill.; Lee Gehlbach of Detroit; Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach, Cal.; Arthur Killips of Lyons, Ill.; Arthur Davis of East Lansing, Mich., and Amelia Earhart Putnam of New York City. In addition to these representatives of the various branches to the industry, we have the full coöperation of many other leaders in affiliated fields.

"Definite commitments to participate in the American Air Races have been received from Livingston, Davis, Killips, Laird, Gehlbach, and Liggett. Other pilots who have made similar commitments to date are Mrs. Betty Lund Steele, Eldon Cessna, Clyde V. Pangborn, Capt. Richard Granere, Vincent C. Taylor, Herman Hamer, and Lon Yancey, the trans-Atlantic flyer who now stunts an autogiro. The Cessna and Howard racing planes are entered in events of the American Air Races.

Defy Threat to Licenses.

"These pilots will fly at the American Air Races despite the threat of the National Aeronautic association to suspend their sporting licenses. They feel, as we do, that the value of the sporting license has declined considerably since federal licensing of airplane pilots was inaugurated by the government in 1926. They also feel that the significance of the sporting license has been lost in recent years.

"Our decision to hold the American Air Races without the sanction of the National Aeronautic association is being followed by the U. S. Amateur Air Pilots' association, which is holding five large air meets this summer without that sanction. They will be at Springfield, Mass., May 27-28; at Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 9-10; at New York City, Oct. 7-8; at Atlanta, Ga., at a date to be selected, and at another eastern city at a date to be selected."

Blame Firebug for Loss of 1,000,000 Gallons of Rum

by failing to take this precaution when you marry!

To get married without being examined for syphilis and gonorrhea is to risk wrecking your romance. For not only are these two diseases an outstanding cause of ill health, unhappiness and divorce among men and women but they are known to be directly responsible for most defective children!

Syphilis, for example, is the principal reason for stillborn, deformed and feeble-minded babies. Also, it robs many a married man of his livelihood by resulting in such destructive complications as heart disease, blindness, deafness, apoplexy, paralysis and even insanity! This disease can be acquired innocently and without knowledge, and thus exist for years before being discovered.

Gonorrhea, too, is a source of grave danger, for much sterility, most infantile blindness and the majority of the mutilating pelvic operations performed on women are traceable to it. In addition, it lessens the earning power of its victims by causing crippling rheumatism and other serious disorders.

Both diseases, however, can be cured if properly and faithfully treated. Even long-standing cases of syphilis can often be arrested and a safe marriage made possible. Therefore any person who now has a venereal disease, or who is in doubt as to whether an early infection has been cured, should seek competent medical advice when marrying. In fact, many states require every prospective bridegroom and bride to pass a medical examination before being licensed to marry!

Knowing syphilis and gonorrhea to be the greatest of all obstacles to successful marriage and motherhood, a group of prominent Chicagoans took steps in 1920 to provide the public with dependable but inexpensive relief from these dangerous infections. They founded NOT FOR PROFIT a venereal disease clinic known as the Public Health Institute, which has since cared for more than 196,000 individuals, given in excess of 4,000,000 treatments and become by far the largest institution of its kind in the world!

Although the medical service of the Public Health Institute is of the most advanced type obtainable, its fees are remarkably low. A complete examination for syphilis and gonorrhea, including Wassermann and Kahn blood tests, costs only $3.00, while six consecutive treatments for gonorrhea cost but $4.00. Dental, optical and X-ray services are also available to patients of the Institute at proportionately low fees. Thus its facilities are easily within the reach of all, especially as even those pressed for funds can arrange to be treated.

Even though you have no particular cause to suspect infection, why not take the precaution of being examined for venereal diseases right now? Your family physician will give you such an examination at small cost, or you can get it here, in equal privacy, at any time between 10 A. M. and 8 P. M. (Sundays excepted). If found to be free from infection, as are more than one-third of all those who come to the Public Health Institute, you will immediately be dismissed with a clean bill of health.

NOTE: The Public Health Institute has no connection with any other Chicago health or medical institute, and should not be confused with those run for personal gain!

BANKS PAY $174,000,000 TO DETROITERS

Large Distribution of Cash Which Started Monday, April 24th, Makes Detroit an Unusually Attractive Market For Sales Effort

On Friday, March 24, the United States Government and the General Motors Corporation, supplying equal capital, opened the National Bank of Detroit—a wholly liquid institution with ample facilities to care for the financial needs of America's fourth city.

On April 24, Detroit's two old banks, whose liquid assets have been assumed by the newly organized bank under Government sponsorship, began completion of $174,000,000 payment in cash as a partial dividend. This amount consists of a 30% present payment and 10% previously announced. Careful liquidation, assured Detroit by the Federal Government, it is assumed, will pay the old depositors close to 100 cents on the dollar eventually. It is important for manufacturers and advertisers doing business in Detroit to understand these facts clearly.

Capital and Savings Not Destroyed.

The capital and savings of Detroit depositors have not been wiped out. In fact, Detroiters, this week, in obtaining the large cash dividend from the two old banks have more actual cash on hand than at any other time in the history of the city. More money will actually be thawed out of frozen accounts and put into circulation in a few weeks than would, in the ordinary course of events, have been put into circulation in years. More than $174,000,000 in cash is being distributed to 800,000 depositors, and their psychology has changed from hoarding money to wanting things— material, substantial things that they can touch, enjoy and use.

Evidence of this new mental attitude has been noted in the response to advertising shown by Detroiters. A selling of Oriental rugs conducted by one of Detroit's leading department stores showed the greatest volume of individual sales in history. A sale held by one of Detroit's exclusive furniture stores brought greater results than have been seen in a year. The Olympia —the Madison Square Garden of Detroit—seating 14,500, was sold out nightly to hockey enthusiasts. These are merely straws that show the way the wind is blowing in Detroit!

A Maker of World Products.

It will be seen that Detroit, therefore, offers a huge market for enterprising advertisers right now. It must be remembered that Detroit is America's fourth city, with a population of more than 1,500,000, who must have food, clothing, entertainment and all the necessities of life as well as some of its amenities. It is a huge market by any count and a market that has a habit of changing its business curve sharply and with little warning. If business is good elsewhere in the United States, Detroit feels it quickly. Detroit is the center of the automobile industry and better automobiles, offering greater values, have never before been built than those manufactured today. The world must come to Detroit for automobiles, but that is not all! Detroit is the world's leading manufacturer of pharmaceutical products, stoves, electric refrigerators, adding machines, salt and soda products. The salaries and wages paid to workers in industries other than automotive almost equal the salaries paid by the motor manufacturers!

A Great Market!

Yes, Detroit is a huge market and offers an almost unique opportunity to advertisers for it is one of the few major markets in the world that can be sold adequately through one newspaper. There is no surer way of entering the homes of Detroit than through the columns of Detroit's own HOME newspaper—The News.

This newspaper has the largest circulation in Michigan, the largest circulation in the Detroit trading area, and the largest circulation in Detroit proper. It reaches 71% of the homes with better than average incomes. At least 76% of its city circulation is delivered by exclusive News carriers direct to the homes. The Detroit News takes pride in the fact that in the month of February, during the major portion of which Detroit was wholly without banking facilities, it nevertheless, according to Media Records, was among the first 10 newspapers in America in advertising volume.

Detroit and The Detroit News offer you an exceptional opportunity for business right now! Take advantage of it, now!

CUMMINGS ASKS MORE DETAILS OF INSULL DEBACLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 24.—[Special.]—New information on Insull manipulations is being called for by the department of justice. There will be no leniency for persons in high places or for leading institutions, if facts show that they were criminally involved, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings said today.

Largely in Green's Hands.

Thus far no additional grounds for action have been discovered in the senate testimony, Mr. Cummings said, but the added facts may complete groundwork for other indictments. The matter is being left largely in the hands of District Attorney Dwight F. Green in Chicago. Nineteen persons already have been indicted.

Mr. Cummings insisted that whatever action the government takes will not be softened or delayed for the benefit of important institutions or persons.

Reminded that the previous administration had held up criminal prosecutions in the Harriman National bank case in New York supposedly to aid the bank, Cummings rejoined: "Yes, and those who saw fit to holdup prosecution in that case have been explaining ever since."

Favors Frank Methods.

"We should know the truth about these matters," the attorney general added.

"Besides," the attorney general declared, "nine-tenths of the apprehension felt by defendants for institutions they have mismanaged is personal, I think." He said he thought people generally were wanting a thorough investigation and cleaning up of the Insull situation.

"When Ladies Meet" Merits Big Welcome

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Here is a comedy of distinction, gracefully written, charmingly staged, and admirably acted, offered as the last play in the subscription season of the American Theater society at the Erlanger. It comes from the pen of the observing Rachel Crothers, the most consistently successful of our women playwrights; it was produced by John Golden, a depression-proof manager with an instinct for hits; and it should be received with enthusiasm by a town that has been denied its fair share of first rate playgoing opportunities this season.

"When Ladies Meet" deals with the triangle problem among the clever modernists of New York. They discuss it lightly, and to a constant ripple of laughter, but they take it seriously, being human and normal in spite of their cleverness and their modernity. And when the two women in the case—the mistress and the wife—finish with their punctilious consideration of the painful situation in which they find themselves, the man who is such an important factor in the problem ceases to be of any importance at all—even to himself. Miss Crothers is tolerant of lady sinners, especially when they put their whole souls into their clandestine affairs, but to the male philanderer she deals what might be called a "crusher."

The mistress is a high grade novelist who believes that she has met her soulmate in her handsome, gray-haired publisher, and who has been secretly "his" for a year. The affair means so much to her that she has used it as the plot for her forthcoming book, like George Sand and many another writing lady.

He has been talking about getting a divorce so that they may marry; and she has been wondering about the ethics of this procedure, trying to be a spartan and a square shooter but gradually drifting into the man-grabbing point of view. However, she thinks that the way to face the issue is to meet the wife and talk her out of her conjugal rights.

The wife is merely the nice, intelligent, and patient Mrs. Woodruff, who knows that her husband has a weakness for women [many of them] and has tried to accept the situation without condoning it. These two meet by a neat little arrangement of comedy plot making, without knowing that they are rivals, and the mistress tells the wife the story of her novel and her love affair. They talk as friends and then, in a casual incident of revelation, discover that they are angles A and B in the well known diagram of amorous geometry.

What happens then is a third act in which the two women scornfully deflate the great lover of the publishing business and turn him adrift. An amusing young fellow is left behind by the plot to comfort the bruised soul of the lady novelist. As for the fine-spirited wife, she appears to need no consolation. Perhaps Miss Crothers has reserved a reconciliation with the husband as material for her next study of the American domestic scene.

The cast can be called perfect, and the fluttering episodes, which run a little too much to light arguments about "what a woman should do if," are acted with deft assurance and patrician realism. Frieda Inescort plays the entranced novelist with a cool and easy distinction; Selena Royle is in exactly the right key as the sensitive, well-balanced wife; Spring Byington makes a vivid character study out of a light-headed lady with a country house at her friends' disposal; Walter Abel is droll and diverting as a young man of the world who mars the love intrigue; and Herbert Rawlinson is precisely the impressive philanderer that Miss Crothers wanted to deflate.

You can attend "When Ladies Meet" without any compunctions about its quality as playgoing diversion. It's an absolutely first-rate thing in its vein.

Rabbi Freehof Says Character Breakdown Is Depression Cause

That the world is suffering from two entirely opposite kinds of economic depression although both result from a single cause which is not economic, is the opinion of Rabbi Solomon B. Freehof, spiritual leader of K. A. M. temple, 4959 Drexel boulevard. He spoke last night before more than 1,000 persons at a "Rebirth of the Temple" service at Temple Sholom, 3480 Lake Shore drive.

There is one kind of a depression in Russia, said Dr. Freehof, and another kind in America and in countries other than Russia. In Russia there is "a tragic depression in production which the soviet 5 year plan struggled to overcome. Whereas in other countries, Dr. Freehof declared, and particularly in America, there is a distribution depression which is equally tragic.

Dr. Freehof contended that even though Russia's depression is socialistic, and America's is capitalistic, yet in neither case was an economic system or theory to blame. He contended that the present plight of the world is not due to the breakdown of one sort of one economic system or another. It is the social structure which has fallen apart, causing the trouble, said Dr. Freehof. He added that the social structure can be no stronger than the material from which its fabric is made. That material, said Dr. Freehof, is human character.

Launch Plans for New Term of Orchestra

Musicians Put Contract Up to Union.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Whether the Chicago Symphony orchestra will resume its concerts at Orchestra hall next season is going to depend upon the result of negotiations between the Orchestral association and the Chicago Federation of Musicians.

At present the orchestra is nominally nonexistent. It has finished its 1932-'33 season; it has not been reengaged for 1933-'34. The members met at the headquarters of the federation, 175 West Washington street, yesterday afternoon, and were addressed by James C. Petrillo, the federation president, on conditions as they stand at present. At the end of the address a secret ballot was taken and the 77 members present voted unanimously to leave negotiations in the hands of Mr. Petrillo and the federation board of directors.

In order to guide the discussion, Mr. Petrillo disclosed a letter received from the Orchestral association stating that the deficit of the orchestra in the season just closed was $67,776. This was less than that of the season before which was $80,343, or a total of $148,119. The letter also stated that plans are on foot for a campaign during the summer and fall to sell 500 season subscriptions on the main floor, especially for the Thursday night performances, which will reduce the deficit something like $30,000 more.

The smaller deficit of the season just closed would seem to be more the result of lower costs than of increased revenue. The orchestra played with fewer men. Instead of ninety-five players on the regular roster, eighty-five were employed. In addition the pay of those remaining was reduced $10 a week from the former scale. A revised grouping of the players on the stage of Orchestra hall had considerable effect in concealing the fact of fewer players, but there would seem to be a universal hope that some day an arrangement can be worked out whereby the full number can be restored.

Mr. Petrillo, personally a great admirer of Mr. Stock and the orchestra as one of the finest expressions of Chicago's music, expresses his hope that an equitable agreement can be made which will be fair to both sides. It is hardly necessary to add that a similar hope is expressed by members of the Orchestral association. Negotiations will therefore go forward with a feeling of hope.

It is reported that "Emperor Jones" is going to do itself uncommonly well as a scenic production in addition to being the best seller in opera of the season. Word comes of the final scene of the piece, where Jones, in his effort to elude his pursuers through the jungle, is finally run down by them. Here there will be a Negro ballet of 125 dancers picturing its hunger for vengeance with pagan tribal dances and cries to the gods. Meanwhile a chorus of more than 100 is concealed in the scenery, performing the ancient African death chant to the throb of drums, while at the same time a large orchestra in the pit is playing Louis Gruenberg's score.

Among the summer arrivals during the course of the exposition there is news of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe. This is the reorganization of the Diaghileff Ballet Russe which combined with the Monte Carlo organization after Diaghileff's death and, according to word from Europe, is carrying on the art of the Russian dance in the same entrancing manner as before.

Film Presents Stirring Story of Mussolini

"MUSSOLINI SPEAKS."
Produced by Columbia.
Described and interpreted by Lowell Thomas.
Presented at McVicker's theater.

By Mae Tinée.

What a man! What a story!

The movie on McVicker's screen is more than a compilation of news reels. It is a glorious adventure caught by the camera. It is a triumph—paean of mind over matter. (No, I'm not.)

Starting with views of Mussolini's birthplace, the picture offers a panorama of his activities up to the present time. He becomes a Socialist. He edits a newspaper. He goes to war. He is injured in action and rewarded for distinguished service. You see him in a hospital—frail, bent, shrapnel-ridden. And to look at him one would think—"the end is soon!"

It is to laugh! Shrapnel kill Mussolini! Bombs, bullets, put him out of the way? "NOTHING can harm me till my work is done!" asserts Il Duce, who firmly believes himself a man of destiny.

The birth of Fascism, its unbelievable success, are shown in thrilling pictorial sequence. Then comes the dictator's historic speech before cheering, adoring multitudes at Naples on the anniversary of the Fascists' supreme triumph.

And now you really meet the man, Mussolini, and study him through the intimate range of closeups. (Mr. Roosevelt may be a great, a greater personality than Mussolini, but I fear he'll never be able to equal Benito in the matter of making faces. The Italian Hope makes the most AWFUL, the most FOOLISH, the most endearingly UGLY faces as he talks and rests! Entirely unconsciously. We all certainly did enjoy them the other afternoon!)

The man is WILL personified. He exudes concentration. You feel that not the smallest detail is trifling to him. If it exists, if it concerns his construction idea, it is worthy of his attention. Since he eats, drinks, and sleeps, WORK, it might be a good idea for him to spend a working vacation in Russia. If he could get in. And if he got in, if he could get out. Napoleon didn't have much luck that way. Of course, too, there is always Stalin. Should Mussolini and Stalin ever lock horns—wouldn't THAT be sport in the arena. . . .!

In the speech mentioned the hero goes over the entire program of the nation's activities and accomplishments under his direction. Clever editing cuts in on the oration with views of what it's about. One of the most inspiring of the sights is the revelation of the manner in which the youth of Italy is being trained—physically, morally, mentally—to qualify as future props of the country.

Lowell Thomas lectures most entertainingly along with the film and translates Mussolini's speech for you.

Italians, of course, will go for this cinema in a big way. I should think Americans would, too, being as how we are in something of the same economic boat that Benito Mussolini steered so sanely and safely through turbulent seas of national chaos.

See you tomorrow.

Wedding of Maude Wingfield and Paul Hamlin to Be Tomorrow

Service Will Be Read at Astor Street Apartment of Frank Hibbards.

BY JUDITH CASS.

TOMORROW afternoon the drawing room of the Frank Hibbards' stunning apartment at 1301 Astor street will be the setting for a wedding of interest, that of Mrs. Maude Murdoch Wingfield and Paul D. Hamlin.

The service is to be read at 4:30 o'clock by Judge Thomas Taylor in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard, the bride's daughter, Miss Jeanine Wingfield, and George G. Dewey, who is to be best man for Mr. Hamlin.

At 5 o'clock some of the bridal couple's friends will come in for tea and to drink the bride's and bridegroom's health, but it isn't a reception—it is much too informal to be called that, Mrs. Hibbard explained yesterday. She is telephoning the invitations, for Mrs. Wingfield and her daughter just arrived from San Francisco Sunday and it wasn't until after then that definite plans for the wedding were made. Mr. Hibbard and Mr. Hamlin were schoolmates at St. Paul's back in their preparatory school days before Mr. Hamlin moved to Chicago. He came here from Pennsylvania 33 years ago and for some years has been living on Dearborn parkway with Mr. Dewey and two other bachelors. He and his bride have no plans for the immediate future but eventually they will be at home at 10 East Schiller street.

Mrs. Wingfield and her daughter, who was a favorite with the debutante set here last winter, spent the early part of the winter in Chicago, but went to San Francisco, Mrs. Wingfield's girlhood home, shortly after the first of the year. Her engagement to Mr. Hamlin was rumored before she left but no announcement was made. Miss Wingfield was presented to King George and Queen Mary last year at the same court with Miss Louise Dewey and Miss Marjorie Goodman, the latter a niece of Mrs. Hibbard's.

Miss Wingfield's father is George Wingfield, known in mining and banking circles of the west and former United States senator from Nevada. Mrs. Wingfield is a pretty brunette, vivacious and charming, and a musician of talent, and all who have met her since she came to Chicago to live consider her as well as her daughter a welcome addition to Chicago society.

Miss Burgess Is Engaged

Another item of romantic interest is this one in which we announce the engagement of Miss Margaret Lee Burgess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Burgess of New York, formerly of Omaha, to Sheldon Dick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Blake Dick of Chicago and Lake Forest. Miss Burgess is a graduate of St. Timothy's school at Catonsville, Md., and attended Bryn Mawr college.

Mr. Dick was graduated from Cambridge university of England and now is living in New York where he is a literary agent. He is a brother of Mrs. Thomas W. Swan [Mabel Dick] of New York, Albert B. Dick Jr. and Edison Dick of Lake Forest and C. Mathews Dick of Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Sr. are, as usual, spending the winter aboard their yacht, Chieftain, in Florida waters, and they are not expected to return to Chicago until the latter part of May.

Sheldon Dick's marriage to Dorothy Michelson Dick was dissolved by law a little over a year ago and Mrs. Dick and their little 4 year old daughter, Dorothy, are living abroad. No date for the marriage of Miss Burgess and Mr. Dick has been set.

Howard Linns Leave Town House.

By tomorrow the last of the moving vans that are taking the attractive things that furnished the town house of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn to a storage warehouse will have backed up to 55 Cedar street and everything belonging to the Linns will be out of the house. Mr. and Mrs. Linn, who just returned about ten days ago from several months in the east, are in their country place at Shore Acres for the summer, and when they come to town next winter it will be a small apartment that will house them.

They have no plans for the summer yet except to be at home, and they probably will have visitors galore during A Century of Progress, they have so many friends everywhere.

Friday night of this week Mrs. Linn is entertaining at dinner for her cousin, Mrs. Herbert Stuart Stone of New York, who will spend the weekend with the Linns at Shore Acres. Mrs. Stone has been the guest of Mrs. Linn's father, Edward T. Blair of Lake Shore drive, since Sunday, but tomorrow and Thursday she will be with the Samuel T. Chases in Lake Forest. Mrs. Chase is inviting some of the former Mary McCormick's old friends in for tea on both afternoons, and Mrs. William P. Martin is giving a dinner for her Thursday night. Mrs. Stone is a sister of Chauncey McCormick and the mother of Herbert S. Stone Jr., who recently moved here from New York and is living in Wheaton with his attractive young wife and two little children.

"Your passport at the door will be a present in your hand;

This is the limerick Mrs. Chase has written to remind the guests that they won't be welcome this afternoon at the tea party the executive committee of the White Elephant Rummage shop is giving at the Casino unless they bring things to enlarge the depleted stock of the shop.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine and Mrs. Charles Wesley Dempster are to be hostesses at the party, which will be from 3 until 6 o'clock, and pouring will be Mrs. Chase, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Harold A. Howard, Mrs. Charles K. Foster, Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell, and Mrs. John A. Spoor. Mrs. Hardwick Moseley is to sing, Senorita Maria to dance, and the popular "Sammy" to play the piano during the afternoon.

The White Elephant Rummage shop is conducted at 27 East Ohio street for the benefit of the Children's Memorial hospital and the women of the board are as conscientious about their jobs as if they were being paid and were dependent upon what they made. Mrs. Cummings, for instance, never misses being there on the last Thursday of every month to take charge of the monthly home dressmakers' sale. Assisting her each month are some of the women who used to work with her in the canteen in Grant park during the world war. They work hard all day as saleswomen, but they find time to sit down and rest and chat during luncheon, for Mrs. Cummings always has a delicious luncheon sent in from the Woman's Athletic club or a nearby restaurant to make a party of the noon hour.

Conveniences, Mrs. Frank Hibbard's original shop on East Oak street that furnishes any and every sort of service for charity's sake, is making its debut as an arranger of fashion showings Thursday afternoon when it stages one at a new shop in town. Everything a girl would need in a well ordered trousseau is to be displayed by some of the prettiest young women in society, including Miss Marjorie Goodman, Mrs. J. Beach Clow, Mrs. William K. Meyers, and Miss Barbara Graf.

Dog in Play Cast Killed at Rehearsal

"Is 'Return to Folly' going to be played tomorrow night in Lake Forest?" asked a masculine voice over the telephone yesterday and upon being told that it was as far as we knew, the unknown continued, "Mrs. McLaughlin's dog was killed during the dress rehearsal yesterday and I heard she had collapsed and would not be able to act." Immediately we telephoned to the Frederic McLaughlin residence in Lake Forest and although we were unable to talk with the former Irene Castle because she wasn't there, a maid assured us that her mistress had not collapsed.

This was verified later by Miss Mildred FitzHugh, who said that although Mrs. McLaughlin was very much upset, of course, over the tragic end of her tiny two and a half pound Pomeranian, she would not think of disappointing those who have bought tickets and deprive "Orphans of the Storm" of the much needed proceeds of the three north shore performances. The play will be repeated in Winnetka

Mrs. Inman Brokaw, who started early in January for Italy, is returning on the Europa. Mrs. Brokaw will open the Elms at Lattingtown for the season. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford V. Brokaw Jr., her son and daughter-in-law, also will be at their place there.

Marriage Tomorrow

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

This picture of Mrs. Murdoch Wingfield and Paul D. Hamlin, who are to be married tomorrow afternoon, was taken at the assembly ball last winter when rumors about their engagement were rife but no announcement was made until yesterday. They are to be married in the Frank Hibbards' apartment on Astor street.

Gold Standard in Sumatra Is the Real Thing

Mrs. H. E. Bradley Describes Land of Plenty.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

It was a pleasant coincidence that Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland chose four cornucopias for flower urns yesterday afternoon when she entertained the members of the Art Institute Needlework and Textile guild at her apartment at 2450 Lake View avenue. Mrs. Herbert E. Bradley devoted a full hour to a lecture on a land of plenty.

With delightful color and humor, Mrs. Bradley told of Sumatra, that island in the Dutch East Indies where brides are wed in gold, where houses are inlaid with gold, where there is no "keeping up with the Joneses," for every one is born with plenty.

As for gold in Sumatra Mrs. Bradley produced fine cloths that brought their weight in gold coin. Her audience gasped its admiration, then examined with care the priceless materials and the exquisite workmanship. There were skirts and knee breeches, scarfs and turbans. All of them, acquired by the Bradleys on their last lion and tiger hunt in Africa, have been handed down through four and five generations of Sumatrans. They are prized like jewels by these Dutch East Indians and worn only on the occasion of a wedding. Then, explained Mrs. Bradley, it is nothing to be dazzled by a solid phalanx of gold glistening in the sun.

"This is a museum collection, I cannot deny," she said with due modesty. "Mr. Bradley and I were able to acquire it for two reasons. One was Fay Cooper-Cole of our Field museum. The other was the fact that we were more interested in tigers than gold. Whenever we said, 'We're glad to have gold, but where is the tiger?' the natives became interested.

"Mr. Cole had visited Sumatra a number of years previously and induced a few Sumatrans to sell their treasures. He gave them handsome sums. After his departure a reaction set in among those who had not sold. They thought of the money they might have had. As a result there wasn't nearly the persuasion necessary when we appeared on the scene."

The tea hour yesterday prolonged itself into a tour about Mrs. Borland's apartment. In the book room are the lovely crewel draperies and the needlepoint chairs she has made. On the west wall of the drawing room are two fine examples of the "black" work done during the time of Catherine of Aragon, and in the dining room another dozen chairs, the seats of which are Mrs. Borland's needlepoint.

Show of Arts Club Members Given Praise

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Arts club exhibit of paintings and sculpture by professional members, which was opened to the public yesterday, is one of the best in a long sequence of good annual shows. It is a diversified exhibit and offers something of many kinds of painting. Gerald Frank covers himself with glory by the introduction of his two peppy little dogs, "My Cairn Terriers," and with more glory in his lovely "Vanity," a pretty woman with a hand mirror in a dusky green gloaming.

Oskar Gross is represented by a stunning portrait of Leon Hermant, simple, solid and fine in quality. Running into the amusement fields is the pseudo-primitive early American, "A. Shreve Badger in 1864," a quaint and cunning portrait by Frances Badger. In a delicate vein is the "Cricket on the Hearth," by Ingeborg Christensen, the portrait of a plump little girl, without much color, dangling a rag bunny in her hand.

Cecil Clark Davis runs the average of the exhibit up to a high point with her forceful "Portrait—David Cook idge" and her charming "Portrait—Nancy Clark." Elisabeth Telling holds it there with her two exquisite foreign portraits. Carl Werntz gives us delightful color in "Murillo's Garden." Josephine L. Reichmann offers an unusually lovely study of flowers, "Petunias." Pauline Palmer gives a rugged character portrait in "The Open Door" and a quaint, romantic effect in "At the Gate."

In sculpture Viola Norman offers a fine portrait bust of Carey Orr and a delightful litle bronze head of a boy, "Billy." Sylvia Shaw Judson gives an effective "Wild Swan," life size, black, most impressive. Her "Nude Study" is small and rather exquisite.

The exhibit will continue to May 14 and is well worth seeing.

The Changeling Bride

By Martha Ostenso

SYNOPSIS.

The Hendersons—Meryl and Margaret, sisters; Flint, their older brother, and Andrew, th father—have lived for twelve years in poverty in a fishing settlement on the shores of Lake Superior, after losing their fortune in Chicago. Great-Aunt Letitia, formerly dean of a girls' school in Ohio, is the liaison between the Hendersons and a cultured past. Flint and his friend, Neo Breimer, hope to build up a great export business. A forest fire brings Blake Lawrence, injured and lost, to the Henderson cottage. There were two great names in nearby Agate Bay and its environs—Lawrence and Greer. When Blake returns to Agate Bay he takes Meryl with him to be his pride. Meryl learns, after the wedding ceremony, through Lucia, a snobbish cousin of the Lawrences, that Blake married her as an escape from Christine, the wife of Julius Greer, with whom he had been in love. Meryl prepares to return home. Theresa, Blake's sister, persuades her to stay for six months, for Blake's sake, whom she still loves, and not to hurt her people. Theresa promises to teach her social service work. Greer at one time saved the Lawrence fortune and Blake feels honor bound not to interfere with the crooked schemes he knows Greer is engaged in. Meryl believes Blake won't fight Greer because of Christine. Greer causes the death of Ola Palke, an old friend and neighbor of the Hendersons. Theresa and Meryl go to New York to attend a charity conference. Blake's separation from Meryl makes him realize he is in love with her, though he thinks Meryl is now interested in his friend, Cy Gravette, whom Meryl has met in New York. Meryl returns home with a determination to fight Greer herself, with the aid of Cy.

INSTALLMENT XXXVIII.

VICTORY NEAR.

"But Greer did kill Ola, Cy," Meryl objected.

Cy smiled. "Julius has done a lot of things—enough to hang him if he got all that was coming to him. Unfortunately, we have no legal basis for charging him with murder. We might bring court action against him for wholesale operations outside the terms of his leases. We might even charge him with bribery—he has already started to use money and intimidation among the voters. The trouble is that we could do nothing worth while before the election. And with Joliffe back in the senate we're licked, no matter what we do."

Meryl was becoming impatient. "What is this—this something you have then, tell me?"

Cy took a cigaret and lit it before he proceeded. "We've got to spring something dramatic, Meryl—something that will discredit Greer and turn the people solidly against him. I have just learned that Greer is buying up leases."

"But I thought he had been restrained by orders from Washington last——"

"Will you please shut the door, I must talk something with you."

"There's more than one way to kill a cat, my dear. He is using another name."

"Another name?"

"A man by another name. Some ignorant Pole here in the city is the legal buyer—but Greer's money is undoubtedly behind it."

"Do you know his name?"

"I do—and I'm down here to look him up. You might give me a little help—through that social organization of yours. If we can find this man Pulaski——"

"Pulaski? Not Steve Pulaski?" Cy started. "You know him?"

"Why—he's the brother of a Polish woman I have to call on this afternoon."

Cy sat for a few moments in silence. "I'm going to leave this with you, Meryl," he said at last. "The less I come into it the better—till we get set."

"Tell me what to do, Cy," Meryl urged.

"Go and see this woman—Pulaski's sister—in your usual way. Make it as professional as you please. We don't want to scare Pulaski out. And if Greer gets wind of it before we find out all we want—we're checkmated and we might as well throw up the sponge."

"I can hardly wait," Meryl confessed.

Cy smiled. "Slowly, young woman! And one more thing—keep it to yourself. I wouldn't even speak to Blake about it, if I were you. When we're set we'll spring it—and watch Greer and his gang squirm."

"You haven't seen Blake for some time, have you?"

"No. Blake is a stubborn old brute, my dear, and will have to settle the thing in his own way. But I did see Tess—this morning."

"Tess?"

"She spoke to me when I telephoned for you this morning—and came down to see me. She swore me to secrecy about it, but I know it's safe for you. She gave me a check for twenty-five hundred dollars—to help beat Joliffe."

"Tess!" Meryl cried.

"Sh-h-h!" Cy cautioned her. "Tess has been with us from the start. Perhaps Blake—but we'll not think of that just now. Well, you have your job cut out for the present. Get busy and report to me around dinner time. You might telephone me at the hotel if you have any success."

Directly after lunch Meryl went to visit Mrs. Ascewicz, who had improved sufficiently to sit up in bed. But the pale, wasted face of the Polish woman was drawn with anxiety.

When they had talked for a while Meryl finally prepared to leave. So far nothing had been said to answer the questions that were clamoring at her heart.

"I'll come around again tomorrow," Meryl said pleasantly as she got up. "I'm glad you're feeling stronger. One of these days we'll find work for Anton and Steve, too, and you'll have nothing more to worry about."

"O—that Steve!"

"What's wrong with Steve?" Meryl asked.

Mrs. Ascewicz glanced toward the door, then waved her hand wearily. "Meesis Lawrence—please, will you shut the door? I must talk something with you."

Meryl closed the door and seated herself near Mrs. Ascewicz.

"What is the matter?" she asked.

The sick woman lowered her voice. "My brother," she said, "he come here in little while now to meet a man. The man been here before with Steve. I think he is crook."

"A crook?" Meryl repeated.

"Yes. He make Steve sign papers for buying land up north, around lakes. He use Steve's name, see? He pay Steve fifty dollar every time Steve sign. Steve not work. He need the money. But I'm 'fraid it is something wrong. You understand?"

"Yes, yes, Mrs. Ascewicz," Meryl said hurriedly. "Who is this man?"

The woman knit her brows. "Hees name is—I cannot think."

"Is he a big man—very big?"

"Very high man—and very thin," the woman nodded. "He has leetle hair—very black."

That was not Julius Greer, Meryl reflected. Some one else, doubtless, whom Greer was using as an agent, the further to protect himself.

"A tall, thin man—with black hair——"

"He is rich, I think. Steve, he don't tell me the name, but many time I hear him speak it."

Meryl allowed her mind to dwell upon the meager details Mrs. Ascewicz had given her. She could think of no one of Julius Greer's friends who answered the description. Unless—a horrible thought leaped sickeningly into her mind.

"His name is not Inglis, is it?" she asked breathlessly.

The sick woman nodded. "That is it—Englis."

Meryl stared at the woman. "Fred Inglis?"

Mrs. Ascewicz nodded again. "Yes—yes."

Meryl was dumfounded. Fred Inglis—Blake's partner! What could it mean? "How long has he been coming to see Steve?" she asked.

"Two—t'ree week. I too sick at first to see."

"Does he know that I've been coming here?" Meryl asked quickly.

The woman looked embarrassed. 'He don't know that. Steve tell me keep quiet. He don't want anybody to know we get charity. He hope like this we make money so we get along without. He not tell Anton. He bring thees Englis when Anton is away."

"I see," Meryl said. "He doesn't want Anton to know about it."

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Better Talk It Over.

"Dear Miss Blake: Recently my fiancé has paid little attention to me, saying that he goes out with his boy friends. I know better. Is it right for me to go out with other fellows?

"PEGGY."

Tell the B. F. that he's not sticking to his part of the contract. Ask him if he wants the engagement ended. Maybe that's it!

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

DORIS: THE RED LIGHTS IN your auburn hair can be brightened up with lemon rinses. The juice of two lemons in your final rinsing water is plenty.

H. F.: DON'T TRY TO ADOPT A hair style that you're not sure of. Take some good hairdresser into your confidence. Then you won't be sorry.

GEE, PAL, I DON'T SEE WHERE I WOULD BE MAKIN' ANY MISTAKE. IF I'D BUY UNCLE WALT SOME CONTINENTAL CORNCOB WITH HIS MONEY HE'D GET IT ALL BACK AN' A LOT MORE TOO.

Leslie Howard Gives History of Noted Play

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 24.—[Special.]—A chat with Leslie Howard on one of the sets for "Berkeley Square" at Fox Movietone City brought the information that Howard himself was responsible for first staging this success in London in 1929. He got hold of the original story from its author and succeeded in interesting a London producer in putting it on. Then the play ran in New York, and later in Chicago, and now Howard feels an almost parental pride in transferring it to the movies.

"I have gotten to feel perfectly at home in eighteenth century clothes in the four years since 1929," he said.

Howard in a buff coat, white figured vest, white breeches, shiny black boots and stiff brown felt hat with a buckle of the style you see in films of the pilgrim fathers was playing a scene in an old English tavern with Alan Mowbray, Lionel Belmore, Wilfred North, Bob Kerr and others.

The cast had been drinking near beer all morning, the scene requiring it. "Why not give them some real beer?" Director Frank Lloyd was asked.

"They have to drink too much of it," the director explained.

Heather Angel, Valerie Taylor, Beryl Mercer and Irene Browne are in the all-British cast of principals which hopes to give the English audiences a new American hit to follow the same studio's "Cavalcade."

"In the film version Howard, as the American Peter Standish, who inherits the old house in Berkeley Square in London, and finds himself actually reliving the diary of his long dead ancestor, finally returns to the days of 1933 and finds that his beloved Helen, whom he could not marry in the days of 1800 because history did not have it so, lives again in a modern Helen whom he can wed because the present is its own master.

The Fox company is building some tremendous sets for "Berkeley Square," including a brick and concrete replica of streets and buildings in the real Berkeley Square in London.

MINUTE MYSTERY

BY H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE LORD MILFORD AFFAIR.

Prof. Fordney, enjoying a vacation in the charming county of Surrey, England, had been requested by Chief Constable Budd to assist in a most puzzling affair. After three weeks the murder of young Lord Milford, near Godalming, and the theft from his safe of over seven thousand pounds, remained a mystery.

Budd disliked mysteries and as for calling in Scotland Yard, well——!

Acquainted with the known facts Fordney quietly set about his investigations. Inquiries disclosed that Sir John Lapham, close companion of his deceased lordship, had four months ago leased The Brambles, a small but expensively furnished cottage near Francombe. But—he had spent only the last two week-ends there! He told friends his reasons for taking it were that he was particularly fond of the Surrey countryside and it was near his favorite golf club at Shackelford.

Unknown to the chief constable, who would have been horrified at his means of entrance without a warrant, Fordney had given the cottage and grounds a thorough inspection. He had even let himself down the old, disused abandoned well—not however, before first testing his increasing bulk on the new well rope. His hasty examination was rewarded with nothing but the discovery of stagnant, brackish water—and several spots on his new Saville Row clothes.

Strange he thought that Lapham should take such an expensive place and spend so little time in it. There must be a reason!

WHAT WAS THE CLEW?

"Kitty really needs the job. I'd love to recommend her, if only . . ."

"Yes, I know; perspiration odor in underthings offends everybody . . ."

"IT'S such a pity she's careless that way. Everybody perspires. We all know underthings absorb perspiration odor, but Lux takes it away so quickly. I should think every girl would Lux underthings daily."

Many employment managers stress this habit. Lux removes perspiration odor, and protects colors and fabrics. Cake-soap rubbing and soaps containing harmful alkali tend to wear out silk. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Mrs. Wingfield to Be Bride of Paul D. Hamlin

Service Will Be Held Tomorrow.

Friday night and in Evanston Thursday of next week.

Leone, the dog, was to have been in the play, too, and Sunday afternoon after she had rehearsed her part she wandered up to the top of Durand institute and fell, breaking her back. Tonight's performance will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Speakers Boost Red Cross Work

Elocution lessons that were as much a part of every young lady's training in the Victorian nineties as contract bridge lessons today are coming in for revival by way of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross. Every day a half dozen or more notables practice their lines preparatory to visiting some community organization in an effort to enlist volunteers for cutting and sewing at the Red Cross headquarters at 616 South Michigan avenue.

Mrs. Richardson Dunham heads this list of orators. Others are Mrs. Charles Garfield King, Miss Anita Blair, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, Mrs. Edward Harris Brewer, Miss Anita Blair, Miss Phyllis Seaman, and Mrs. A. S. Parks.

Mrs. Paul Walker reports that the volunteers—there are 600 groups enrolled—are producing 30,000 garments a day, everything except shoes. The champion "cutter" at the workrooms is Mrs. Duncan H. Brown.

Army Officer Lectures Tonight

Army men and their wives will be at the Army and Navy club this evening to hear Lieut. George W. Goddard, director of the department of photography of the Air Corps Technical School of the U. S. Army at Chanute field, tell of latest methods of shooting pictures from the air. Col. George T. Langhorne will be the host for the dinner beforehand and Lieut. Goddard and Mrs. Goddard will have places at his table.

Others planning to be present are Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Small, Robert Hall McCormick, Col. Alexander Davis and Col. Philip G. Kemp.

Lieut. Goddard is bringing with him photographs he has made in all parts of the world as well as the latest army aerial cameras. Before this dinner program all of Chicago's West Point graduates who knew the famous Benny Havens tavern back in their cadet days are getting together for a reorganization meeting.

Mrs. Laura C. Bolton will give her interesting lecture on Africa tonight to the blind men at the Chicago Lighthouse.

Every spring members of Gamma Kappa Delta, the young people's society of the Episcopal church, make plans for their annual May ball, the proceeds of which go into the constantly growing fund for the erection of a cathedral in Chicago. Income from the fund is used in relief work. The ball will be held on May 6 at the Drake hotel. Leigh Hunt is chairman.

Mrs. Von Erffa to Visit Parents

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee received the good news that their oldest daughter, Mrs. Helmuth H. von Erffa, is coming out from Cambridge, Mass., for a six weeks' visit during July and August. This will be Mrs. Von Erffa's first real reunion with her family since her marriage to the young German nobleman two years ago. Meantime Mr. Von Erffa will remain in the east to give a course in the fine arts at the Harvard university summer school.

Mrs. Von Erffa will spend the majority of her time with her family at their charming place "Across the Lake" near Traverse City.

Mr. Von Erffa has received a traveling scholarship and intends to spend a year working for his doctorate at some European university, so he and Mrs. Von Erffa are planning on a year in Europe.

Couturiere Uses Full Length Tie on Sports Suit

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Active sports styles have, as already has been signaled, gone masculine this season; but the mannishness of lots of those in Paris is supplied with the tongue in the cheek. Paris prefers to steal the freedom of boyish clothes and to leave real, literal masculinity alone.

Actual four in hand ties appear on lots of dresses and blouses designed for sports, but these ties are treated in a way no man ever thought of. Lucile Paray, for instance, likes to appliqué giant four-in-hand ties on to tennis and beach dresses, like the model shown in our sketch, and instead of passing them in a band around the neck, in the man's way, she makes shoulder straps out of 'em, as shown in the back view.

This sports dress and jacket is made of white cotton twill, with a straight bolero jacket having short sleeves that are almost completely covered by big cuffs bordered by bias bands of the twill. The jacket has no collar, only revers.

The full length four-in-hand tie of pastel blue cotton twill holds the bodice in place. At the back it is knotted at the neck and makes shoulder straps, running down the center of the back and sewed to the dress above the waistline. In front it behaves like the tie it apes, except that it reaches the bottom of the skirt and is sewed down from the waistline to the skirt hem.

A FRIEND IN NEED

If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have household articles or clothing you can no longer use, please tell me. I can place such things with needy families. Address Sally Joy Brown, The Tribune, Chicago.

Would Welcome Baby Carriage.

"Dear Miss Brown: Do you think you might find a mother among your readers who has a baby carriage no longer in use? I have a baby 3 months old and a little boy five. Both my son and myself attend a local clinic for medical treatment once a week. It is difficult for me to carry the baby on these trips, and I am unable to leave her at home. Sincerely, Mrs. M. N."

This woman is under observation for lung trouble and her difficulty in carrying the baby is easily understood

Pickles Now Considered as Complexion Aid

So Let Dill Variety Add Tang to Spring Dishes.

BY MARY MEADE.

A long time before pills and tonics came into vogue they used pickles! It's a fact! The captivating Cleopatra and her maidens, together with a wide assortment of other ladies famous for their charm and beauty, are said to have credited much of their allure to the good old custom of pickle eating.

But the "good for us" angle of pickles didn't stop with Cleo. Today modern science is discovering that there's an acid—"lactic" by name—in pickles, especially in dill pickles, which tends to help along digestion and in general to tone up the system and complexion.

So if you squelched your childhood passion for dills because mother once told you that pickles were bad for little stomachs, you may now safely bring them forth again and discover how, in sensible amounts, they may add sparkle and pep to spring dishes and that longed-for "something new" to the menu.

Dills, particularly, are most versatile creations. Appetizers, garnishes, salads, entrées, accompaniments, sandwiches and even desserts—none of them even look surprised these days to see a dill pickle turning up in their midst. The salt tang of dill flavor seems to complement meats, fish, vegetables, and fruits equally.

STUFFED DILL APPETIZER.

2 tablespoons butter.
1 tablespoon minced onion.
2-3 cup ground, cooked beef or pork.
Pimiento strips.

First scoop out the centers of each dill pickle, using an apple corer or a slender paring knife. Meanwhile brown the onion and parsley in the butter and combine with the ground meat. Season to taste. Ham is delicious as a stuffing, though most any left over meat will do the trick. Now pack the mixture firmly into the pickles and chill. When ready to serve, slice the stuffed pickles crosswise in ½ inch pieces and garnish each slice with a bit of pimiento. These little appetizers may be used on a plate of mixed hors d'oeuvres or they make nippy garnishes for a cold meat plate or a vegetable salad.

Or for that dinner dish on our menu today—roulades of beef. These small meat rollups with peppy centers make excellent going with hot buttered noodles, fresh vegetables and fruit for dessert. Here is the recipe:

ROULADES OF BEEF.

3 slices bacon, minced.
1 dill pickle.
2 tablespoons minced onion.
Salt and pepper to taste.

Pound the steak until it is only ¼ inch thick, then cut it in four pieces about 4 by 2½ inches. Rub the pieces with salt and pepper. Cut the dill pickle through in quarters lengthwise and place a strip in the center of each piece of meat. Sprinkle the minced bacon and onion over the meat pieces and then roll up each slice and tie with a string. Now pan fry the rolls in a little fat, and when brown place them in a casserole. Add a small amount of water or meat stock and bake, covered, in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] until tender. This, of course, serves four. For more folks, increase the proportions accordingly.

GROWING-UP'S FAVORITE.

Next for a peppy sandwich spread, easily made and joyously popular. Simply butter slices of whole wheat or graham bread. Quarter and core good tart eating apples, leaving the skins on. Put them through the food chopper, together with half the quantity of sliced sweet dill pickles. Add a dash of salt and enough lemon juice to season. Spread generously—and prepare to make apple and pickle sandwiches forever more!

Too Many Men Ignorant About House Expenses

BY DORIS BLAKE.

One of the great weaknesses in marriage, as we see it, is the ignorance of the male about the cost of running a household. Some men have no more idea about what it costs to set a table for a family than has an infant in arms. This ignorance precipitates a great deal of money wrangling, a great deal of feminine resentment.

The trouble dates back years and it is doubtful if you can get a man brought up to understand that money for household running comes out of the air to see the situation in its true light. Some men would think it sissy to inquire about the price of food, the cost of table maintenance. And some women would resent their inquiries, too.

It would seem that the women are paying for their own negligence in educating the male in this respect. Wives pay for mothers' failure to induct their sons into the intricacies of home financing. Mother takes the girls of the family into her confidence. The boys are supposed to be too manly to know the total cost per month for meat and groceries.

We'd be for letting them remain in ignorance if they were generous enough later to split incomes with their wives or at least supply them with a decent household allowance. True, a number of men do this very thing. Some of them, indeed, turn their entire salary check over to their wives.

On the other hand, there are a surprising number who dole out meanly for the household expenses, honestly believing that what they dole out is sufficient for the need. They simply do not know what meals cost. It's this group that would benefit by a mother's earlier training. Nor should the education be confined to table costs. The price of dishes, furniture, carpets, curtains might be included in the education—just so a man would understand that these necessities do not come by magic.

Out of a $56 weekly salary one husband is reported as giving $8 a week for household expenses. This for a family of four. A family of four, no doubt, could be fed on $8 a week with clever buying and cooking. But we'd be for turning the husband loose in the kitchen with his $8 and exacting of him the same high grade of food and service he now asks of his wife.

The Lutheran Old People's Home at Arlington Heights has survived the depression without undue strain, it was reported at the annual meeting of delegates from 50 member congregations of the Missouri synod at the Hotel Sherman last night. Receipts last year, from the annual collection in churches, the summer festival, and admission fees were $36,644, while the expenditures were $33,557, or $10,000 less than last year, reported the secretary, the Rev. A. B. Wangerin of the Tabor Lutheran church.

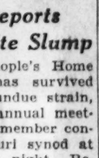
Tired of toilets that won't scrub clean?



NO END of scrubbing and scouring will remove some stains from the toilet bowl. But Sani-Flush will. Porcelain sparkles. Odors go. And you don't have to slave with a scrubbing brush.

Just sprinkle a little Sani-Flush in the bowl. (Follow directions on the can.) Then flush the toilet. Stains and film disappear. The hidden trap that a brush can't reach is purged and purified. And Sani-Flush won't injure plumbing.

Stepmother Is Assuming Job That Needs Tact

Methods Will Vary with Ages of Children.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

We were talking about stepmothers last week, as you may remember. I've often wondered, if I were going to be a stepmother to a child of 12 or 13, what I should do, how I should go about it myself. For you don't merely by marrying a man become a mother and the mother of his children. In name you do, of course, but not in reality.

So I think I should give a lot of thought to what lay ahead of me before my marriage actually took place if I were going to be a stepmother. For one thing, a great deal would depend upon the children's ages. You depend upon the children's ages.

For another thing, a great deal would depend on the circumstances—whether the children's own mother had died recently, with whom the children had been living since her death, and how they had been managed—strictly or indulgently, or with real skill. It would also be important that their father should not "spring" the marriage upon them.

Well, then, I think that after I'd secured as much of a line on things as possible, and if the child were a boy or a girl of 12 or 14 (this is the age about which so many letters have come to me), perhaps I'd appeal to him or her. I might say:

"John, I've a hard job to put over, and I need your help. I've never been a mother, and I don't know one thing about it. I'm going to ask you to help me, because it isn't easy for me. But first I do want you to understand how I feel. Don't think of me as some one who is trying to take your mother's place, because I'm not. I'm not going to try to be a mother to you—I just want to be your friend. You needn't call me mother. What I want is to make a home for you and your father and to make you both as happy as I can."

Nazis Will Select Players for Parts in Noted Passion Play

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

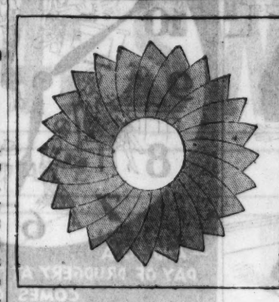
OBERAMMERGAU, April 24.—The Nazis will decide who shall play the parts of Christ, Mary, the Disciples and other leading characters in the next presentation of the Oberammergau Passion Play, it was learned today from Alois Lang, who had the rôle of Christ last year.

Next year is the 300th anniversary of the vow taken by the inhabitants of this remote, but world famous, village in the Bavarian Alps to reënact the story of the Passion every ten years as long as the village should exist in return for their delivery from the great plague. The next regular performance would be in 1940, but for the tricentenary an extra performance will be given.

"The final choice of all the players," said Lang, "will be made by a committee composed of the parish council.

"Our former parish councils have been dissolved as a result of the Nationalist Socialist victory and must be reformed in accordance with the new principle of 'equalization' so that its party representation will correspond to the votes cast in the reichstag election. This means that the National Socialists will have a majority of one over the Catholic Bavarian People's party. There will be only one Social Democrat on the council."

Scarcely Two Years Old, but High Favorite



Daisy Swirl.

BY NANCY CABOT.

A youngster in quiltdom to have attained such a high position on the popularity platform, the "Daisy Swirl," is scarcely two years old; yet it has superseded many older and more historically important patterns in favor and may soon compete with "Double Wedding" and "Grandma's Garden." This high favor has been earned by the Daisy Swirl's own cheery personality, for it has no historical background or association to strengthen its position. It is a "self-made man."

For a pattern of this quilt design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Whale Plays Vital Role in Perfume Trade

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Who wants to think of it, for that matter?

But as a matter of education you may be interested to know that if it weren't for said glutton and his enormous appetite there wouldn't be any of the fine scents with lasting quality. The glutton, being a whale, kinda minimizes the enormity of his appetite. It's his peculiar taste, rather, that one marvels at. The one palatable [to the whale] dish is about the ugliest imaginable. It's the squid, a horrible monster with a bloated body, a terrible parrot-like beak and fearful arms, provided with suction cups and claws.

Not much in the way of sea food is turned down by the whale, it is true. His dinner gong rings continuously. It takes a powerful lot of food to fill up the giant cavern. But the squid is his piece de resistance, for what reason, nobody knows, since it is indigestible. The beak and claws irritate the mammal's stomach and intestines, causing pain, discomfort, and often severe sickness.

If it wasn't for the squid appetite, however, the perfume makers would be out of luck. Mother Nature takes a hand with the indigestible claws and beak, wrapping a pliable covering around it, layer after layer, by way of protecting the whale's innards. And this wrapping is known as ambergris. It looks like tallow and the lumps of it formed within a whale vary in size from several ounces to two hundred pounds.

Ambergris is used in the finest perfumes. It is used as a fixative and gives to the scent of the best of perfume its lasting quality.

All of the above one learns from an article on the "Whale's Part in Perfume Making" in Toilet Requisites, a monthly periodical for the trade.

There is much mystery about ambergris. Fortunes have been made with it. Fortunes have been thrown away because whaling men did not recognize its value. In given localities it is also discovered floating in the sea from time to time.

ACCEPTED AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSN.

CARRIES ALL-BRAN ON EVERY VOYAGE

Seaman Finds This Delicious Cereal Relieves Constipation

"I have been going to sea for the past fourteen years. Every trip I underwent severe headaches, nervousness, and sleeplessness. Tried all sorts of remedies and received only temporary relief.

"So, hearing about Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, thought I would get a box, which I did. That was six months ago; haven't been without it at home, and when I go to sea a box of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is always with me."—George D. Darragh, 1914 32nd Avenue, Oakland, California.

Tests show ALL-BRAN contains two things for common constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

How much pleasanter this is than taking pills and drugs—so often harmful. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SICK!

Poor Ida! An old-fashioned girl who resigns herself to suffering regularly. She does not realize—or does not believe—that a tablet of Midol would swiftly end her pain. Midol does abolish such suffering. It keeps a woman perfectly comfortable throughout this period. Sickness becomes just an incident, for Midol blocks all possibility of such pain. Midol is nothing like the ordinary headache tablet, but a remedy that goes straight to the seat of this organic pain. It does not affect the natural and necessary process at all, but the pain is done for within a few minutes of the time Midol is taken! Not a narcotic. All drug stores; ten tasteless tablets in a slim little box; just ask for Midol.

HOLD RITES FOR STUDENT NURSE FOUND IN RIVER

Blomington, Ill., April 24.—[Special.]—Funeral services of Miss Lola Wells, 20, student nurse at St. Joseph's hospital, whose body was found in the Illinois river near Chillicothe, were held at Wing, Ill., today.

Miss Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wells of Forest, Ill., disappeared Feb. 27, and her whereabouts were unknown until the body was discovered in the river. The body was identified by Kenneth, a brother, and Miss Mildred Morrow, a nurse at St. Joseph's hospital. Embalmers and doctors found no water in the lungs, raising the possibility of murder.

No marks of violence were discovered on the body. Doctors said today that the girl might have suffered a heart attack in the water and died from that. Death was not caused by drowning.

FOUND DEAD IN HIS ROOM.

Friends of Harry Lyman, Artist, Finance Funeral

Friends of the late Harry Lyman, painter of race horses 25 years ago, planned last night to pay the expenses of moving his body to Rockford, where it will be interred in the family burial lot. Lyman, who was 77 years old, died Sunday night in the county hospital of cancer. Nate Lewis, matchmaker at the Chicago Stadium, and George Motto, owner of a restaurant at 1825 West Madison street, are among those furnishing the money. Lyman lived at 1859 Washington boulevard. He was a friend of prominent sportsmen throughout the country. Efforts of Lewis and Motto to locate Lyman's relatives were unsuccessful yesterday.

BIG 10 OUT TO SELL FANS ON TRACK THRILLS

BY WILFRID SMITH.

A campaign to popularize college track and field meets in Chicago, in particular the annual Western conference meet at Dyche stadium May 19 and 20 and the National Collegiate meet at Soldiers' field June 16 and 17, was started yesterday at a luncheon at Mandel's by 40 representatives from all Big Ten universities.

THOMAS HAYWARD

Apathy of alumni and the public toward track brought about the meeting at which Otto Seiler, former University of Illinois football star, presided and which was attended by Maj. John L. Griffith, conference commissioner of athletics, and K. L. Wilson, Northwestern's athletic director.

May Lose National Meet.

The Big Ten meet, which has become a fixture in Chicago because of the city's location, probably will remain here regardless of diminishing receipts, but it was pointed out Chicago may lose the annual National Collegiate meet in future seasons unless attendance picks up.

It is said that only the fact that this is World's Fair year prevented the N. C. A. A. from accepting an invitation to shift the games to the Pacific coast where a guarantee of traveling expenses for the athletes would be posted. The receipts from the N. C. A. A. meet are prorated among competing schools. None ever has received full compensation for participation, although the field is limited to outstanding stars.

Borrow Olympic Ideas.

Immediate reform in staging the conference outdoor meet was the topic of yesterday's luncheon, although it's logical that the same changes will be made at the N. C. A. A. meet on the night of June 17. Several ideas on staging the games were borrowed from the Olympic held last summer at Los Angeles. At the conclusion of each event the colors and pennant of the university represented by the winning contestant will be raised on a flag pole. The winner will be introduced over the loud speaker system and then will be awarded his prize.

It also was recommended that all officials of the meet resume their distinctive garb of white trousers, blue coats and straw hats. More particularly, a section will be reserved in the stands to which officials will be sent when they have completed their duties on the field. In previous years the fluttering group of non-contestants frequently has obscured the view of spectators.

The athletes, officials and coaches will parade prior to the opening of the conference games led by the Northwestern band, which, in full regalia, a la football season, will take the field before the start of the first event.

Propose $1 Top Price.

More interesting perhaps than this "dressing up" was the proposal that tickets for the final day should be reduced to $1 and that separate sections will be reserved for each university. By this last idea it is hoped to revive the intense rivalry which marked the games in other years.

Several suggestions were made which will be submitted to the track coaches. If they approve, the spectators will get the best break in recent years. The straightaway for the 220 yard dash, the start of the quarter mile and the 220 yard low hurdles, under this plan, would be abandoned. The starts of these events now are outside of the view of those in the stands. Instead, these races would be run on the circular track with the finish lines in front of the west stands. This undoubtedly would slow up the competitors, but it would provide a full view of the events.

Move Shot Put, Broad Jump.

The shot put, now held across the field, and the broad jump, in the same location, would be moved down in front of the customers. In short, primary consideration would be paid to those who patronize the games.

Tom Hayward, president of the Northwestern University club of Chicago, was made chairman of conference alumni committee to organize the alumni and create interest in the impending meet.

Several conference coaches are said to favor holding the conference meet in university towns outside of the metropolitan area in the belief that attendance would increase. They point to the Drake relays at Des Moines, Ia., which annually brings together the largest track crowd in the central states. Paid attendance on the last day of the 1932 Big Ten meet was less than 2,000. It is the hope of the newly organized committee that this attendance will be doubled next month.

GUEST'S TEAM TO MEET 6TH CORPS IN POLO TONIGHT

Army Players Are Given 4 Goal Handicap.

Guest and his team mates, Michael Phipps and Harvey Shaffer will be opposed by Maj. C. C. Smith, Capt. C. A. Wilkinson, and Capt. C. E. Davis.

The fact that Guest will be seen in action makes tonight's game a big attraction for polo followers. He packed them in at the armory Saturday night when his team defeated Maj. R. G. Hunter's South Shore Remounts, and was cheered when he set a record of 11 goals in that game.

Cleveland Plays Cardinals.

In the opening game, starting at 8:30 o'clock, the Cleveland Riding club trio, semi-finalists in class C, will meet the 124th Field Artillery Cardinals, reinforced by the 6 goal Boston star, William H. Nicholls.

The class C finals between the 112th Field Artillery of Trenton, N. J., and the 124th Field Artillery, of Chicago, originally set for tonight, yesterday was deferred until Thursday night. The change was made to give the New Jersey team's ponies more rest.

In the attack and defense of both the Optimists and the Fort Sheridan officers, it has been particularly noticeable that the teams have perfected team play. All six of the men in the rival lineups are ball hawks.

Horses About Equal.

There will be little to choose between the team led by Guest and that contained by Maj. Smith in the matter of horseflesh. Both trios will be mounted upon the pick of the world's polo ponies, which means animals that are supreme in speed, ease of handling, and polo playing experience. Most of these horses were bred in the United States, with half a dozen or more from the Argentine, two from Chile and one from Australia. The last named is Coaster, one of Guest's favorites.

In tonight's game the Optimists, a 19-goal team, will give their 15-goal Sixth Corps opponents a four-goal handicap.

Guest carries a 10-goal rating. He is the world's only indoor player with that distinction. Mike Phipps, team mate of Guest and a brilliant player in his own right, is the next highest handicapped star in tonight's game, rating 7 goals. Shaffer carries a 2-goal handicap, but is considered by Guest to be a far better player than this rating would indicate.

All Rated at Five Goals.

All three of the Sixth Corps Area stars: Maj. Smith, Capt. Wilkinson and Capt. Davis, are 5-goal players. Those who have watched them perform declare each member of the team has been playing at least 7-goal polo all season.

The lineups:

FOXX MOVES INTO SECOND PLACE IN BIG 6 BATTING

Jimmy Foxx, with a perfect day at bat, slugged his way to the top of the American league batting list and second place in the major leagues' big six yesterday. The 1932 home run champion pounded out his third homer of the season, three doubles, and a single to boost his average to .436. Lou Gehrig also moved into the select circle, ousting Sam West of the Browns as he connected twice in four times at bat for an average of .394. Johnny Frederick failed to get a hit off Carl Hubbell but held his position at the top of the sextet. The standing:

	G	AB	R	H	Pct.
Frederick, Dodgers	7	15	4	8	.533
Foxx, Athletics	10	39	9	17	.436
Schulte, Senators	11	41	9	17	.415

DERBY TESTS.

KENTUCKY Derby candidates engaged in tests at both Lexington and Havre de Grace Saturday. Instead of clarifying the situation, as might have been expected, the $50,000 race of May 6 still remains at this writing the most wide open affair of recent years. Supporters of choices defeated in these tests advanced plenty of excuses. Racing is that way, you know, if one happens to have a fixed opinion.

Swivel, which won the Pimlico Futurity last fall, downed her stablemate, Projectile, and also Repaid at a mile and 70 yards at Havre de Grace. Repaid was the favorite, although beaten by the filly last fall. Swivel won impressively, yet Repaid partisans still refuse to accept the test on the old turf tradition that fillies simply do not win Kentucky Derbies. One winner in fifty-eight races is the record of fillies in the Derby.

The Chesapeake stakes at the same track next Saturday, with perhaps Ladysman among the starters, will give another line on the eastern outfit likely to ship west. If Swivel again triumphs she will command respect from all except those with hidebound prejudice.

Meantime at Lexington Bradley's pair of Broker's Tip and Boilermaker measured strides with Warren Jr. in their first start of the season and were beaten. Warren Jr., owned by Warren Wright o fthis city, was once 100 to 1 in the future book, but has won twice and placed once in three starts at Lexington.

But followers of the Idle Hour pair assert they were not up to a race and that Warren Jr.'s neck victory over Broker's Tip was due in part to interference, not palpable enough to result in disqualification, and will not be repeated. There are several more trials in which western colts will contest before Derby day. These races may clear the tangled situation.

When critics will not accept the result of actual racing, however, one may judge just how puzzling is 3 year old form at the start of the season. And that's what makes racing.

The Derby.

I never knew a bard to make
Although the master of the Wake
In classic prose extols the breed.
So here the bard the first may be
To sing a song for Derby day,
To strum the strings of melody
And chant of beauty black or bay,
Or one whose forehead bears a star,
The thoroughbred with winning stride
The friend of man in peace or war—
To Louisville the bard would ride
If wishes had a glossy hide!

C.Y.O. TAKES OVER SPORT ACTIVITIES IN FOREST CAMP

The Catholic Youth organization today will take charge of the athletic and recreational program of the Citizens' Conservation corps, a part of President Roosevelt's reforestation program, the members of which are now encamped at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

Paul Host, captain of Notre Dame's football team last fall, will be athletic director of the camp, the Most Rev. B. J. Sheil announced yesterday after a conference with Gen. Bolles of Fort Sheridan and Maj. McDonnell, in charge of the encampment.

Boxing Match Tonight.

The C. Y. O. will send its boxing team to Fort Sheridan tonight to put on a match for the entertainment of the 4,600 young men now living in tents at the post.

With this as a beginning, Host, under the direction of Jack Elder, athletic director of the C. Y. O., will work out a program of baseball, softball, boxing, track and other sports which will help the young foresters to condition themselves for the different reforestation camps. The government plan calls for all the men to spend two weeks at Fort Sheridan before going to the forests.

Expect 42,000 in Camp.

More than 42,000 are expected to pass through the camp in the next few months. The contingents thus far have not been moved as soon as was expected, so Cardinal Mundelein, seeing the need for recreational and athletic programs, extended the facilities of C. Y. O.

The program will include a weekly boxing show, movies and vaudeville, besides physical exercise for the members of the corps.

CINCINNATI RAIN KEEPS CUBS IDLE; PLAY REDS TODAY

Malone Named to Pitch Against Frey.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., April 24.—[Special.]—A rainy day, such as washed out the Chicago Cubs' scheduled ladies' day contest with the Cincinnati Reds this afternoon, is no balm to a championship baseball outfit just after taking three successive sharp clips on the chin.

The Cubs are in a hitting slump, as they know better than any one, and all realize that sitting around a hotel lobby to stay out of the rain is not one of the ways to bang out of said slump. You can't imagine the mental anguish.

Play at Home Friday.

On the other hand, the Cubs may be lucky in having their performances curtailed this trip, reserving their hopes for slump eradication for the brief return to Wrigley field, come next Friday. The game scheduled for today was set over to be played as part of a doubleheader on Sunday, June 11.

The final of the series here will be played tomorrow, weather permitting, but the Cubs will not be rid of the ever annoying Reds, for they will be in Chicago next Friday and Saturday.

For several years the Reds have been hailed as the Cubs' jinx team. The tailenders last year beat the Cubs at Redland field 6 games out of 11, the only home season series the Reds won in the league excepting that with the Braves, whom they outpointed 6 to 5 in Boston and here also.

Beat Cubs Ten Times.

	W.	L.
Reds vs. Cubs	10	12
Reds vs. Pirates	8	14
Reds vs. Dodgers	7	15
Reds vs. Phillies	9	13
Reds vs. Braves	13	9
Reds vs. Giants	7	15
Reds vs. Cards	6	16

In 1931 the pennant winning Cardinals won 20 out of 22 from the Reds but they were able to beat the Cubs eight games. The year before that the Cubs lost the pennant to the Cardinals by a margin of two games. That year the Reds could beat the Cards only three games out of 22 yet they tanned the Cubs 11 out of 22. In other words if the Reds had treated the Cards the same as they did the Cubs the Chicagoans would have won the pennant by five games everything else in the league being as was.

Malone Expected to Pitch.

This array of experience surged back on the Cubs as they pondered the way in which the Reds knocked off Lon Warneke and the Cubs yesterday. The Cubs unquestionably had statistics in their heads yesterday, judging from their jittery performance. So that's the reason it probably is just as well that there was no game today. The Cubs shouldn't hope to come out of their slump while playing these jinx fellows down here.

Malone, who won the only game of the road trip to date, the opener in St. Louis, ever so long ago, stayed on deck as Chicago's pitcher and Manager Bush indicated no change from Benny Frey.

Elmhurst Tennis Squad Beats De Kalb, 6 to 0

The Elmhurst college tennis team won the first match of its Little Nineteen schedule yesterday at Elmhurst, beating De Kalb, 6 to 0. Summaries:

Gerfen beat Gould, 6-0, 6-1.
Sanders beat Pottenger, 6-1, 6-3.

Umbeck and Gerfen beat Johnson and Gould, 6-2, 8-6

Miller Increases Lead Over Watson in Pin Match

Hayes, Swanson and Kress Get the Idea.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Even the great Wes Ferrell couldn't induce the high stepping White Sox to abandon their winning habits yesterday. The great one tried hard enough, which is his habit, but the south siders inserted a few hits at the right moments to send Ferrell and the other Indians on their way with three straight defeats in the series. The score was 5 to 4. It was comeback day for Vic Frasier, but the silent Texan did a fade-out in the ninth that could easily have been disastrous if Joe Heving hadn't come to the rescue.

MULE HAAS.

Ferrell found all of his day's troubles in the early innings. He was slightly wild and seemed to have a preference for serving slow stuff. His teammates, in a couple of instances, were a handicap. All of this was put together by the Chicagoans for five runs in four innings. After that Ferrell, probably confident that his co-workers would eventually wipe out the advantage held by Frasier, gave up only one scratch single, but his hopes weren't realized. Heving can be thanked for that.

Haas Is Glad to See Him.

Besides taking a beating Ferrell no doubt was forced to believe that the jinx which for several years made him a joyous sight to Athletic hitters, may have transferred itself to these parts. He did well enough against Al Simmons, the bad boy of the trio, and he also suppressed Jimmy Dykes, but it was different with the other ex-Mack now employed in Chicago. George Haas, the Mule, made up for the slights cast on his two buddies. He walked once and scored. He singled once and scored. He doubled once and scored again. Mixed in with his highly pleasing stunts were some timely hits by Jack Hayes, Red Kress, and Evar Swanson. Each of the latter pair had the pleasure of driving in two runs.

Frasier, although revealing only a vague idea as to the exact location of the plate, got by on five hits until the start of the ninth. However, he had his exciting moments, particularly when Kress started and closed a double play that ruined a threatened splurge by the Indians. And Dykes, with a one handed stop of a torrid grounder, also started a double play that kept the big Texan on an even keel. These two plays not only aided Frasier but also made Hayes feel a bit compensated for the loss of a possible triple in the second when Averill tore over toward right and got his gloved hand around a real, rakish drive.

Porter Does Sun Dance.

It wasn't altogether Ferrell's fault that the Sox worked him for two runs in the opening inning. Hayes led off with a fly close to the right field line. Porter's intentions were good enough, but he lost the ball in the sun and a two base hit was the result. Haas drew a pass and Swanson bunted both runners along. Ferrell took the short cut on Simmons by walking him. Appling popped a foul, but the full house tempted Kress. He lined a single to center, scoring Hayes and Haas. Dykes concluded the incident with a fly to left.

Frasier inadvertently walked Vosmik to start the second. The Indians lost no time getting into a 2 to 2 tie. Boss forced Vosmik, but Kamm singled to right. A pass to Spencer filled the bases. The situation improved when Ferrell popped to Grube in front of the plate, but Porter singled to center, sending home both Boss and Kamm. Hayes picked up Burnett's roller to end the inning.

Error Helps Sox.

The Sox stepped out again in the third, when one run grew from a slip in the Indian defense. Haas opened the inning with a single to center and

WOMEN GOLFERS O. K. TOURNAMENT CARD; CUT DUES

Annual Fee Reduced from $5 to $3.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Reduction of dues for 1933 and ratification of the tournament schedule featured the annual spring luncheon of the Chicago Women's District Golf association at the Lake Shore Athletic club yesterday.

Mrs. Howard D. Raymond, president of the Women's Western association, was guest of honor at the luncheon, which was presided over by Mrs. John A. Wheeler, president of the district organization. Mrs. Wheeler also is chairman of the U. S. G. A. national committee, which will supervise the imposing program of women's tournaments in the Chicago district this season.

Dues Cut $2.

Dues of the C. W. D. G. A. were reduced from $5 to $3, a figure which will be given a trial this year. The $5 figure in the past admitted each member to the district tournament. This year, however, members desiring to enter the championship meet will pay a fee of $2.

Following a suggestion by Mrs. Paul Walker of Glen View, the association resolved to conduct a program of relief days for the Red Cross fund.

The reduction of annual dues is expected to attract a number of new members to the association, which is in excellent financial condition, with a good balance in the treasury.

Opens at Edgewood Valley.

The association's schedule will open June 20 at Edgewood Valley, when the Canadian team which will compete in the second international matches will be guests of honor. The district championship will be decided at Skokie July 17-21. A foursome tournament will be held at Flossmoor July 27 and an open event at Northmoor Aug. 25. The intra-district team matches will be held July 7, July 28, and Sept. 28, the courses to be announced later.

When the Western conference tournament is held at Kildeer May 23 and May 24, at least one team will be well drilled on the course. It will be the Northwestern group, which Coach Ted Payseur has been working at Kildeer daily.

Two Chicago professionals—Tommy Armour of Medinah and Jock Hutchison of Glen View—took a busman's holiday yesterday, going over the scene of the national open on June 8, 9, and 10, with Tom Robbins of Park Ridge and Pete Raap of Medinah. They agreed with Alec Cunningham, club professional, that it is in fine shape for the army of professionals and amateurs who will fall upon it in June.

The course will measure 6,927 yards for the open, five tees having been set back. They are the second, sixth, ninth, tenth and fourteenth. New traps will be found at the fourth, tenth and sixteenth.

The Builders' Tee club will hold its second tournament of the season today at Oak Hills. The club also will be the scene of the opening event of the Blue Island Golf association on Friday.

The Northwest Hills Country club, located at Mount Prospect, Ill., 20 miles from the loop, will hold its official opening Saturday.

Laskey Signs with Fox on Levinsky Card

Tiger Jack Fox, Terre Haute, Ind., heavyweight, and Art Laskey of Minneapolis, Minn., signed yesterday to meet in an eight round preliminary to the King Levinsky-Charley Retziaff bout at the Chicago Stadium on May 3. Fox, who defeated Lou Scozza at the Stadium last Friday, returned to Terre Haute last night to condition himself for Laskey. Yesterday he claimed that he couldn't obtain sparring partners here. Laskey sparred several rounds with Ed Wills yesterday at Kid Howard's gymnasium.

Izzy Gastanaga has been offered an eight round match against Salvatore Ruggirello, Italian heavyweight, on the card. Solly King, manager of Gastanaga, is holding the offer in abeyance pending negotiations for a bout with Johnny Risko of Cleveland at New York on May 19. Babe Hunt of Oklahoma City, Okla., was booked to face Risko on that date, but the recent death of Hunt's brother caused Babe to cancel the match.

Harry Dublinsky changed boxing partners yesterday for his eight round match with Danny Delmont at the Cicero arena. He sparred against Jackie Schweitzer, lightweight, and Eddie Stiegal, welterweight. Tony Herrera, whose style is similar to Dublinsky's, again boxed four rounds with Delmont.

Barney Ross accepted terms last night to box Joe Ghnouly, St. Louis lightweight, at St. Louis, Mo., May 3 . . . Roy Williams, south side light heavyweight, has returned from California after six months. . . . Vincent Sereci, New York middleweight, will appear on the next White City card, May 8. . . . Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia heavyweight, has returned to his home. . . . It was learned yesterday that Otto Von Porat will be idle for two weeks because of a bruised right hand. . . . Varias Milling may box at Flint, Mich., May 8.

Carlos [Spike] Herrera, local welterweight, and Johnny Terry are to meet in a five round contest tonight at the Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue. Other matches are: Johnny Fitzpatrick vs. Tod Kelly, Curtis Mills vs. Kid Pancho, Art Donavan vs. Fred Miller, Walter Statkus vs. Chuck Reed.

It's School Day for Horses at ½ Mile Track

Yesterday was school day at Sportsman's Park, the half mile race track at Cicero, which opens an 18 day meeting Monday. Starter Tom Brown and his assistants put more than 50 thoroughbreds through their lessons in starting from the barrier. At Hawthorne another class of 50 pupils reported.

Both tracks were fast, and a number of good workouts were recorded. Very Well, a mare in Ald. John Coughlin's stable, went three-eighths in :37 3-5, and Polynora covered the same distance in :37. Elsenberg, which raced well at New Orleans, breezed half a mile in :52.

Jockey J. McLaren, the leading rider at Sportsman's Park last spring, obtained the first license. Willie Fronk, who will ride for the Hal Price Headley stable, arrived with a shipment of Headley horses.

Among the owners who arrived from Lexington and requested stable room were John Marsch, J. Well, O. E. Pons, S. Rutchick, and A. Van den Ende.

ARRIVE AT AURORA

The demand for stable room at the Aurora race track, intensified by the fact that the eighteen day meeting begins Monday, continued strong yesterday. Four carloads of thoroughbreds arrived from the Lexington meeting which closed Saturday.

There will be more Kentucky horses coming in every day of the week. B. A. Jones has notified Aurora officials that he is shipping twenty-five head from California. Several cars, headed by J. A. Boucher's stable of eight, are en route from New Orleans. Chappel brothers, who wintered their horses near Rockford, are sending ten, with their imported Sherab the best of the lot.

The largest stable that wintered at Aurora is that of Mrs. O. Viau, who has ten horses. Tom Shannon wintered five, and the smaller strings of P. E. O'Keefe, Ed Stedler, Hope Neal, Miss I. D. Smith, and J. T. Oro make up a sizable colony that is ready to race.

Hillsborough and Nyack were among the better known performers arriving with yesterday's Kentucky shipment. Those represented were Frank Seremba with twenty, Tom Flippen with six, Lloyd brothers, J. P. Kubrick, F. H. Carpenter, E. B. Carpenter, J. Vaughn, Bill Hinphy, Miss M. Thompson, L. Dilger, E. F. Lutz, C. E. Garrigan, George Neal, F. E. Crozot, D. C. Scoville, Frank Rand, H. S. Jones, P. O. Anderson, and C. E. Bidencope.

Willie Hoppe of New York won the opening block of the six block 1,500 point cushion carom billiard match for the world's title which opened at the Morrison hotel last night. He defeated Jack Schaefer Jr., 250 to 197, in 48 innings. Hoppe had a high run of 38, which tied the world's record established by G. F. Slosson in the last title match in 1883.

Hoppe was out in front at the end of the tenth inning, 75 to 19, but ten innings later Schaefer tied the score at 98 with a run of 32. In the next eleven innings the lead changed hands six times. At the end of the 31st inning the score was Schaefer, 149; Hoppe, 138.

In the 32d inning Hoppe scored his 38. However, he was credited with only 37 points, losing one on a foul. From then on Hoppe drew away from his opponent. He was aided by another run of 37 in the 36th inning.

The second block of the match will be played tonight at 8:15 o'clock.

Grand National Winner Cost His Buyer One Pound

New York, April 24.—[Special.]—Returning from abroad today with her husband, Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark, millionaire American sportswoman, disclosed that her horse, Kellsboro Jack, winner of the grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, England, last month, cost her only one British pound.

"I bought him two years ago from my husband," Mrs. Clark declared, "because he was superstitious and though he would be unlucky with him. I gave him a pound note for the horse. Neither of us then expected him to win the Grand National."

Leading a large field—34 horses, including one entered by Clark, Kellsboro Jack, who paid 25 to 1 in the betting, won $24,800 of the purse in the British jumping classic.

MEET TODAY TO SETTLE SAVOLDI, SONNENBERG ROW

Representatives of Joe Savoldi and Gus Sonnenberg are to meet today in Doc Krone's office in an attempt to settle an argument over the length of the bout scheduled between the two wrestlers for May 4. A temporary injunction now stands against the state boxing commission's edict forbidding all professional wrestling matches. Judge Lindsay is to decide whether the injunction is to be permanent next Monday.

STARLINGS DRIVE MARTINS OUT OF NESTING BOXES

Bird Fans Despair as Menace Grows.

BY BOB BECKER.

European starlings which are constantly increasing in Chicagoland continue to be the despair of many bird fans who have erected attractive martin houses. The starlings have swooped down upon suburban yards, ousted the martins, and taken over the latter's homes. A number of bird fans have reported this sort of robbery in their back yards and now comes further news about the starling's antics in Whiting, Ind.

A. F. Wilson, scoutmaster of troop 80 of the Boy Scouts of that city writes that a number of outdoor fans in that vicinity have permitted starlings to take over martin boxes in the belief that the alien birds were martins. He writes:

"About a month ago one of my neighbors told me that his martins were already here. As this was about two weeks earlier than I had ever recorded them I went over to see. It didn't surprise me a bit to find that he had two pairs of starlings in the house. They had made themselves at home and had driven everything away. Two years ago I saw my first starling in Whiting. Last year I noted a few permanent residents and got a couple with my .22 rifle.

Drives Out Martins.

"This year, after setting my neighbor right on the birds, I began to look for them. Nearly every martin house in town has one or two pairs. I watched one, a male, from my bedroom window just yesterday morning. He entered every entrance hole in the house, driving out the martins, and actually drove one to the ground. I took a chance and finished him with a gun. That was in the morning. By that evening the female was back with another mate and at once a systematic cleaning out of the martins was started.

"In looking around I found very few people who realized that the birds were not martins. Some, in fact, who had nesting houses which had never before attracted a martin were happy over the fact that at last they had landed some. I am sure that an article telling the vicious habits of these European birds and a complete description of them will do a lot of good."

Becomes Serious Nuisance.

There is no doubt that the starlings, constantly moving into the central states from the east, where they are a pest, are offering serious competition to our desirable native species. We have pointed out in numerous articles during the last year that bird fans will find it necessary to go after the starlings. Bold, well able to care for itself, capable of driving off some of our native species, the starling deserves little consideration.

DERBY HORSES on Parade

BY FRENCH LANE.

If there is to be a Chicago victory in the Kentucky Derby, the job of capturing the big prize appears to be up to Charley O., which races for Mrs. R. M. Eastman.

Although he was far out of the ranks of the leaders as a 2 year old, he is bred to run fast and far, and his victory in the Florida Derby in March, indicated that he was by many pounds the best 3 year old to race in the south during the winter.

Charley O. is by Hourless and out of Clonakity, she by Catmint. So that makes Charley O. a full brother to the illustrious Mike Hall, which has just retired from racing after bringing fame to the Eastman silks.

Shows Distance Ability.

Although beaten in all except two of his races last year, Charley O. was forever finishing with a belated rush, and there is no doubt that the longer distances he will race this year will enable him to show to better advantage.

Charley O. moved to Churchill Downs soon after he rolled up his triumph in the Florida Derby. He will be one horse that will be fit to carry all the speed he possesses over the entire trip of a mile and a quarter on Derby day.

The Chicago colt is trained by Walter Taylor, a noted Kentucky conditioner of horses, who prepared Mike Hall for many of his victories. When it comes to getting a horse ready for one particular engagement, Taylor has few equals. He has a very high opinion of Charley O.

Corbett Likely Rider.

In the saddle on Charley O. in the Derby most likely will be Jockey Charley Corbett. While not as famous as some of the eastern pilots Corbett is a master of his profession. Few mistakes are charged to him and he displays his greatest skill when the most is at stake.

At Top's Time Is 2:14 for the Derby Route

Louisville, Ky., April 24.—[Special.]—At Top, Kentucky Derby candidate from the Nash brothers' farm, went the full route of a mile and a quarter this morning over a slow track in 2:14 and finished pulled up.

At Top worked with North Mill, another Derby eligible but an unlikely starter. At Top covered the quarter in :24, half in :49, three-quarters in 1:15, mile in 1:43 3-5 and mile and eighth in 1:49 3-5.

Another filly, Technique, owned by Hal Price Headley, worked a mile under wraps in 1:44 3-5. When Technique worked the track was fast, but shortly afterward a rain slowed up the course. Working with Village Vamp, Technique was timed at :24 3-5, :50 1-5, 1:16 3-5, and 1:44 3-5.

SENATORS BEAT YANKEES, 11-10; USE 5 PITCHERS

New York Sends Three to Mound in Battle.

Washington, D. C., April 24.—(AP)—Washington traded hit for hit with New York today, but clouted a little harder when hits were needed most to beat the Yankees, 11 to 10. It was New York's second defeat in a row.

Each team banged out 12 hits. The Senators used five pitchers and the Yanks three. Three times the score was tied as the game advanced. The slugging of Joe Kuhel counted much in defeating the Yankees. The Washington first baseman drove in four runs, hitting safely three out of four times at bat for a homer, triple, and single. MICHIGAN ROUTS MOTT; DEFEATS NORMAL, 12 TO 4

Ann Arbor, Mich. April 24.—[Special.]—Michigan bunched hits in three innings to defeat Michigan Normal, 12 to 4, here this afternoon. Art Patchin, sophomore, who was driven from the hill in the first inning by Illinois Saturday, pitched the full game for the Wolverines. Patchin was touched for 12 singles, but he kept them scattered and fanned 11.

The Wolverines landed on Mott for three runs in the first inning and drove him to cover in the fifth. Quinlan, who succeeded him, was hit hard in the sixth. Jack Teitelbaum, Chicago sophomore, led the Michigan attack with a triple and two singles.

McNAMARA HURT IN BIKE RACE AT BOSTON GARDEN

Boston, Mass., April 24.—(AP)—Reggie McNamara, veteran cyclist, was severely injured in the six day bicycle race at the Boston Garden tonight when a board in the newly built track was ripped up in a spill and he rode into it, lacerating his side.

At 10 o'clock tonight, after 24 hours of pedalling, the team of Winter and Duelberg was in the lead with one lap separating them and three other teams, Spencer-Jimmy Walthour, Walker-Beckman, and Dempsey-Sheehan.

Four riders were involved in the spill in which McNamara was hurt. His partner, Harold McNamara, was one of them. Reggie was taken to a hospital.

Swanson walked. Simmons, instead of bunting, walloped a hard liner to center, but it was straight at Averill. Appling was the victim of a high pop to Burnett. Kress should have been disposed of on a grounder to short, but Burnett did his enemies a favor by throwing the ball to the grand stand, Haas scoring and Swanson dashing to third. Dykes wasn't able to move him any farther.

Ferrell had reason to feel himself the victim of his own team mates during the first three innings, but had no room for complaint about the happenings in the fourth. A double play kept him from experiencing something far worse than a two run rally. Grube started the affair with a single to left and was put out along with Frasier when the latter bounced to Cissell for the double play. Then the Sox made a fresh start. Hayes beat out a hit to Kamm and raced around to the plate when Haas drove a double against the right field score board. Then Swanson singled to center to score Haas. Simmons sailed a long fly into Porter's hands.

The second pair of hits off Frasier came in the fifth and developed into an Indian run, making the score 5 to 3. Porter singled to center and scored when Averill banged a hit to right after two were out.

Frasier got himself into a real jam in the seventh, but at exactly the right time his defense rallied behind him and stopped the Indians cold. Spencer opened with a walk after which Ferrell fanned. Spencer hiked to third on another hit by Porter. Burnett followed with a grounder to Kress, who threw to Appling to force Porter. Appling pegged back to Kress to complete a flashy double play.

The collapse of Frasier's attempted comeback in the ninth came when Boss and Kamm singled, putting runners on third and first with none out. Frasier was waved aside without ceremony and Heving called in to reveal his rescuing ability. Spencer sacrificed so as to get Kamm to second, whence he could score the tying run if anybody hit safely. Heving was wild and walked Ferrell, filling the bases. He also threw three straight wide ones to Porter, but finally made the latter hit a grounder at Hayes for a force of Ferrell at second. It scored Boss. Then the show closed with Haas taking in Burnett's fly.

Geoffrey Baker Elected President of Courts Club

Geoffrey Baker, Chicago squash racket player, was elected president of the Courts club at the annual meeting of that organization in the City club last night. Harland C. Stockwell was named vice president, James H. Scott secretary, and Edward N. Lee treasurer. John Danielson is athletic director, and Arthur Stevens, formerly instructor at the Princes club, London, University and H-Y-P clubs of Chicago, is now assisting Mr. Danielson.

Pitching Duel Is Expected Today at Comiskey Park

There may be quite a bit of pitching revealed today in the opener of a three game series with the Tigers at Comiskey park. Sam Jones, who shut out the Detroit gang last week, will attempt to repeat the trick. And Lynwood Schoolboy Rowe, the 21 year old phenom who applied the whitewash to the Sox in the same series, is scheduled to resume where he left off.

Al Simmons says there is nothing to the charge that the magnates secretly slowed down the jackrabbit baseballs to help the pitchers. "Hit 'em right and they'll travel," says the Milwaukee duke. His contention is that the extremely cold weather has deadened the ball. This has been proved many times in the past by hitting a ball after it had been kept in an ice box for 24 hours.

The Sox now can claim all sorts of distinctions. They've won six of their last seven. They're only a fraction of a game behind the leading Yankees. Their pitchers have turned in two three hit games and one of two hits. They've also registered two shutouts.

President Lou Comiskey is giving the ladies a special treat this afternoon. An extra ladies' day has been declared. No tax fee is required.

What a winning team can do in the way of patronage was demonstrated again yesterday. There were more than 5,000 in attendance. Last year the average for a Monday was 1,000.

By trimming Ferrell yesterday the Sox made amends for the treatment he administered them last season. He whipped them five times in six starts.

Kent to Help N. U. Alumni Battle Varsity

Harry Kent, who played guard on Northwestern's football team in 1927 and '28, is the latest recruit to the alumni team, which will meet the Wildcat varsity Saturday afternoon at Dyche stadium. Kent is now a dentist in Chicago.

Pat Hanley, coach of the alumni, welcomed the addition of Kent to his squad as the team to date is rather topheavy with backfield candidates. The line now possesses the following former stars: Luke Johnsos and Dick Fencl, ends; Jack Riley, Tiny Engbretsen, and Bob Gonya, tackles; Jimmy Evans, Harry Kent, Red Woodworth, Henry Anderson, Cliff Kinder, and Joe La Rocque, guards, and Micky Erickson and Bob Clark, centers.

Hank Bruder, who now resides in Green Bay, Wis., sent word yesterday that he plans to commute to Evanston several times this week to work out with the old grads. Hank was captain of the Northwestern team in 1930. He and Pug Rentner will be at the half back positions Saturday.

To match this array Coach Hanley will present a varsity team composed of veterans and freshmen. Prominent among the freshmen ball carriers who will be seen in action are Bud Gonya, brother of Bob Gonya, last year's tackle; Chuck Duval, Hugh Murningham, Ralph Mack, and Stan Mondela, former Chicago high school stars; Fred Hedblom and Stew Merril of Evanston; Walter Crulce of Milwaukee, and Bob Schwartz of Oak Park.

Phillies Whip Braves, 6 to 5, in 12 Innings

Philadelphia, Pa., April 24.—(AP)—Pinch Hitter Al Todd broke up a twelve inning game today with a single to left with the bases full, bringing home the run that gave the Phillies a 6 to 5 victory over the Boston Braves. The Phils' relief catcher went into the game after Hal Lee's double, a walk to Spud Davis, Mickey Finn's sacrifice bunt and another pass issued to Jackie Warner.

With three and two on the batter, Ben Cantwell, Boston relief pitcher, offered a high, fast one which Todd hammered into the outfield. The Phillies had tied the score at 5 all in the ninth. Score:

Peoria, Ill., April 24.—[Special.]—Chicago women bowlers rolling in the women's international bowling congress here today took two positions among the leaders in the doubles, but failed in the singles.

M. Brignall and M. Konen, members of the White City quintet, shot 1,127 for first place in the doubles, while H. Foell and M. Schroeder hit for 1,032 and seventh place.

New York, April 24.—Bond averages moved forward for the fifth consecutive day on the impetus of advances of from one to five points in speculative issues.

Rail, utility, and industrial issues all figured in the gains, which were spectacular in some instances. Trading was heavy, although falling short of the record sessions last week.

Western Union bonds spurted from one to six points, reflecting the substantial improvement which occurred in the company's March business. Operations were believed to be in the black, compared with substantial deficits in earlier months.

Utility Bonds Less Sought.

Some other speculative utility bonds followed suit, although the majority of issues in this group were bought less eagerly than the rails and industrials. Bonds of American and Foreign Power and International Telephone were active at rising prices.

Railroad bonds gave another stellar performance in their rôle as the most volatile issues in the bond list.

High-grade bonds, including United States governments, showed the greatest stability since the upswing began early last week. Motivating the buying is the belief that any inflation movement would be accompanied by large scale buying of treasury securities, a development which would aid all prime issues.

Institutions in Market.

Traders specializing in prime issues reported an increasing amount of institutional inquiry, indicating that some buyers regard the present level inviting for selective commitments.

Treasury note issues were in demand, with some of the buying attributed to the federal reserve system. Short term issues generally were firm.

Mutual Life Insurance.

Will you please send me the latest information on Mutual Life of Baltimore? I have a policy with the company.—G. O.

Mutual Life Insurance company of Baltimore was established as a mutual company in 1980. In 1928 it converted to the stock basis. The company writes a substantial amount of industrial business.

The 1932 statement lists bonds and stocks at Dec. 31, 1932, market values. These are in most instances lower than the convention value generally being used by insurance companies.

The balance sheet at the close of 1932 showed cash of $699,000, bonds of $8,562,000, stocks of $574,000 and policy loans of $504,000. Collateral loans on marketable securities amounted to $1,231,000, first mortgages $3,811,000, home office properties $1,082,000 and other real estate acquired $366,000.

In addition to net legal reserve, capital and surplus amounted to $2,440,000.

STOCKS FORGE AHEAD DESPITE PROFIT TAKING

Trading Is Calmer; Gains Limited.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 24.—Wall street continued to be a very cheerful community today as the stock market pursued its course toward higher price levels, although the advance was at a somewhat reduced pace, all things considered.

Professional traders and the public alike were still apparently anxious to prepare for inflation before the administration's program progresses much further, the sudden congressional check nothwithstanding.

Another heavy accumulation of overnight orders on the buying side enabled the list to start the new week with a forward sprint. Prices ruled from 1 to 3 points above previous closing levels until around mid-morning, when sales for profits developed. This breach in the advance continued until late in the afternoon, when profit taking was renewed.

Gains Are Cut Down.

The final recession proved to be the most serious check to the list as a whole. The close was considerably under the best, with gains among the so-called standard issues ranging from fractions to about 2 points, while here and there a small recession appeared.

Of particular interest was the ease with which the market absorbed profit taking. In this the list was aided greatly by the vigorous rise in commodity and other outside markets.

From the start the market was again active and broad, although a turnover of somewhat under five million shares removed the session out of the class of a couple of last week's markets. At frequent intervals the ticker again proved inadequate and fell as much as ten minutes behind actual transactions on the floor.

Large Blocks Traded.

Additional large blocks of stock changed hands at the opening. For instance, the first trade in Standard Oil of New Jersey was for 11,000 shares at 34½, up ½ point, and United States Steel started with a gain of 1¼ points on 8,000 shares.

Individual issues were singled out for special strength in the last hour. Of prominence were American Telephone, General Motors, and United States Steel. The first two closed up more than a point and the latter was higher on the day by a large fraction.

In the face of persistent profit taking, however, the movement was not strong enough to bring about a resumption of the earlier upward trend.

Aviation shares came in for considerable attention in the late rally. On big turnovers Aviation corporation closed fractionally higher and United Aircraft accumulated almost 2 points on the day.

New 1933 Tops Registered.

The advance lifted many representative shares into new high ground, including Allied Chemical, American Can, Borden, Case, Du Pont, Loose-Wiles, National Biscuit and Reynolds Tobacco.

Late weakness in mining shares was characterized by a break of more than 10 points in Homestake.

Oils were as much in favor as any other group, with general gains of 1 to 2 points on large turnovers. Their best prices were the highest for the year or longer. Leaders were Standard of New Jersey, Texas corporation and Socony-Vacuum.

New highs were frequently found among the rails on gains of fractions to more than 2 points. Norfolk and Western was the star performer of the entire list with a net advance of 6¼ on a scanty turnover. From the standpoint of activity and consistent strength, however, New York Central was outstanding.

The best spots in a generally strong utility section were American Telephone and Peoples Gas, with gains of 2 or more points at the top.

AVIATION CORP. REPORTS ITS FIRST PROFIT

The Aviation corporation and subsidiary companies reports for March the first net profit in the organization's history.

"After all charges of every description applicable to its business," Aviation corporation and subsidiaries earned a profit of $14,805.66 last month, L. B. Manning, president, announced yesterday at the directors' meeting in Chicago.

For the three months ending March 31, 1933, however, the company showed a loss of $57,408, compared with a loss of $823,873 for the first three months of 1932.

How Inflation Affects Man in the 'Street'

With inflation, booming markets, and newspaper stories of big profits being made in the stock and grains markets La Salle street is rapidly regaining its popularity among panhandlers.

Until a few days ago almost any broker could shame a panhandler by turning his pockets inside out. It is reported of at least one of these encounters that the panhandler became so sorry for the broker he offered to buy him a cup of coffee. So the popularity of the "street" waned among panhandlers during the long months in which the markets were in the doldrums. But now the entrance to the board of trade and the stock exchange are the gathering places for persons hoping to make a touch.

One prominent broker was asked what he thought of inflation.

"I have to like it. It's my business. But I have my private doubts," he replied.

The attitude is fairly typical. Just the talk of inflation has poured thousands of dollars in commissions into the pockets of brokers who for months have been straining to carry heavy overhead with little income.

The attitude of the salaried employés of the banks and brokerage houses is one of mixed anxiety and relief. The inflation markets have made their jobs secure for a while at least, but they fear the day when they will have to stretch the pay check to buy the necessities of life at inflated prices.

The wild markets of the last few days have been a real aid to employment in La Salle street.

"I think inflation is great," exclaimed one brokerage clerk who was back at work yesterday after months of idleness. "Anticipation of inflation has put me back to work and I think that is will be only a short time until it will mean more employment in other lines. 'Sound money' doesn't mean much to a person like me who hasn't seen any kind of a pay envelope in nearly a year."

William Cavens, an employé of Ettinger & Brand, who talks to many persons in La Salle street daily, said that he found confidence everywhere that prices would continue to go up.

"I am glad to see stocks higher but I am worried a little about what price of cabbages is going to do," he said. "I'll get along, though."

Bankers generally have been cautious in commenting on the administration's inflation plans. The American Banker, trade magazine, however, has its doubts and speaks out loud.

"One taste of inflation has already affected us nationally, like strong drink on an empty stomach," it says. "It will be very difficult not to get drunk, very drunk." The real test will come, it adds, when the time for readjustment and stabilization arrives.

DETROIT BANKS BEGIN PAYING OF DEPOSITORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., April 24.—Two national banks, closed two months ago at the beginning of the bank holiday, today told those of the 800,000 depositors whose last name begins with either A, B or C, that 30 per cent of their money was available and for them to come and get it.

The payoff at the First National Bank-Detroit, and the Guardian National indicated that Detroit's business and industrial life is going to be immediately quickened by the release of 47 million dollars this week. Within the first hour of opening it was estimated that 5,000 depositors had been given checks which were cashed at the New National bank of Detroit.

By noon every retail merchant in the loop district was feeling the effects of the payouts, many of them calling in extra clerks to accommodate customers.

Tomorrow, and every day this week, and probably next week will be a repetition of today. Tomorrow the fortunates will be those whose names begin with either D or E.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

New high levels for the season were established for the nearby futures of wheat, corn and oats and all deliveries of rye Monday, and a liberal part of the upturn was maintained in the face of heavy profit taking. Buying of wheat was persistent and largely in small amounts, which was taken as evidence that the public was in the market on a big scale and sufficient to absorb all offerings and close the market within a fraction of the top.

Inflation talk was again the dominating influence and routine news was ignored except for a brief period. A distinctly more conservative attitude toward the buying side was noticable in trade gossip, but this apparently did not deter outsiders and every break was followed by a rally.

July wheat opened as high as 70¾ cents, dropped to around 69½ cents, rose to 70⅞ cents and then reacted to 69 cents, the same as Saturday's finish. A closing rally, however, carried the price back to 70⅛ to 70⅜ cents.

Wheat Closes Near Top.

The wide swings in the wheat market were regarded as a reflection of continued profit taking on the bulges and renewed public buying on the breaks. At the top the nearby futures showed 26¼ to 27⅛ cents above the season's low, with the May up 22⅜ cents from the close on March 2. The nearby futures showed the most strength, gaining around ½ cent on the July. Net gains for the day were 1⅜ to 1⅞ cents, with May closing at 69⅝ to 69¾ cents; July, 70⅛ to 70⅜ cents, and September, 71½ to 71¾ cents.

Foreign wheat markets failed to follow the sharp upturn in North America on Saturday, but Liverpool was 1¾ to 2⅜ cents higher. Winnipeg was up 1⅜ to 1⅝ cents, while Buenos Aires gained 1 to 1⅜ cents and Berlin was 1 to 1⅝ cents higher. Paris declined ⅛ to ⅝ cents.

Longs Sell Corn Futures.

The country yesterday took profits on 235,000 bushels of cash corn, which had been held back on farms for many weeks, and the grain sold at the highest figures of the season. Many farmers were credited with obtaining 15 cents or more a bushel above what they would have received less than two months ago. Futures were unsettled, with profit taking on the advances and support on the breaks, but with the finish ⅞ to 1¼ cents higher. May closed at 36⅝ to 36⅞ cents, while July was 39¼ to 39½ cents, and September was 41¾ to 41¼ cents.

Regardless of weather conditions, it is expected there will be a decrease in the oats acreage this season owing to the unusual delay in seeding. There was no material pressure on the market and futures gained ¼ to ¾ cent for the day. Rye was ⅝ to 1¼ cents higher. Barley was up ⅝ to 1¼ cents.

STANDARD OIL CO. USES NEW MOTOR OIL PROCESSES

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana yesterday made known, in connection with the announcement of a new motor oil, that two new processes of oil refining had been developed. As the result of adoption of the processes, for which patent applications have been made, the company is undertaking an advertising and sales campaign for the new motor oil and at the same time reducing prices 5 cents a quart.

The first process, known as "propane dewaxing," consists of a new method of completely removing paraffin wax from lubricating oils by dissolving them in liquefied gases at pressures up to 200 pounds per square inch. The pressure is gradually reduced, allowing part of the liquefied gases to boil off. This chills the solution to about 40 degrees below zero and forces all the wax to crystallize. The wax is then removed by filtering in huge presses.

The second process, known as "chlorex extraction," utilizes a new solvent, dichloroethyl ether, for the complete removal from basic stock of all but the elements best suited to lubrication purposes.

Higher Income Taxes Yield Less Revenue

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 24.—Failure of the new high federal income tax rates was revealed today when the treasury department announced that in spite of the heavier levy it had collected 16 million dollars less last month than a year ago under the old low rates.

March income tax collections, the first made on 1932 incomes, brought in only $176,259,367, compared with $192,703,281 during the same month a year ago.

Corporation Taxes Lower.

The big slump in the income tax was caused by declines in the taxes paid by corporations. Individuals paid $108,674,502 in income taxes last month, $19,390,518 more than they paid a year ago under lower rates. The corporation taxes fell off $35,834,432, however, to a total of $67,584,865, leaving a net decline of $16,443,913 in income tax collections of all kinds.

Beer taxes were just the foam on the treasury's tax collections last month. Levies on beer, brewers and dealers yielded $720,808 during March out of total internal revenue collections of $242,464,364, the treasury announced. The big flow of beer and taxes from it did not start until the first week in April, it was pointed ou.

Beer Taxes Prior to April 1.

The $702,300 which was collected from beer itself last month represents about 140,500 barrels which were run from vats to bottling works prior to March 31. The remaining $18,508 collected came from the taxes on brewers and dealers.

Failure of the income tax almost canceled all the gain which the treasury had made through 24 nuisance taxes, the gift tax and the beer taxes. These additional taxes, all imposed in the last year, yielded a total of $29,494,000 last month. Declines in the income tax and other old taxes cut down this increase until there was a net increase of only 10 million dollars over collections for March last year.

FIGURES OF 1926 SHOW WHAT INFLATION MAY DO TO PRICES OF GOODS

What it is possible for inflation to do to commodity prices in the United States may be visualized by a comparison of present values and the prices prevailing in 1926, which is considered a "normal year." Below is compilation of present prices as shown by 19 indices as compared with the 1926 average which was made by Jackson Bros., Boesel & Co.:

United States Fidelity Co. Cuts Expenses and Losses

E. Ashbury Davis, president of the United States Fidelity and Guarantee company, announced yesterday that expenses in the first quarter were $650,000 below the corresponding period last year. Losses were approximately $2,000,000 below the same period in 1932. Addition to surplus was $72,584.

Allied Chem. Holders Fail to Gain Data

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 24.—Stockholders of the Allied Chemical and Dye corporation demanded unsuccessfully at today's annual meeting that the corporation give more complete information on its security holdings and its operations in the annual reports.

James W. Gerard, former United States ambassador to Germany, voiced a number of requests for greater detail and registered his opposition to the formal approval of the report. He was backed by others, including the representative of an investment trust.

Mr. Gerard suggested that the corporation could give much additional information that would be of no value to competitors but would be helpful to investors. He asked how much of the item of $92,404,341 of "United States government and other marketable securities" in current assets was in United States government bonds, how much in other securities and whether they were at cost or market. The depreciation in value was stated later in the meeting.

He inquired whether the company paid any bonuses and what the salaries of high officials were. He was informed that no bonuses were paid and information on salaries was withheld.

Shareholders also requested that the corporation be more detailed in its income account, showing separately such items as depreciation. Earnings are stated in the last report as "gross income after provision for depreciation, obsolescence, all state and local taxes, repairs and renewals," and then after federal taxes, net income.

The objectors were told that there would be no change.

Marketable securities of Allied Chemical and Dye corporation had a market value of about 28 million dollars less than the cost of $92,404,341 at which they were carried in current assets on Dec. 31, stockholders were informed at the meeting.

Dollar Drops in War Among Gold Moneys

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 24.—The dollar weakened against European currencies again today, falling to 89 cents in terms of the gold franc from 92 at Saturday's close. Signs were, however, that the duel of the currencies were centering much more upon the French franc than upon the dollarfi with banks of Holland, possibly also of other gold countries, selling the franc to support their own currencies.

Governors of the national banks of Switzerland, Belgium, and Holland have announced their determination to defend the gold parities of their currencies and to support their exchange rates by shipping gold to the Bank of France. French officials reaffirmed their determination to maintain the gold parity of the franc.

Franc Buying Strong.

There was a great deal of activity in sterling and francs in the New York market, with Holland apparently selling francs and the French buying them here against sales of dollars. Buying of francs was substantial and apparently backed by ample funds. The franc advanced 13 points to 4.39 and was held at that figure.

There was also heavy buying of sterling against dollars and presumably also against francs, with the result that the pound rose 5½ cents to $3.88. It ranged last week between $3.45 and $3.92.

As a result of the support of the guilder by Dutch banks and probably by the national bank, it started 94 points higher at .4450 and closed at the day's high of .4460. Swiss francs also were up more than half a cent, indicating support from that country. Belgian belgas and German marks also gained 20 and 35 points.

Dollar on Sidelines.

The dollar appears to be sitting on the sidelines for the moment while a lively conflict is on between the speculative traders of Europe and the governments and national banks of the gold countries, the outcome of which may be to determine whether their currencies shall remain on gold.

The probable course of exchange in the near future is entirely a matter of guesswork, bankers said today. Its future, in the view of most financial observers, depends entirely upon the government's decision and not, so far as the immediate outlook is concerned, upon the balance of trade or the gold holdings of the country. Europe continues to be bearish.

CANADA ADMITS IT HAS GONE OFF GOLD STANDARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., April 24.—Finance Minister Edgar N. Rhodes admitted to parliament today that Canada has suspended redemption of dominion notes in gold and thus has taken the final step in departure from the gold standard.

Canada actually has been off the gold standard since October, 1931, when gold exports were prohibited except under license. Treasury heads describe the latest action as correcting "an anomaly." They say the Canadian dollar should not be affected on foreign exchanges and that it should not in any way affect Canadian-American trade conditions.

Canada's law in respect of gold coverage for dominion notes issued has not been altered, so there is no provision for currency inflation. Canada, it was declared, has 42 per cent gold reserves.

REGAINING OLD DOLLAR-POUND RATIO, U. S. TASK

Report of British Accord Boosts Prices.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Rising stocks and falling dollars yesterday greeted the news from Washington that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister MacDonald were thinking alike in the matter of readjusting world currencies on a basis of reduced gold content.

True, the French were exhibiting indignation at the Anglo-American intent to deflower the gold standard. Former Premier Herriot studied the situation in a Washington hotel while his British and American friends went boat riding on the Potomac, spoke guardedly of "accepting coöperation in principle," but from his camp continued to come anonymous eulogies of sound money and the gold standard, apparently intended for home consumption.

Believe France Must Agree.

In Wall and La Salle streets, however, where the boys are adept at filtering the diplomatic utterances of visiting statesmen, the feeling yesterday was that if the United States and Great Britain agree on a program of currency revaluation, it's all over but the shouting.

Something like half the business of the world is done in sterling and a large part of the other half is done in American dollars. What Great Britain and the United States do, therefore, sets the pace for most of the world.

If it was impossible for the United States and France and a handful of smaller nations to withstand the pressure of the depreciated currencies of the rest of the world, then is it possible for France alone to remain isolated?

The traders of the world apparently don't think so. Yesterday most of the bombardment in the foreign exchange markets was directed against the franc. Banks in Holland and other small nations still on the gold standard sold francs heavily to protect their own currencies.

Dollar Again Declines.

The American dollar, unlike the franc, being cut loose from a fixed gold value, continued to fall in foreign exchange transactions. It was selling at 89 cents in terms of French gold, compared with 92 cents at Saturday's close.

Yesterday's sizable advance in stocks and commodities was interpreted as a reflection of this further cheapening of the dollar in foreign exchange. If the dollar is to be worth less than formerly then it's logical to assume that it will take more of it to buy a share of stock or a bushel of oats or potatoes.

Furthermore—and this is probably significant—the public is in the market in a big way. Yesterday was almost another five million share day on the New York Stock exchange and the volume of trading on the Chicago Board of Trade was again heavy. Ever since the official abandonment of the gold standard early last week sales of stocks and commodities have been so large that there has been no doubt

HOGS AND LAMBS RISE STRONGLY; CATTLE HIGHER

Lighter Receipts Bring Boon to Yards.

After a week of burdensome supplies, live stock receipts yesterday fell off abruptly to the lowest figures for a Monday in more than a month. Members of the trade attributed the decrease to the favorable weather for field work and also to the hope in the country that the inflation plan may bring a gradual rise in the value of meat animals.

Hogs and lambs swung into a rather sharp advance, while cattle sold at steady to 15 cents higher prices. Buying of live stock carried more "snap" and markets went briskly forward when relieved of the pressure of receipts. Some believe inflation may reach into the live stock markets through the wholesale meat trade, where business was reported livelier and trading more inclined to be influenced by bullish news. All live stock and meats still are selling lower than they were at the high point of 1933.

Hogs Go to $4.15.

The action in hogs was the best seen here in months, barring one of two exciting sessions immediately following the declaration of the banking holiday early in March. Gains of 10 to 30 cents were scored during the day, the extreme top going up 30 cents to the $4.15 line, the highest it has been since March 24. The general average for the day was boosted 25 cents to $3.70. Current hog quotations are 15 to 20 cents above a year ago, but they still are 25 cents under the peak of the post-moratorium advance when markets touched the highest levels since last September.

Only six days in the last seven months are credited with a higher level of quotations than those in vogue yesterday. It was the first day in a long time that prices managed to get above a year ago.

Heat a Drag in Cattle.

Considering the plain quality of cattle and the liberal water fills, some scales showed more advance than was indicated in the prices. The weather was warm and this caused live stock to drink more than an ordinary amount of water. However, packers were willing to overlook this when the decrease of 20 per cent in receipts spurred buying.

A consignment of 1,029 pound Nebraska yearlings to Swift at $7.00 established the day's top, which was equal to the highest in more than a month. The 1933 peak stands at $7.50, while on the corresponding day in 1932 top steers were sold at $7.75. Some unevenly higher prices were paid in the medium and heavy grades of steers. Prime 1,388 pound averages brought $6.15. A number of 1,400 to 1,500 pound averages were sold at $4.75 to $5.75, while a shipment averaging 1,700 pounds fetched $4.50. Cows and heifers strengthened after a slow opening, with the latter finishing 15 to 25 cents higher.

Lambs Up 25 to 40 Cents.

The 25 to 40 cents bulge in the lamb market carried prices to the highest levels in four weeks and 50 to 70 cents above the low point of the season two weeks ago. Top for wooled lambs to eastern packers at $6.10 stood within 30 cents of the highest level since the middle of February. The general level of prices is lower than a year ago.

Top lambs sold at $6.90 on the corresponding day in 1932. Local packers yesterday bought wooled lambs at $6.00 and under, getting prime 94 pound shorn stock at $5.50.

REGAINING OLD DOLLAR-POUND RATIO, U. S. TASK

Report of British Accord Sends Prices Up.

about the extent of participation by the public.

Rise Benefits Workers.

All these people who have been trading in stocks and commodities, the employés and stockholders of firms and corporations benefiting from rising values, the farmers and miners who produce the commodities, and many others have been given a taste of prosperity. It is not considered likely that politicians will take any action that would result in a return to the process of deflation which was interrupted by abandonment of the gold standard.

The program now being outlined by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister MacDonald, it is believed, would necessitate a return to the gold standard in a modified degree. That is necessary if something like permanent stability is to be attained.

Much, therefore, depends upon the relationship between sterling and the dollar under the revised setup. When America abandoned the gold standard the ratio between the pound and the dollar was about 3.46 to 1—that is, the pound was worth about $3.46 in international exchange.

Old Ratio to Help U. S.

Obviously, acceptance of a new gold standard or any other fixed relationship under which the ratio would be 3.46 to 1 would be decidedly disadvantageous to the United States, which would be no better off in competing for foreign trade than it had been before last week.

When both the dollar and the pound were on a gold basis and at par the ratio was approximately 4.86 to 1. Therefore, in order to get back some of the advantage that America lost after Great Britain left the gold standard in October, 1931, President Roosevelt and his helpers must raise the ratio from 3.46 to 1 to something more closely approximating 4.86 to 1.

Either the dollar must become cheaper or the pound dearer, which are simply two ways of saying the same thing.

Already much headway has been made. The pound, which was worth $3.46 in terms of American money just a week ago yesterday was worth $3.88. This could not have happened if President Roosevelt had not cut loose from the gold standard last week, because the British $750,000,000 "equalization fund" was being used to keep the ratio just where the British wanted it.

Think British Pegged Dollar.

It was the British, in fact, who were credited with having pegged the dollar in foreign exchange after the bank holiday last month. When the President put the ban on gold exports, however, the British had to run for cover because even a $750,000,000 equalization fund could take a bad licking in a free for all.

If the ratio between sterling and the dollar wasn't the subject of conversation between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister MacDonald on the boat ride up the Potomac it certainly will be the subject later on, because the whole question of world trade depends upon the future relation between sterling and the dollar.

Meanwhile, the President is demonstrating that he has learned something from European diplomacy. The Roosevelts greet the MacDonalds bareheaded and the first lady scrambles eggs for the visitors. This is what the Kappa Sigs during pledging season used to call "making the freshman feel at home." In London they try to do it by presentations at court.

COMMUTERS ASK I. C. C. TO REDUCE ERIE FARES 40%

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 24.—A forty per cent reduction in existing commutation passenger fares charged by the Erie railroad between New York city and points in New Jersey and New York was demanded by Oscar Blomquist on behalf of the Metropolitan League of Erie Commuters in a complaint filed today with the interstate commerce commission.

Protesting against the present level of rates which, it said, was entirely out of line with commodity price and commuter income declines, the complaint said the new fares that became effective on Jan. 1 already had cost the 30,000 commuters involved a total of $200,000 above the former rates and that they would be "unjustly and unreasonably compelled to pay an additional $400,000 before the first of January, 1934."
